THE LEIDIG HOUSE, on its way to its new location, turns left onto Sixth Avenue after being carried off its lot on San Carlos between Fifth and Sixth. The house has served as the Carmel office of Monterey Savings and Loan since 1974. It was moved last week to a location at Torres and Second to become a private residence once again. The house had to be sawed in two to squeeze through the narrow streets on its route to its new home. For more photographs of the move, turn to pages 12-13. (George T.C. Smith photo)

National Bank of Carmel proposed

A LOCAL GROUP that unsuccessfully sought a state charter last year to form the new Bank of Carmel has applied for a federal charter.

The group's application was denied by the California Superintendent of Banks on Oct. 3, 1979.

The proposed National Bank of Carmel would be a full-service bank located on the Leidig property at the northwest corner of San Carlos and Seventh. A Mobil gas station now occupies the site.

The organizers of the proposed bank decided to file for a federal charter because of the "substantial amount of support received by the group after the announcement of application for a state charter," according to attorney George Walker, one of the organizers.

Original capitalization is expected to be $2.5 million, with shares available at $20 each.

WALKER TOLD THE Pine Cone that there is little difference in the procedures for federal and state bank charters.

"One good point is that FDIC (Federal Depositor's Insurance Corp.) automatically accompanies a federal charter," Walker said. He said that a state-chartered bank must make a separate application for FDIC coverage.

FDIC guarantees the security of a bank customer's deposit to $40,000.

JACK BROLLIER, DEPUTY superintendent of banks for California, said last October that "basically, economic factors caused us to deny the Bank of Carmel application."

"We found after gathering deposit figures for the Carmel area for the past five years that the rate of growth in Carmel has not kept pace with the rate of inflation. This consequently does not justify the opening of a new bank," Brollier said.

Brollier also cited a probable high percentage of time deposits at the proposed bank as a "negative factor leading to the denial."

At the time, Brollier was not optimistic about the bank's plans for reapplication. Brollier said that the growth in new accounts opened would have to reach about 15 percent. For the past five years, Carmel's annual account growth has been around 8-9 percent.

Walker said that the organizers of the bank decided to go ahead with plans to apply for a federal charter after the state denial.

"The support and enthusiasm for a locally owned bank increased after we received notice of the (state charter) rejection," Walker said.

ORGANIZERS OF THE bank are:

Glenn R. Callahan, real estate agent and former Wells

Fargo Bank loan officer;

Kenneth C. Goold, Carmel business property owner and investor;

Zigmunt J. LeTowt III, Carmel business property owner and restaurateur;

Carroll M. McKee, president of the Pine Inn;

Robert G. Morris, dentist, business property owner and investor;

Clayton Neill Jr., engineer and business property owner;

Robert Talbott, president, Robert Talbott Corp.;

Isabel B. Tostevin, public accountant and Carmel business property owner;

J.O. Tostevin, accountant and Carmel business property owner;

George R. Walker, lawyer; and,

Alan William, building designer and general contractor.

THE ORIGINAL BANK of Carmel was founded in 1923. It operated on the northeast corner of Ocean and Dolores before it was sold to Crocker Bank in 1959. The original site is now leased by David Hughes for his David shop.

The group would be able to use the name "Bank of Carmel" because Crocker Bank apparently did not protect the use of the name after it purchased the bank.

Williams, an organizer who designed the proposed building, will also construct it. He said it would be a "pleasing" structure made of stone and wood.

Letters

Letters to the editor are welcome. While there is no limit on the number of words, brevity is encouraged. Letters are subject to editing for length and style, but without changing the intent of the letter writer. Viewpoints on all matters are acceptable following the guidelines of good taste. Anonymous letters are not acceptable, but names may be withheld upon request.

Better use of water

Dear Editor:

The water management district deserves public support in its efforts to make sure that there is an adequate water supply for residents of the Peninsula area.

The district board is not only looking for ways to increase water supply, but is also taking steps to assure equitable distribution of the existing supply.

Acting under the powers granted by the Water Management District Law, the board is in the process of adopting an ordinance to regulate distribution systems and allot water among the cities and the county so that each jurisdiction will have a fair share for new development. Development can then be limited if it becomes necessary to keep demand from exceeding supply.

The board is also setting up a well-monitoring program which will provide data on groundwater quality and production. This, combined with other studies, will give better figures than are now available as to how much water there is and how much is presently used from private wells as well as from the Cal-Am system.

Bring back the trains

Dear Editor:

Trains, not dirty planes, must be the workhorse for moving people within California in the new era of energy nightmares.

Rail passenger service will reduce costly OPEC addiction, air and noise pollution, as well as congestion. And rail isn't a nostalgic step backwards, but a big jump towards energy security for all. Even our tourist trade will catch more fickle fun-loving sardines with the much safer rail net.

But above all, rail will stop ever-spreading aviation from turning California into one super-aircraft carrier, bent on wrecking our cities. Rail will help heal the terrible wounds already inflicted by aviation.

Last year the French carried over 700 million passengers on their railroad network while consuming only 1 percent of France's energy. These statistics are intended to prod Southern Pacific to look up for a moment from their bottom line and start railroading for people.

California, with half the population of France, is ripe for rail. It's time for SP to compete aggressively against deregulated aviation. Such competition must include putting passenger trains for Monterey back on the tracks.

You'll know you're winning the energy.

A letter from Gwen

Dear Ben:

Sharpen your wits my friend. Here are my entries for your "Game of the Name."

No match-ups, I'll leave that to you. Incidentally, I had one heckuva time matching yours!

For council: the Lecturer, the Fence-Sitter, the Question Mark, the Gadfly, the Thinker and the Popinjay.

For mayor: the Bastion and the Snoozer. And as per your request for a name for Howard, most of the ones I thought of were unprintable. However, the Bedazzler seems to fit. The dictionary definition, "To dazzle so as to blind or confuse," seems accurate enough to me.

IN ONE EAR

Overheard in a local pub.

Real Estate Salesperson: I assure you the house is a steal at $300,000. Right location, ocean view, within walking distance of both war when seagulls depart from Monterey railroad station and move over to our airport runways. You can help push SP on to the fast track if you nail politicians to rail before you vote.

Take a look around

Dear Editor:

Last week a letter was submitted saying that Arthur Strum was the only good student in the entire high school.

Now I grant you Art is ASB president, all-league in three sports, has a 4.0 grade point average and will probably be this year's senior class valedictorian.

But Art is not by himself. More students have gotten into Stanford University (if you haven't heard of it, it is a little north of here) from Carmel High than from Robert Louis Stevenson. I know of at least 12 friends of mine who are applying there this year. Plus many other top schools like Brown, Duke, Smith, Wellesley, Harvard and all the UCs.

There is a class of calculus with 21 students who have an excellent teacher who had the same class last year and had every student pass the advance placement test.

I agree that there are students who may drink, but every high school in the nation has students who may drink.

So if you think that all every Carmel High School student does is cruise and consume booze like you say, I think you better pull your head out of where the sun never shines and take a look around!

Why turnout poor

Dear Editor:

Last week the Carmel Sanitary District held a public hearing to receive comments on the Carmel Valley/Carmel Highlands Area Wide Facilities Plan and Environmental Impact Report.

The turnout was poor; less than 100 people attended. The poor attendance is not too surprising, as the hearing was held in neither Carmel Valley nor the Highlands, but in Carmel.

Following a brief slide presentation outlining the proposed project, we broke up into small groups of 15 to 20 for one hour of discussion. I hardly believe one person could adequately present his viewpoint on complex wastewater issues in one hour, let alone 15 to 20 people discussing two diverse geographical areas.

I would suggest two additional public hearings be held, one in Carmel Valley and one in the Highlands, with more time allocated for comment. For a project in excess of $50 million, I think the public deserves a better chance to be heard.

VNA praised

Dear Editor:

A letter in the Pine Cone of Jan. 24 with reference to the excellent services rendered by the Visiting Nurses Association, impels me to add my voice in appreciation of the kind attention received by me when I needed daily help in recovering from a serious accident.

Among others, Wanda Lockwood and Marylyn Dollak, gave excellent care over many weeks.

I shall always remember with gratitude their kindness and courteous attention.

the beach and the village. It just needs a little fixing up.

Prospective Buyer: It does sound good, but can you tell me just how much work needs to be done?

Real Estate Salesperson: Verry little. All it needs are bathrooms and stairs to the second floor.

A POEM

I dedicate the following to all those who have picked up their papers.

The perils of running for office are very real.

Some liken it to slipping on a banana peel.

View through a Grapestake Fence

by Ben

ONE TIME-HONORED American tradition is our ability to laugh at ourselves. If this weren't true, then Will Rogers and Bob Hope would never have been a success.

Americans have always been able to see the funny side, especially when it comes to politics.

But there are some things about politics that aren't funny and one of them is running for office as a lark.

Our basic freedom is the right of each citizen to vote for the person of our own choice. Another freedom is to be able to stand up and say, "I'm willing to devote my time and energy to represent each of you in the daily task of government."

Those are the key words—"to represent you." And they mean, "to act and speak for you."

When we vote for an individual, we expect him/her to do just that, to speak and act in our stead. And we want someone who will take the job seriously and be responsible for his/her actions to us.

Running for public office is one of the most serious decisions that can be made. It is not an ego trip. It is a responsibility of choice, to be thought out carefully before the decision is made.

Your time is no longer your own. It is the people's. Your choice is no longer your own, it is the people's. Your decisions are no longer your own, they must be the people's.

Running for public office is no laughing matter. And to do so for a laugh is to be sardonic and sarcastic about the entire system.

When I want responsible government, I'll go to the voting booth and cast my ballot for a responsible person to represent us.

When I want to see a clown, I'll go to the circus.

IT IS MANDATORY for the Carmel City Council to have at least one woman on it. The reasons are obvious. There are too many women in Carmel for them not to be represented. A woman (thank God) thinks differently than a man. She is able to go to the heart of a problem without getting side-tracked by seemingly important issues and can "nit-pick" to find the facts that are sometimes lost by men, or more usually, glossed over. To paraphrase Gershwin: "A Woman Is An All-time Thing."

FIRSTHAND KNOWLEDGE means that you acquire information from the original source. It does not mean using as an encyclopedia any passing acquaintance or stranger who is free with "information."

What we need more councilmen who study the facts presented to them; who weigh the possible solutions and base their decisions on how they will benefit the largest majority of the population, not one "side" or the other "faction." Hooray for Helen!

I KNOW THAT YOU all know it (or should), but I still say that it bears repeating. If it weren't for Howard Brunn's understanding of the immensity of the problem with the staff at City Hall, and his return from Arizona to cast his vote, this city would now be in the most reprehensible circumstances. In fact, it probably wouldn't be functioning at all.

INTERESTING TO LEARN: certain neighbors in Carmel had a problem which had been in existence for some time. One approached a councilman (and candidate) asking for help. Mike's reply was to get everyone to a council meeting and then he would explain what the problems were to everyone.

The neighbor went to another resident (also a candidate) to ask for company on his quest. The other resident said, "Wait a minute! Maybe we can do something without having to have a big, heated gathering. Let me see if I can find out for you."

So he went to City Hall and asked questions and got the answers, then came back and said to the neighbor, "The city has looked into the matter and finds that it can take action. There is no need at all to get everyone mad at each other or bring it into a public scene."

The neighbor said, "Thanks, Larry. I'm glad you're a candidate and you've got my vote."

NORBERG'S PESSIMISM (he says) means that his solution to problems is by moratorium. That means everything to him is an emergency.

Do we really need four or five hours of "emergencies" twice, or more, a month?

BY THE WAY, DOES anyone remember whether or not there were pickets for keeping the Standard station (an old landmark on Ocean Avenue) when Dick Bruhn bought it for his store?

ALAN WILLIAMS SEEMS to be cast in the role of City Planner and Builder with the connotation of "skeleton in the closet" or "this isn't what we want."

I suggest two things: first, go look at the finished section of Alan's own home (his design). If there was ever a manifestation of Carmel, then this is it, and it's the greatest! Talk about feeling for Carmel with building design! Talk about preservation of trees! Talk about anything you want to—this is a physical expression that proves the beliefs and substance of "The Quiet Man." Second: re-think the meaning of the words "City Planner" after you see his work.

I DON'T ENVY the inventory-takers at Harrison Memorial Library. I have enough trouble keeping track of my own books. When I go for an old favorite or to look something up, I don't find a thing. This used to confuse me completely until I realized that I was remembering "just where that book was"—30 years ago! Guess I just have to do my own Dewey-decimal, but, while I don't mind it at the library, I sort of resent having to do it at home! But then I might be able to issue library cards to all my neighbors who borrow my books!

Businessmen cite many reasons for sluggish sales

By KEITH YATES

PARKING PROBLEMS, DECLINING airline service, mediocre merchandise, outside competition, and a host of other evils are being blamed by Carmel businessmen for disappointing end-of-the-year sales.

Taxable sales for August, September and October were up only 4 percent from the same period in 1978. After adjusting for 13 percent annual inflation, sales were actually down about 9 percent from the previous year. December was a disappointing month for many, although the official figures are not in yet.

Derek Rayne, a longtime village store-owner, points a finger at the quality of goods being sold in Carmel.

"There has been a national trend in the past year or two to buy high-quality goods or to buy none at all," Rayne told the Pine Cone.

"I find that sales of the finest items in clothing and accessories are up, not down. It's the middle market that is off," Rayne said. He added that the mix of products sold in Carmel has shifted toward mid-priced, medium quality goods—precisely those that are not doing well nationally.

"My feeling is that an 'exclusive resort for the masses' is a contradiction in terms," Rayne said. "Carmel should be identified in the consumers' minds with high-quality goods. Perhaps we shouldn't send conflicting signals to the consumers."

HOWARD BRUNN OF Carmel Bay Company echoed some of Rayne's observations.

"When times get tough—and they are tough out there—who needs little knick-knacks?" Brunn said. "In a basic living sense, many of the items for sale in Carmel are frivolous. I think that the higher-priced items will continue to do well—antique furniture and other durables."

Brunn said that he sees business as being in "a holding pattern."

"A lot of people out there are saying, 'Let's wait and see how the economy does,'" he said.

Brunn, who is a member of the City Council, declared that parking is a major problem. He said he has been pushing his fellow City Council members to make part of the downtown area into a mall, with a shuttle service from the parking areas to the central mall area.

OTHER BUSINESSMEN CONTACTED agreed with Brunn that the scarcity of parking spaces is a deterrent to increased business.

Rayne observed, however, that many who stay at Carmel's inns have a parking space there, and walk around town to do their shopping. Rayne said that these shoppers are the ones with the most money to spend on goods in Carmel.

"Those who come here just for the day—say from the more local areas—tend not to spend as much here, and also tend to use their cars more while here," he said.

NEARLY ALL OF those interviewed felt that the decreased air service to Monterey Peninsula Airport is harming Carmel business.

"You can't cut back airline service from four airlines to 1½ and not be affected," Rayne said.

Mark Raggett, former owner of Raggett's, a clothing shop on Ocean Avenue, said that "the retail pie is being sliced too many ways now."

Carmel businesses have had to compete with those in the Carmel Barnyard and Carmel Rancho areas at the entrance to the Valley, he explained.

"You've got better parking out there, as well as a lot of locally-oriented businesses like grocery and hardware

Taxable sales

for Aug.-Oct. up 4%

Taxable sales by Carmel businesses for the three months ending Nov. 6, 1979 were up about 4 percent compared with the same period in 1978, according to the state Board of Equalization.

Carmel businesses rang up $23.7 million in taxable sales in the Aug. 7-Nov. 6, 1979 period, compared with $22.8 million for the same period in 1978.

The city recorded $20.1 million in taxable sales during the August-November period in 1977 and $17.1 million in 1976.

Adjusting for an annual inflation rate of 13 percent, taxable sales from Aug. 7-Nov. 6, 1979 were down about 9 percent compared with the same period a year earlier.

stores," Raggett said. "I think that this has had an impact, particularly on the local market."

NEARLY ALL OF THOSE contacted felt that the costs and uncertainty of obtaining gasoline have hurt business.

Bud Clark pointed out, however, that for many visitors Carmel is a "one-tank town"—one can drive from the San Francisco or Central Valley areas and back on one tank of fuel.

Clark, who is developing property at the entrance to the Valley, said that the fact of proximity to metropolitan areas will tend to bolster tourism to Carmel when business in many other vacation areas slips.

OPINION WAS DIVIDED over whether Carmel is "recession proof."

Bud Allen of La Playa Hotel said "Carmel doesn't seem to be affected by recession."

"The reason sales are off," he added, "is increased competition—from the mouth of the Valley area and Del Monte Shopping Center."

Allen said that he thought that just as many people are visiting Carmel, with as much money to spend, but "they're just shopping around a bit more, going to the Barnyard area and into Monterey."

Brunn said that Carmel may not be as "recession proof" as others think.

"What happens at, say, the General Motors plant in Fremont affects business here," Brunn said. "It may take a while to filter down, but when industry is off in the areas that supply Carmel its tourists, sales will be off here as well."

IF SALES WERE OFF in some sectors of retail sales, they were reported to have been strong in others.

Steve Jacobs, a partner in Carmel Plaza, said that sales volume at the Carmel Plaza was 15 to 20 percent above that of the previous year.

"There is, however, a great discrepancy here," Jacobs said. "Some stores are doing unbelievably well, and others are having problems. Women's apparel stores and the majority of shops selling sophisticated goods are doing extremely well."

"I see two problem areas in Carmel: the non-specialized types of restaurants, and the 'Mom and Pop' kinds of stores without sophisticated merchandising techniques," he said.

JACOBS SAID THAT parking is not the problem that it is often made out to be.

"When sales are down, you look for something to pin it on," he said. "Parking comes to mind, and so does the Barnyard. My hunch is—and I do have some statistical data to corroborate this—that parking is not the serious problem it's made out to be, and the business district at the mouth of the Valley has not significantly hurt the well-run Carmel business."

"Parking is not that bad," Jacobs claimed. "Carmel has always had a parking problem. Last year, the number of visitors to the area was down, and the parking problem was, if anything, better than the previous year."

"Also, I don't see a measurable effect on sales since the Barnyard opened. Certainly there has not been a decrease in the number of mid-week—or local—transactions since the coming of the Barnyard. Weekend—or visitor—business is down simply because we are losing the casual visitor at the gas pump."

JACOBS SAID THAT the escalation in commercial rents "has all but eliminated the dilettante merchant." You must be a serious merchant and do your homework to make it here now.

"What this means is that merchandising is becoming much more exciting in Carmel. It means that Carmel as a large shopping center is becoming more attractive to quality shoppers. It's an atmosphere. The shopping centers at the mouth of the Valley don't have it, as nice as they sometimes are. I'm very positive about business in Carmel," Jacobs said.

PG&E asked to provide funds

Council supports $20 million oil spill bond proposal

THE CARMEL CITY Council has called for PG&E to post a $20 million bond to indemnify the city and its citizens in the event of an oil spill in Monterey Bay.

A resolution adopted by the council Monday night asks for $20 million to be deposited in a cash secured savings account or with a surety company doing business in the state.

Ann Bartee, chairman of Friends of Grove, told the City Council at its special session Monday night that the "coastline from Santa Cruz to Big Sur is priceless."

She urged the council to "take the lead" in protecting the bay from damages resulting from an oil spill.

Bartee, a Pacific Grove resident, presented the council a resolution and said that she will present similar ones to the Pacific Grove and Monterey city councils.

AN OIL TANKER SPILLED about 200 barrels of oil while unloading at PG&E's Moss Landing mooring facility last month. The spill, "occurring in calm weather, caused oil to be washed ashore on the beaches from Marina to Sunset Beach for more than a week," according to the resolution, adopted 4-1 by the council.

Mayor Gunnar Norberg opposed the resolution, stating that it "should be directed to governmental bodies, not PG&E."

Councilman Howard Brunn urged the council to approve the resolution "and be cooperative" with Bartee and three attorneys assisting her with the resolution.

ROY HAWES, a PG&E representative, cautioned the council that his company "has no way to raise $20 million except by charging users more for its services. The $20 million will be passed on to the people."

Hawes is supervisor of operations and maintenance, Coast Valley division, at PG&E's Moss Landing facility.

He said that stipulating a bond "puts an unnecessary expense on PG&E. There are already state and federal laws responsible for indemnification (to cities and citizens) in the event of a spill."

COUNCIL MEMBER HELEN Arnold asked Hawes why PG&E failed to notify the California Coastal Commission at the time of the Moss Landing spill last month.

"I think we notified 13 people that night (Dec. 1, 1979), and we must have forgotten to notify the Coastal Commission," Hawes replied. "There was no intent to hide anything."

Nor did the council hide its displeasure at having oil tankers within a few miles of Carmel beaches.

"There is a horrendous volume of oil in those tankers," Councilman Mike Brown said. "Hasn't an inland route (from the San Francisco Bay to Moss Landing) been studied?"

Hawes replied that PG&E "reviewed that prospect and decided it would not be economically feasible."

Brunn asked Hawes what progress had been made on the development of solar energy. Hawes answered that "the (solar) technology is not yet available" as a substitute for oil.

NORBERG ASKED HAWES if he had any objection to the statements presented in the resolution draft.

"In substance it about tells the story," Hawes answered quietly.

The resolution states:

- That the spill last December caused "harm and loss of life to assorted wildlife" and despoiled beaches.

- That the company's "failure to notify a state agency and a Monterey County agency (about the spill) is presently under investigation by the attorney general, and has raised the important question of how the (California Coastal) Commission is going to guarantee enforcement of the Oil Spill Contingency Plan and Operating Manual."

- That PG&E is "presently permitted to off-load tankers" carrying four times the amount of oil that was spilled in the Santa Barbara Channel on Jan. 28, 1969. That spill "resulted in dollar losses of more than $13 million to tourism and fishing."

- That "evidence has not been presented that a viable and effective containment clean-up system or procedure has been developed to avoid serious adverse effects from a spillage."

MONDAY'S COUNCIL ACTION was not the first relating to the oil tanker issue.

The council unanimously passed a resolution Aug. 15 opposing a PG&E plan to build a large off-shore docking facility at Moss Landing to handle larger oil tankers. That resolution was adopted in response to a request by Friends of Grove, a Pacific Grove-based organization.

PG&E's plans called for building a docking facility to handle ships of 90,000 dead weight tons as opposed to the current 50,000 DWT limit.

The council declared at its Aug. 15 special meeting that it had information "leading it to believe that there is currently no satisfactory, guaranteed method of containing or cleaning up an oil spill in Monterey Bay."

'We may be opening a real can of worms'

Planners cautious about proposal to save restaurant

A PROPOSAL THAT would give a new lease on life to Carmel's only Chinese restaurant is being approached cautiously by the Carmel Planning Commission.

The plan, which would rescind a new ordinance prohibiting second-story retail and commercial uses, was presented at the City Council's Jan. 18 special meeting. The Planning Commission will conduct a special meeting Monday, Feb. 4, at 4 p.m. to consider the proposal.

The legislation was proposed by City Attorney George Brehmer to help settle a dispute between Dick Bruhn, Inc. and Dock Lor's Canton Restaurant.

DOCK HAS LEASED his Ocean Avenue space from Bruhn for 10 years. Bruhn informed Dock last August that his lease—due to and the Carmel City Council to preserve the Canton, described as a "residentially-oriented" or "locally useful" business.

BREHMER'S PROPOSAL, endorsed in principle by the City Council at its Jan. 18 meeting and sent to the Carmel Planning Commission for a recommendation, calls for rescinding the ordinance prohibiting second- and third-story retail uses, and substituting a use-permit system.

Under the system, second- and third-story retail establishments would be allowed in exchange for the landlord's obligation to rent space to a "residentially-oriented" business for rents that are below market prices.

The planning commissioners, who will examine the concept proposed by Brehmer at their Feb. 4 meeting, have individually expressed some hesitation to recommend the use permit plan.

to see Dock get kicked out with nowhere to go. The Canton is an asset to the community."

Stephenson agreed with Wright that the proposal and the circumstances put the commission in a dilemma.

Stephenson, like Wright, said that he would have to study the proposal in depth before he could make a decision.

COMMISSIONER JOHN Logan said that he had not seen Brehmer's proposal. Logan said that he is "quite sympathetic

'I find it scarcely credible the statement of one councilman that the proposal is "an outstanding piece of work" when that councilman had only 15 minutes to look at it.' — Sandy Swain, planning commissioner

'It will be pretty difficult, would guess, to accommodate Dock Lor's problem and to protest the second floors (in the commercial district) from losing their residences and offices. I do not want to see Dock pushed out into the cold.' — Jim Wright, planning commissioner expire in November 1979—would not be renewed. Bruhn indicated that he intended to use the Canton space to expand his Back Pocket clothing store on Mission just south of Ocean.

Bruhn and Dock have tentatively agreed to swap locations—the Canton will move to the Back Pocket's space, and the Back Pocket will move to the Canton's location—if Bruhn can use the upstairs portion of his new space for retail business.

An ordinance prohibiting second- and third-story retail uses went into effect Nov. 1.

Bruhn indicated that he would rent the Back Pocket space to Dock at below-market rates.

The negotiations were part of an attempt by local residents

COMMISSIONER JIM Wright told the Pine Cone last week that he had not seen Brehmer's proposal, but that he is concerned that the concept as he understood it "may put us on the horns of a dilemma."

Wright said that "the intent of the ordinance (passed last year) was good" and that the city "must be careful" about any new measure that would cause the village to lose its residential character.

"It will be pretty difficult, I would guess, to accommodate

'I hate to see second and third stories used for anything but residences. But I also hate to see Dock get kicked out with nowhere to go. The Canton is an asset to the community.' — Robert Stephenson, planning commission chairman

Dock Lor's problem and to protect the second floors (in the commercial district) from losing their residences and offices," Wright said.

He added that he does not want "to see Dock pushed out into the cold," and that the Back Pocket space "would work out fine" for Dock.

Still, Wright said, he is concerned about the implications of rescinding the existing ordinance and enacting a use permit system.

ROBERT STEPHENSON, chairman of the Planning Commission, said that he is "ambivalent" toward the proposal.

"I hate to see second and third stories used for anything but residences," Stephenson told the Pine Cone. "But I also hate to the Canton," but he has "some reservations" about the proposal as the city attorney described it to the council.

SANDY SWAIN AGREED with her fellow commissioners that the preservation of the Canton is of prime interest to Carmel residents, but echoed their concern over the commercializing of second floor spaces.

"We may be opening a real can of worms with a use permit system," Swain told the Pine Cone.

Swain said that she would probably support such a system if the definition of a "locally-oriented business" could be clearly established and the permit-granting kept under tight control.

Swain also said that she finds "scarcely credible the statement of one councilman that the proposal is 'an outstanding piece of work' when that councilman had only 15 minutes to look at it."

PLANNING DIRECTOR BOB Griggs said last Friday that he has drafted an ordinance framed on Brehmer's proposal, and had sent it to Brehmer for "legal tightening."

Griggs said that he feels that the Land Use Committee and the Planning Commission "will go along with the use permit plan once it has been properly drafted."

Griggs said that the proposed ordinance "deals with the definition of a 'locally useful business' and a procedure that would guarantee that a 'locally useful business' remain so under the terms of the use permit."

Griggs said that he could not elaborate until Brehmer refined the first draft.

GRIGGS SAID THAT he will announce a meeting of the Land Use Committee sometime this week. The Land use Committee, comprised of commissioners Davidson, Logan and Wright, will study the ordinance and report to the Planning Commission at its meeting Monday, Feb. 4, at 4 p.m.

Around The Plaza

By ED CASTILLO

A YOUNG, BEARDED FELLOW, a designer-contractor of some sort, got up in front of some 42 people at a recent meeting of the College Street Improvement Association and explained a system used in laying concrete sidewalks and curbs in Carmel, Calif. . . . he closed by saying, "As you probably know, Carmel is rated as the greatest city in the United States" . . . well, that went over like a lead balloon, and after a brief period of dead silence that seemed interminable, Wanda Ford, who is known for not keeping a zipper-lip, piped up, "Next to San Antonio." Cheers and applause.

City concerned about Odello East

Council may sue county-- unhappy with CV Master Plan

CITY ATTORNEY George Brehmer has been instructed to determine whether the city of Carmel has a legal basis to sue the county because of deficiencies in the newly adopted Carmel Valley Master Plan.

The City Council took the action after discussing the matter in executive session Monday night.

Brehmer told the Pine Cone that if "such matters as traffic, pollution and water supplies reasonably and foreseeably have an impact on Carmel," the city may have legal basis to file suit.

THE NEW MASTER Plan allows for visitor accommodations on the site proposed for development of the Rancho Canada Lodge at the entrance of the Carmel Valley. The council previously requested that the proposed 175-room lodge be designated a non-conforming use. This would have closed the door to future hotel development on the site should the current project fail.

Rancho Canada Lodge is within the city's zone of influence. Development at the Rancho Canada project could possibly be demonstrated to have traffic, pollution and water supply impact on the city, Brehmer said.

The Master Plan also allows for development of the Carmel Valley Ranch, a project specifying 500 condominium units, a 100-unit hotel and a golf course. The Master Plan requires only 100 of the 500 condominium units to compete under the point and quota system required for all other development projects in the Valley.

The council resolution of Nov. 15 also pressed for all 500 units to compete under the point and quota system.

BREHMER SAID YESTERDAY that "the city is particularly concerned about the Odello East property."

In approving the Master Plan, the supervisors will allow for the development of both residential units and visitor accommodations on the 134-acre Odello farmland east of Highway 1 and south of the Carmel River.

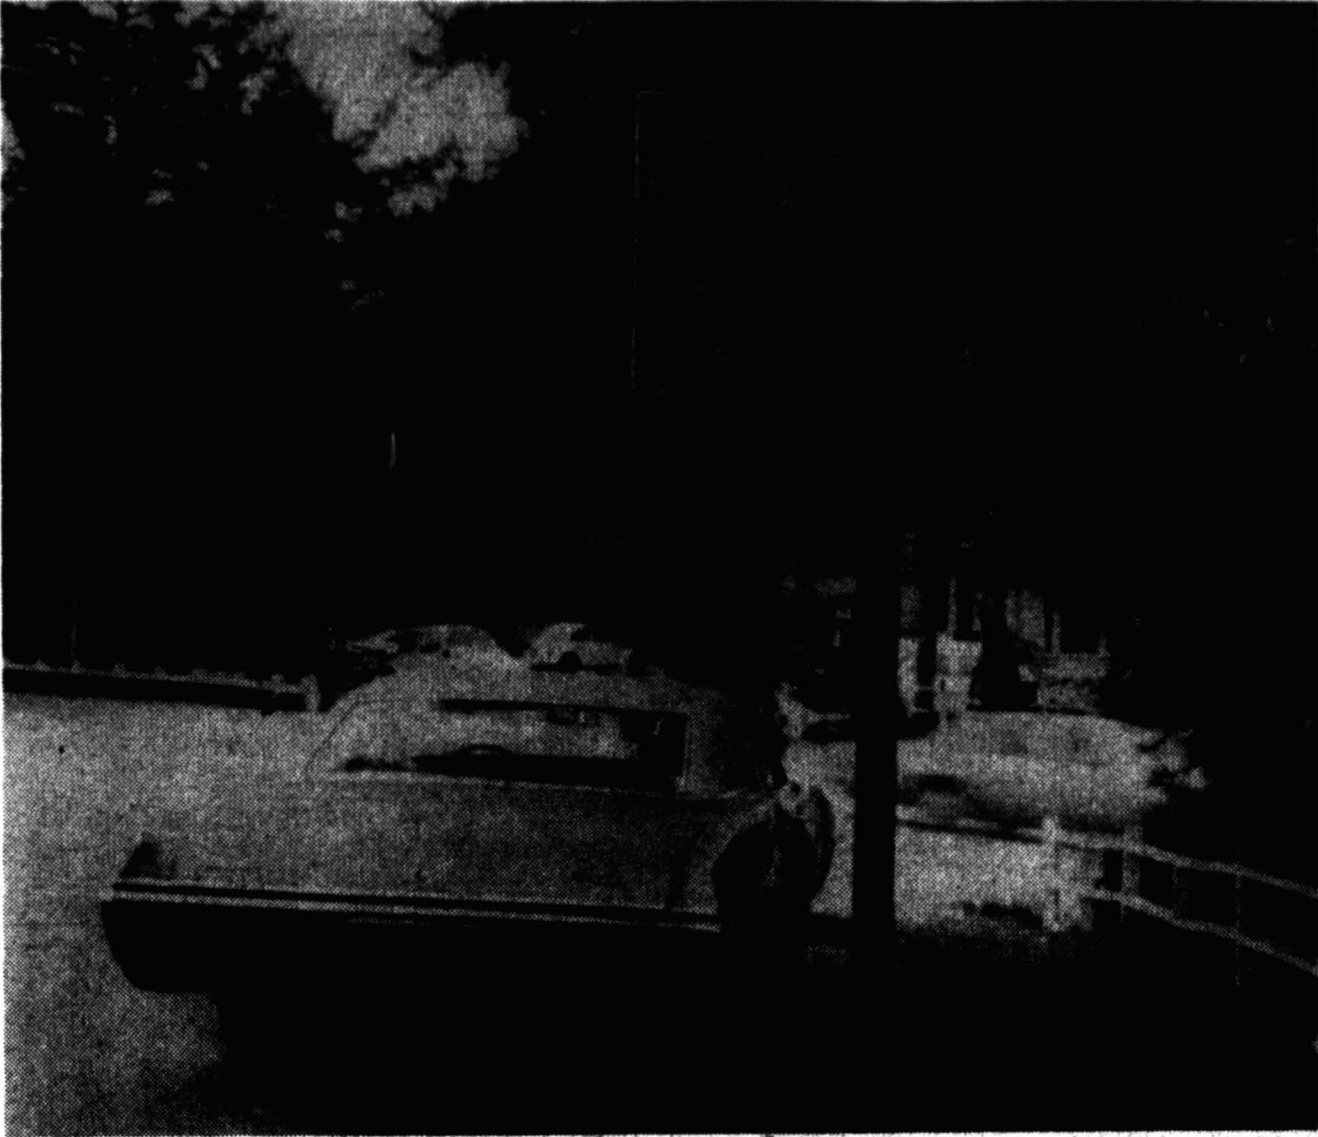

The Odello land was designated as permanent open space by the county Planning Commission. The city's Nov. 15 resolution stated that "in light of the unquestioned reality of traffic, sewer, and water problems, there is no reasonable basis" for allowing development concentration on the Odello land.

'The city is particularly concerned about the Odello East property.' — City Attorney George Brehmer

The council had also requested that an environmental impact report (EIR) be prepared for the new Master Plan. The county supervisors decided that the Master Plan did not require an EIR.

OLIVER ROAD west of Highway 1 will be closed to through traffic after Feb. 5. The county Public Works Department will install a barrier to prevent the use of Oliver as a shortcut between Highway 1 and Rio Road. The temporary barrier of cement sacks will be replaced after six months with a concrete curb and landscaping, if the measure proves successful. Warning signs were installed by the Public Works Department last week. In the background is the Carmel River Inn just off Highway 1.

Immunization clinic scheduled at Middle School

The Monterey County Health Department will sponsor a special immunization clinic at the Carmel Middle School on Thursday, Feb. 7, from 9 a.m.-noon.

Free immunizations that provide protection against diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough, polio, measles, mumps and rubella will be available.

Tetanus and diphtheria boosters recommended for adults every 10 years, will be given.

Pre-school children are welcome at this clinic; parents should bring records of all previous immunizations. Students under 18 years of age must have information and consent forms signed by a parent or guardian.

The special clinic is part of the ongoing effort to bring all Monterey County children up-to-date on immunizations. According to state law, students who are not properly immunized may be excluded from school.

For further information, contact Alma Wood, 372-0111, ext. 24.

Someone 'otter' have better scruples

The carved wooden sea otter sign which hung outside the sea otter education center in The Barnyard, Carmel, was reported stolen Wednesday, Jan. 23. The 2½-foot sign was specially designed for Friends of the Sea Otter, a non-profit educational organization established in 1968 to protect the small population of California sea otters.

Staff member Carol Fulton said the Friends of the Sea Otter hope it was just a prank and that the sign will be returned soon. "After all," said Fulton, "how could anyone who likes sea otters enough to want the sign, steal it from the very group which is trying to protect them?"

Should the otters' over-zealous friend wish to return the sign, center hours are 11 a.m.-3 p.m. daily and the phone number is 625-3290.

The virtues of Gandhi

By the REV. LARRY FARRELL

The Jan. 23 invocation delivered to the Carmel Rotary Club

Several years ago I visited India and on his birthday I joined thousands of pilgrims at the grave of Mohandas Karamchand or Mahatma (Great Soul) Gandhi who used passive resistance as the political tool which defeated the British Raj.

This week I read a new book, Gandhi, a Memoir, by William J. Shirer and he does a good job. Shirer does not hide Gandhi's faults and weaknesses. He makes him human and he does not make him out to be a fragile holy man without any of the everyday foibles. Shirer admires Gandhi, but he does not deify or worship him.

We can learn many lessons from Gandhi, especially his single-minded pursuit of truth. Gandhi despised hypocrisy in all its facets. He cultivated inner virtues and strength. He sought no honors and refused to use luxuries in food, clothing and housing. In an India steeped in superstition, caste and religious intolerance he tolerated everyone's belief even those that shocked and jarred his sensibilities. He was always truthful, especially with himself, and he tolerated everyone's faults but his own.

O Lord, help us to emulate the virtues of Mahatma Gandhi. Saints are rare in India and everywhere else in the world. We are told they are hard to live with but I am sure we are ready to try, at least I am.

'One way to resolve reclamation dispute'

Carmel Sanitary District proposes merger with PB

THE CARMEL SANITARY District has proposed that it merge with the Pebble Beach Sanitary District into one agency.

The merger is one alternative proposed by Carmel directors to resolve the dispute over how to plan and finance a $13.7 million wastewater reclamation project.

The Pebble Beach Sanitary District (PBSD) has been asked to share in the cost of the reclamation project because its sewage is pumped to the Carmel Sanitary District's treatment plant. PBSD pays for one-third of the plant operation and maintenance.

The PBSD directors, however, do not have any direct authority over the reclamation project or any planning for the disposal of effluent. They refused last year to pay their share for the design of the project.

The Carmel Sanitary District threatened in November to file a lawsuit if PBSD withheld an estimated $40,000 for the $1.1 million design phase.

IN A LETTER EARLIER this month, the Pebble Beach directors suggested three alternatives to reclamation. Instead of paying the $40,000, they proposed:

- A joint district request be made to the state to conduct a public hearing on the Area of Special Biological Significance (ASBS) designation for Carmel Bay.

The state Water Resources Control Board ordered the ASBS in 1975, and called for a halt to summertime discharge into the bay. The reclamation project was selected by the Carmel Sanitary District as the best solution to limit the effluent discharge.

- The districts ask the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District to sponsor legislation that would charge fees to "those who will benefit from new supplies of potable water as a result of using reclaimed wastewater for golf course irrigation and other uses."

The Carmel Sanitary District is currently negotiating with golf course operators to use the treated wastewater. The golf courses would not have to pay more than they are presently charged for potable water.

Golf course operators at Pebble Beach Corporation, Cypress Point Golf Club, the Northern California Golf Association and Rancho Canada Golf Club have indicated their intent to enter into an agreement.

- The two boards conduct a joint meeting to evaluate the reclamation project, since it would require the use of funds from both districts.

DIRECTORS OF THE Carmel Sanitary District agreed at their Jan. 17 meeting to consider the PBSD alternatives.

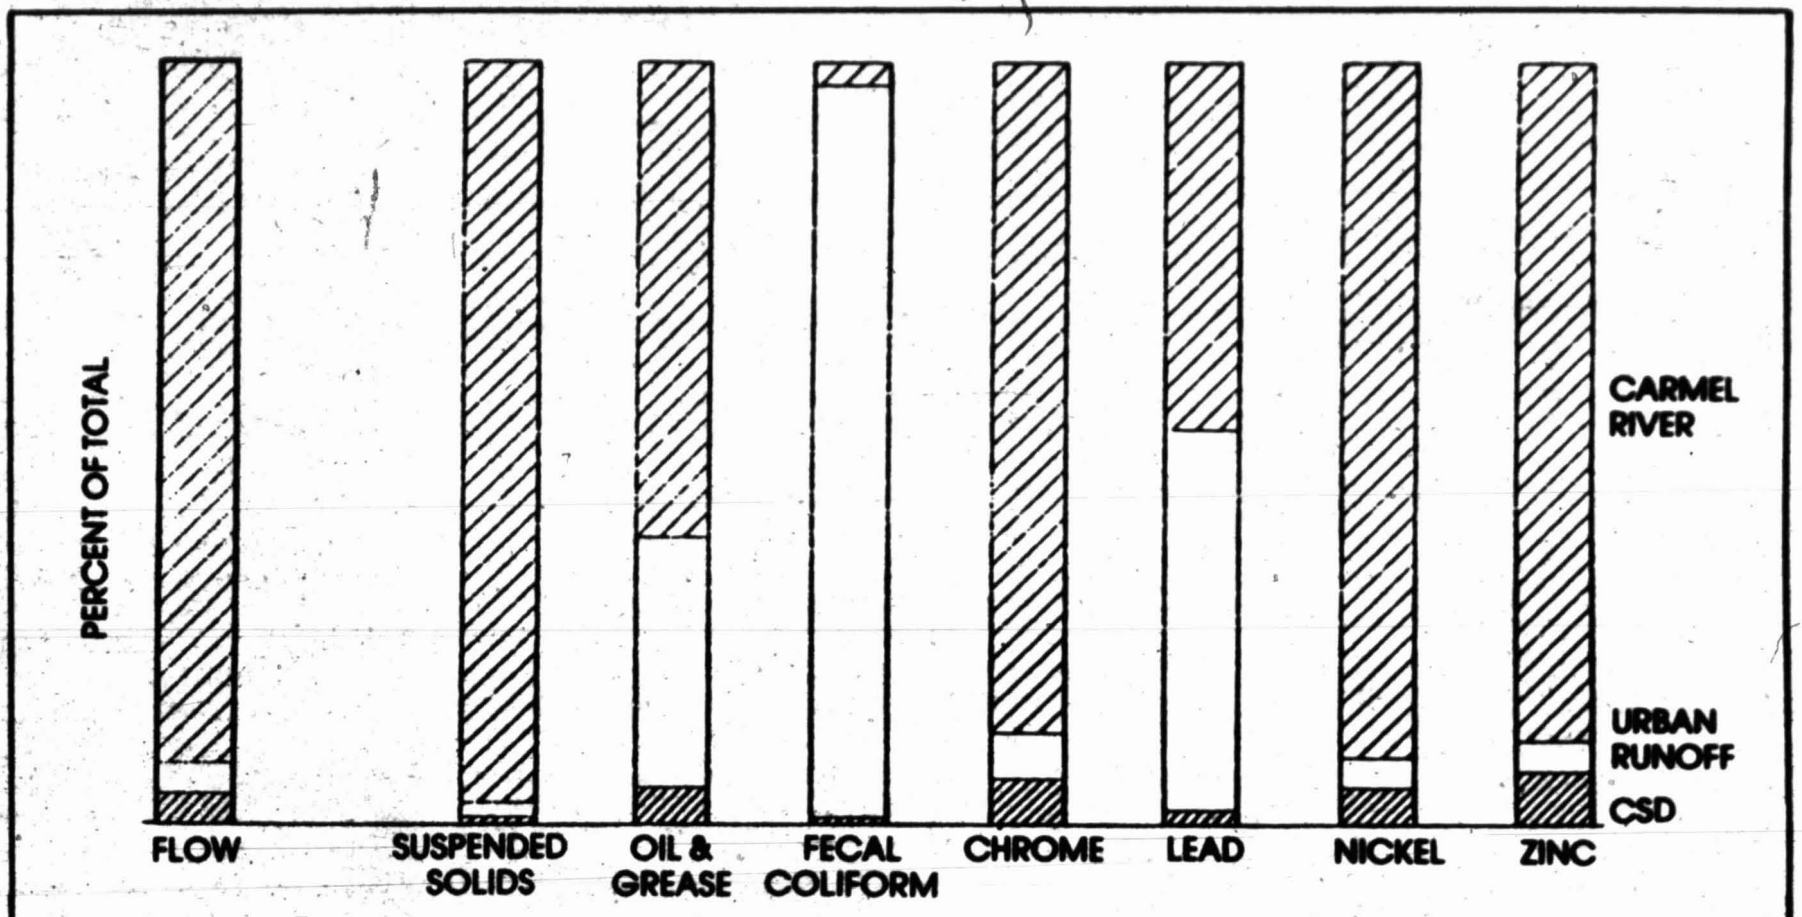

Board president Vernon Head also suggested that the two districts consider a merger, with one board of directors to conduct business for both areas.

The Carmel directors argued at length about the ASBS and the reclamation project.

Directors Jim Pruitt and Ted Weller supported the PBSD criticism of the reclamation project.

A MAJORITY OF THE directors, however, maintained that the reclamation project is the best solution. Head and directors Charlotte Hurst and Ken McGinnis stated that they should not tamper with the ASBS.

To resolve the deadlock, Head suggested the merger. "We

THIS CHART WAS submitted by officials of the Pebble Beach Sanitary District to support their argument that sewage effluent discharge into Carmel Bay is not a major threat to marine life. It shows the average annual deposit of metals, suspended solids, fecal coliform and greases that are dumped into the bay. The Carmel River carries the heaviest loads of metals, while urban storm sewers bring in the most fecal coliform. The chart is from the Carmel Sanitary District's can have an election and let the voters decide whether they want reclamation and who they want to run the show."

The directors postponed action on the proposal to allow time for the Pebble Beach directors to consider the merger. The PBSD directors are scheduled to meet today (Jan. 31).

ELMER SCHREINER, PRESIDENT of the PBSD board, told this newspaper that "consolidation is out of the question. "We have different concerns, different political philosophies. We'd prefer that the districts stay separate," he said.

Schreiner recalled that the idea of merging was proposed in the mid-1970s by Don Kirk, then president of the Carmel Sanitary District board.

"Our board turned it down flat," Schreiner said.

He added that "we could dispense with the Carmel board, but we never said we'd take the district over for them, or run the plant for them."

Schreiner claimed that the Carmel Sanitary District ratepayers would be forced to subsidize the reclamation project. He said that the district is not going to charge enough to the golf courses for the treated wastewater.

He insisted that the PBSD proposals are "more realistic" than the reclamation project.

MICHAEL ZAMBORY, GENERAL manager of the Carmel Sanitary District, said that PBSD is ignoring "the chief issue."

"We do not propose to be in the reclamation business. It's a disposal issue and a disposal project," Zambory said.

Areawide Facilities Plan, which envisions wastewater reclamation as the alternative to dumping into the bay. The state ordered a halt to summertime discharge after the bay was designated an Area of Special Biological Significance. Pebble Beach officials charge that the Carmel Sanitary District should seek to have the ASBS removed, instead of pursuing a wastewater reclamation project.

Reclamation is simply a procedure that has been determined to be the most cost-effective, Zambory explained.

The district will charge no more than the amount the golf courses currently pay for potable water, he said.

"You can't put a value on the increase in potable water," he insisted. "That's just a secondary displacement, a secondary result of the project."

IF THE RECLAMATION project were dumped, Zambory said, the district would have to extend its outfall line beyond the boundary of the ASBS.

"The taxpayers will never realize the difference. Reclamation will cost $13.7 million; extending the outfall line would cost $14 million," he said.

Zambory added that the maintenance and operating costs are virtually the same for the reclamation project and the extended outfall line.

"Both are mainly added pumping costs. Our taxpayers will only know by a penny's difference if we go with one or the other," he said.

Federal and state monies would finance 87½ percent of the reclamation project. He said it also would provide improvements to the treatment plant.

"For $140,000 in local funds we're getting $1 million worth of work on the plant," he said.

"So long as the ASBS exists," he admitted, "you're not going to make any money on reclamation."

'Residents willing to pay for reclamation'

"OUR CONSTITUENTS have said that they're willing to pay for reclamation," Charlotte Hurst declared.

Hurst, a member of the board of directors of the Carmel Sanitary District, thus reaffirmed her support for the $13.7 million reclamation project.

Speaking at the Jan. 17 meeting of the board, she countered arguments that the district could easily ask the state to remove its restrictions on effluent discharge into Carmel Bay.

Hurst also supported the suggestion that the district merge with the Pebble Beach Sanitary District to avoid a potential legal squabble over the reclamation project.

BOARD PRESIDENT Vernon Head and director Ken McGinnis also supported the reclamation project.

McGinnis said that wastewater reclamation will provide protection for the golf courses. "What if we have another drought? The golf courses are an important industry to this area. We have to look at the overall picture," he said.

The district is negotiating with operators of golf courses in the Del Monte Forest and Carmel Valley to use the reclaimed wastewater.

McGinnis also noted that the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is considering an $85 million dam in Carmel Valley that would provide additional water. He said that the $13.7 million reclamation project is much less expensive and achieves the same result as the proposed dam—increasing the availability of potable water.

LOCAL TAXPAYERS would have to pay more than $2 million for reclamation. Federal and state agencies would provide grant monies for 87½ percent of the overall cost, according to a January 1979 report prepared by Kennedy Engineers of San Francisco.

The local share is to be divided between the Carmel Sanitary District and the Pebble Beach Sanitary District, $1.39 million and $690,000 respectively.

Annual operating costs would be $930,000, according to the report, which concludes that the reclamation project is the most cost-effective of six alternatives.

DIRECTORS TED WELLER and Jim Pruitt reiterated their arguments against the project, citing the costs and the Area of Special Biological Significance (ASBS) designation for Carmel Bay.

"There's a good chance of getting the ASBS removed," Weller said. He explained that Governor Jerry Brown has appointed new members to the state Water Resources Control Board, which ordered the ASBS in 1975.

Weller also claimed that more harm to the bay may be caused if the effluent discharge is halted. "We could disrupt the food chain," he said.

According to a recent report, Weller said, the marine life and wildlife in San Pedro Harbor declined when the city of Los Angeles stopped using an outfall line. "It caused a 100 percent decline in the anchovy population, and then the sea gulls by 60 percent," Weller said. The outfall line had served several canneries that later closed.

PRUITT, a consistent opponent of reclamation, said that he has yet to understand the need for the ASBS.

"There's no real reason biologically to say the ASBS is doing any good," Pruitt said. "It's a political tool."

The district has imposed a ban on sewer connections as a result of the ASBS restrictions.

"Throw it out," Pruitt said of the ASBS.

MICHAEL ZAMBORY, general manager of the district, said it would be a mistake to attack the ASBS and reclamation project.

"Without the ASBS and reclamation," Zambory said, "grant monies would not be available for improvements on the treatment plant."

"San Francisco is gobbling up federal funds now for its big sewer project. If we put a hold on our project, we'll have to start all over again on the federal projects list."

"It'll put us in a position of not knowing what our future is," Zambory said.

Two Carmel High students to live in foreign countries

TWO CARMEL HIGH School students will live in foreign countries this year under the American Field Service student exchange program.

Erin Gaffill will leave Feb. 1 for Argentina, and Jay Kunkle will leave in March for a year in Japan.

Erin, the daughter of Holly Fassett of Nepenthe, Big Sur, will attend school at Villa Carlos Paz near Cordoba. She will live with the Juan Masjoan family.

Jay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kunkle of Carmel Valley, will stay with the Yasuchika Nakamura family in Wayakama.

Erin and Jay will be required to wear uniforms in their new schools.

PAM CLEMENS is another Carmel student on the AFS program.

She is living in Austria and will return to Carmel in July. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Clemens of Carmel.

Attending Carmel High School under the AFS program is Andreas Barz from Zurich, Switzerland. He is staying with Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sippel in Carmel.

ANOTHER PROGRAM with AFS is the American Indian Exchange.

Andrea Epel, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. David Epel of Carmel, will live on an Indian reservation and attend school there for two weeks in late March. She will then host an Indian girl for two weeks in Carmel.

The American Field Service is a non-profit scholarship organization for United States and overseas high school student exchanges. It is open to students aged 16-18.

The United States sends and receives students to and from 60 countries. Placement is offered for students wishing to study abroad, or in the American Southwest under an exchange program involving American Indian students.

CARMEL HIGH SCHOOL students Jay Kunkle and Erin Gaffill point to the countries on the globe that they will visit for a year as American Field Service students. Gaffill will attend school in Argentina and live with a family at Villa Carlos Paz near Cordoba. Kunkle will leave in March for a year in Wayakama, Japan.

Violinist Ruggiero Ricci guests at Symphony concert

Violinist Ruggiero Ricci, currently celebrating his golden anniversary year as a soloist, will be the guest artist in an all-Beethoven concert to be presented by the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra Sunday through Tuesday, Feb. 3-5. Conducted by Music Director Haymo Tauber, the symphony orchestra will perform at King Hall of the Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, Sunset Theater, Carmel, and Sherwood Hall of the Salinas Community center, Salinas, on, respectively, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Born at the Presidio of San Francisco, Ricci recently celebrated the 50th anniversary of his debut as soloist at the age of 10 when he performed in that city's Scottish Rite Hall. Currently on the faculty of the Juilliard School of Music in New York, Ricci brings to audiences his vast experience acquired during more than 5,000 performances. He has played for more people over a longer period of time than any other living instrumentalist, and his number of recordings, more than 500, is unequalled by any other contemporary soloist, either vocal or instrumental.

The appearance of Ruggiero Ricci is sponsored by the Maurine Church Coburn Charitable Trust.

Maestro Tauber will direct the orchestra in a performance of Leonore Overture No. 3, featuring Ricci; Symphony No. 8 in F and the Violin Concerto in D.

The Monterey County Symphony, now in its 34th season, is one of the top 100 metropolitan orchestras in the United States. Its professional musicians perform 18 concerts in the regular series, one pops concert, and four free concerts for youth.

Maestro Tauber began his 11th season as music director of the 70-member orchestra in October 1979. His conducting experience includes the Vienna Boys Choir, symphony orchestras in London, Belgrade, Oslo, Amsterdam, Calgary and opera houses in Graz, Vienna and Breslau.

Single concert tickets for King Hall are $6, adults, and $2 for elementary through college age students; though the Carmel concert is sold out, a limited number may be released by season ticket holders to the box office shortly before performance time. Tickets to the concert in Salinas will be available at the door. Tickets are also available at the Record Cove, Monterey; Lily Walker Music, Pacific Grove; Carmel Music Store, Carmel; and recreation offices on military posts.

PADRE SPORTS

By MARK SANFORD

THE CARMEL VARSITY boys' basketball team won its second league game last week, defeating North Monterey County 60-52 after losing to Gonzales 51-50 in overtime.

The Gonzales contest was close all the way with the largest lead being seven points.

In the first half, it was high-scorer Art Strum against Gonzales, which ended at 28-24 Gonzales.

Greg Raynes, Gary Childs and Strum each sank two free throws in the final minute to bring the Padres even at 46-46. Then regulation play ended and the game went into overtime with Gonzales barely winning by one point.

Strum led all scorers with 16 points, followed by Paul Cater with 9.

The Padres molded together as a team and beat North County by out-playing them at both ends of the court.

Adam Sherburne and Childs combined for 9 assists and 8 steals between them, while Strum scored 23 points.

Childs also had 11 points. Cater added 10.

The Padres will play at Hollister on Feb. 1 at 8 p.m., then home to Palma at 7 p.m. on Feb. 5.

THE SOPHOMORE BOYS' basketball team won its last two league games with ease. The Padres dropped Gonzales 67-44 and defeated North County 45-28.

Center Brad Wiesner played very well, scoring a game-high 30 points, including 14 of 17 from the free-throw line. Wiesner also dominated the boards.

Steve Giraudo had 17 points and Rusty Elsberry 10. The Padres lost a very vital player in the Gonzales game. Guard John Parsons hurt his knee in the first quarter. Parsons, who has been averaging more than 15 points a game, will return soon.

Against North County, Wiesner had 21 points, while Brad Langley dropped in 12.

The sophomore team has a 5-1 record in league and a 10-3 overall record.

EVEN WITH THE HELP of four technical fouls the boys' freshmen basketball team lost to Gonzales, 36-34.

Center Brett Langley scored 23 points. He is averaging 17 points a game.

The frosh play at Hollister on Feb. 1 at 5 p.m.

THE PADRE WRESTLERS pinned Hollister in the varsity match 15-12 and 24-15 in the junior-varsity encounter.

The grapplers had six pins and one decision in both matches. Winning by pins were 114 lb. Wayne Farr, 122 lb. Will Farr, 135 lb. Mike Wilson, 140 lb. Chuck Monohan, and 156 lb. Mark Midgett.

Blaine Black won a 7-5 decision in the 105 lb. division.

THE UNDEFEATED GIRLS' field hockey team secured first place in its league by beating previously unbeaten North Salinas High 1-0.

Therese Ostrander scored the only goal of the game.

THE GIRLS' VARSITY basketball team stayed undefeated in league play by defeating Gonzales 46-28 and North County 52-36.

Sarah Thamer led all scorers with 17 points against Gonzales. Dana Hunter put in 12 points.

In the North County game, Thamer again was high scorer with 18 points.

Kathy Selle played well, tallying 10 points and six steals. The girls are 6-0 in league play and 14-1 overall. They are ranked third in the Central Coast Section.

The team plays at home on Feb. 1 at 8 p.m. against Hollister.

THE GIRLS' FROSH-SOPH basketball team had a split decision in their last two league games, beating North County 38-28 and losing to Gonzales 32-23.

Brenna Rozell had nine points and Maria Cecilio had eight to pace the girls against North County.

The girls play Hollister at 6:30 p.m. at Carmel on Feb. 1.

THE SOCCER TEAM lost its last two games, falling to Gonzales 4-1 and Robert Louis Stevenson 4-0.

Carmel played even with Gonzales in the first half but could only manage one goal in the second half on a penalty kick by Mark Sanford.

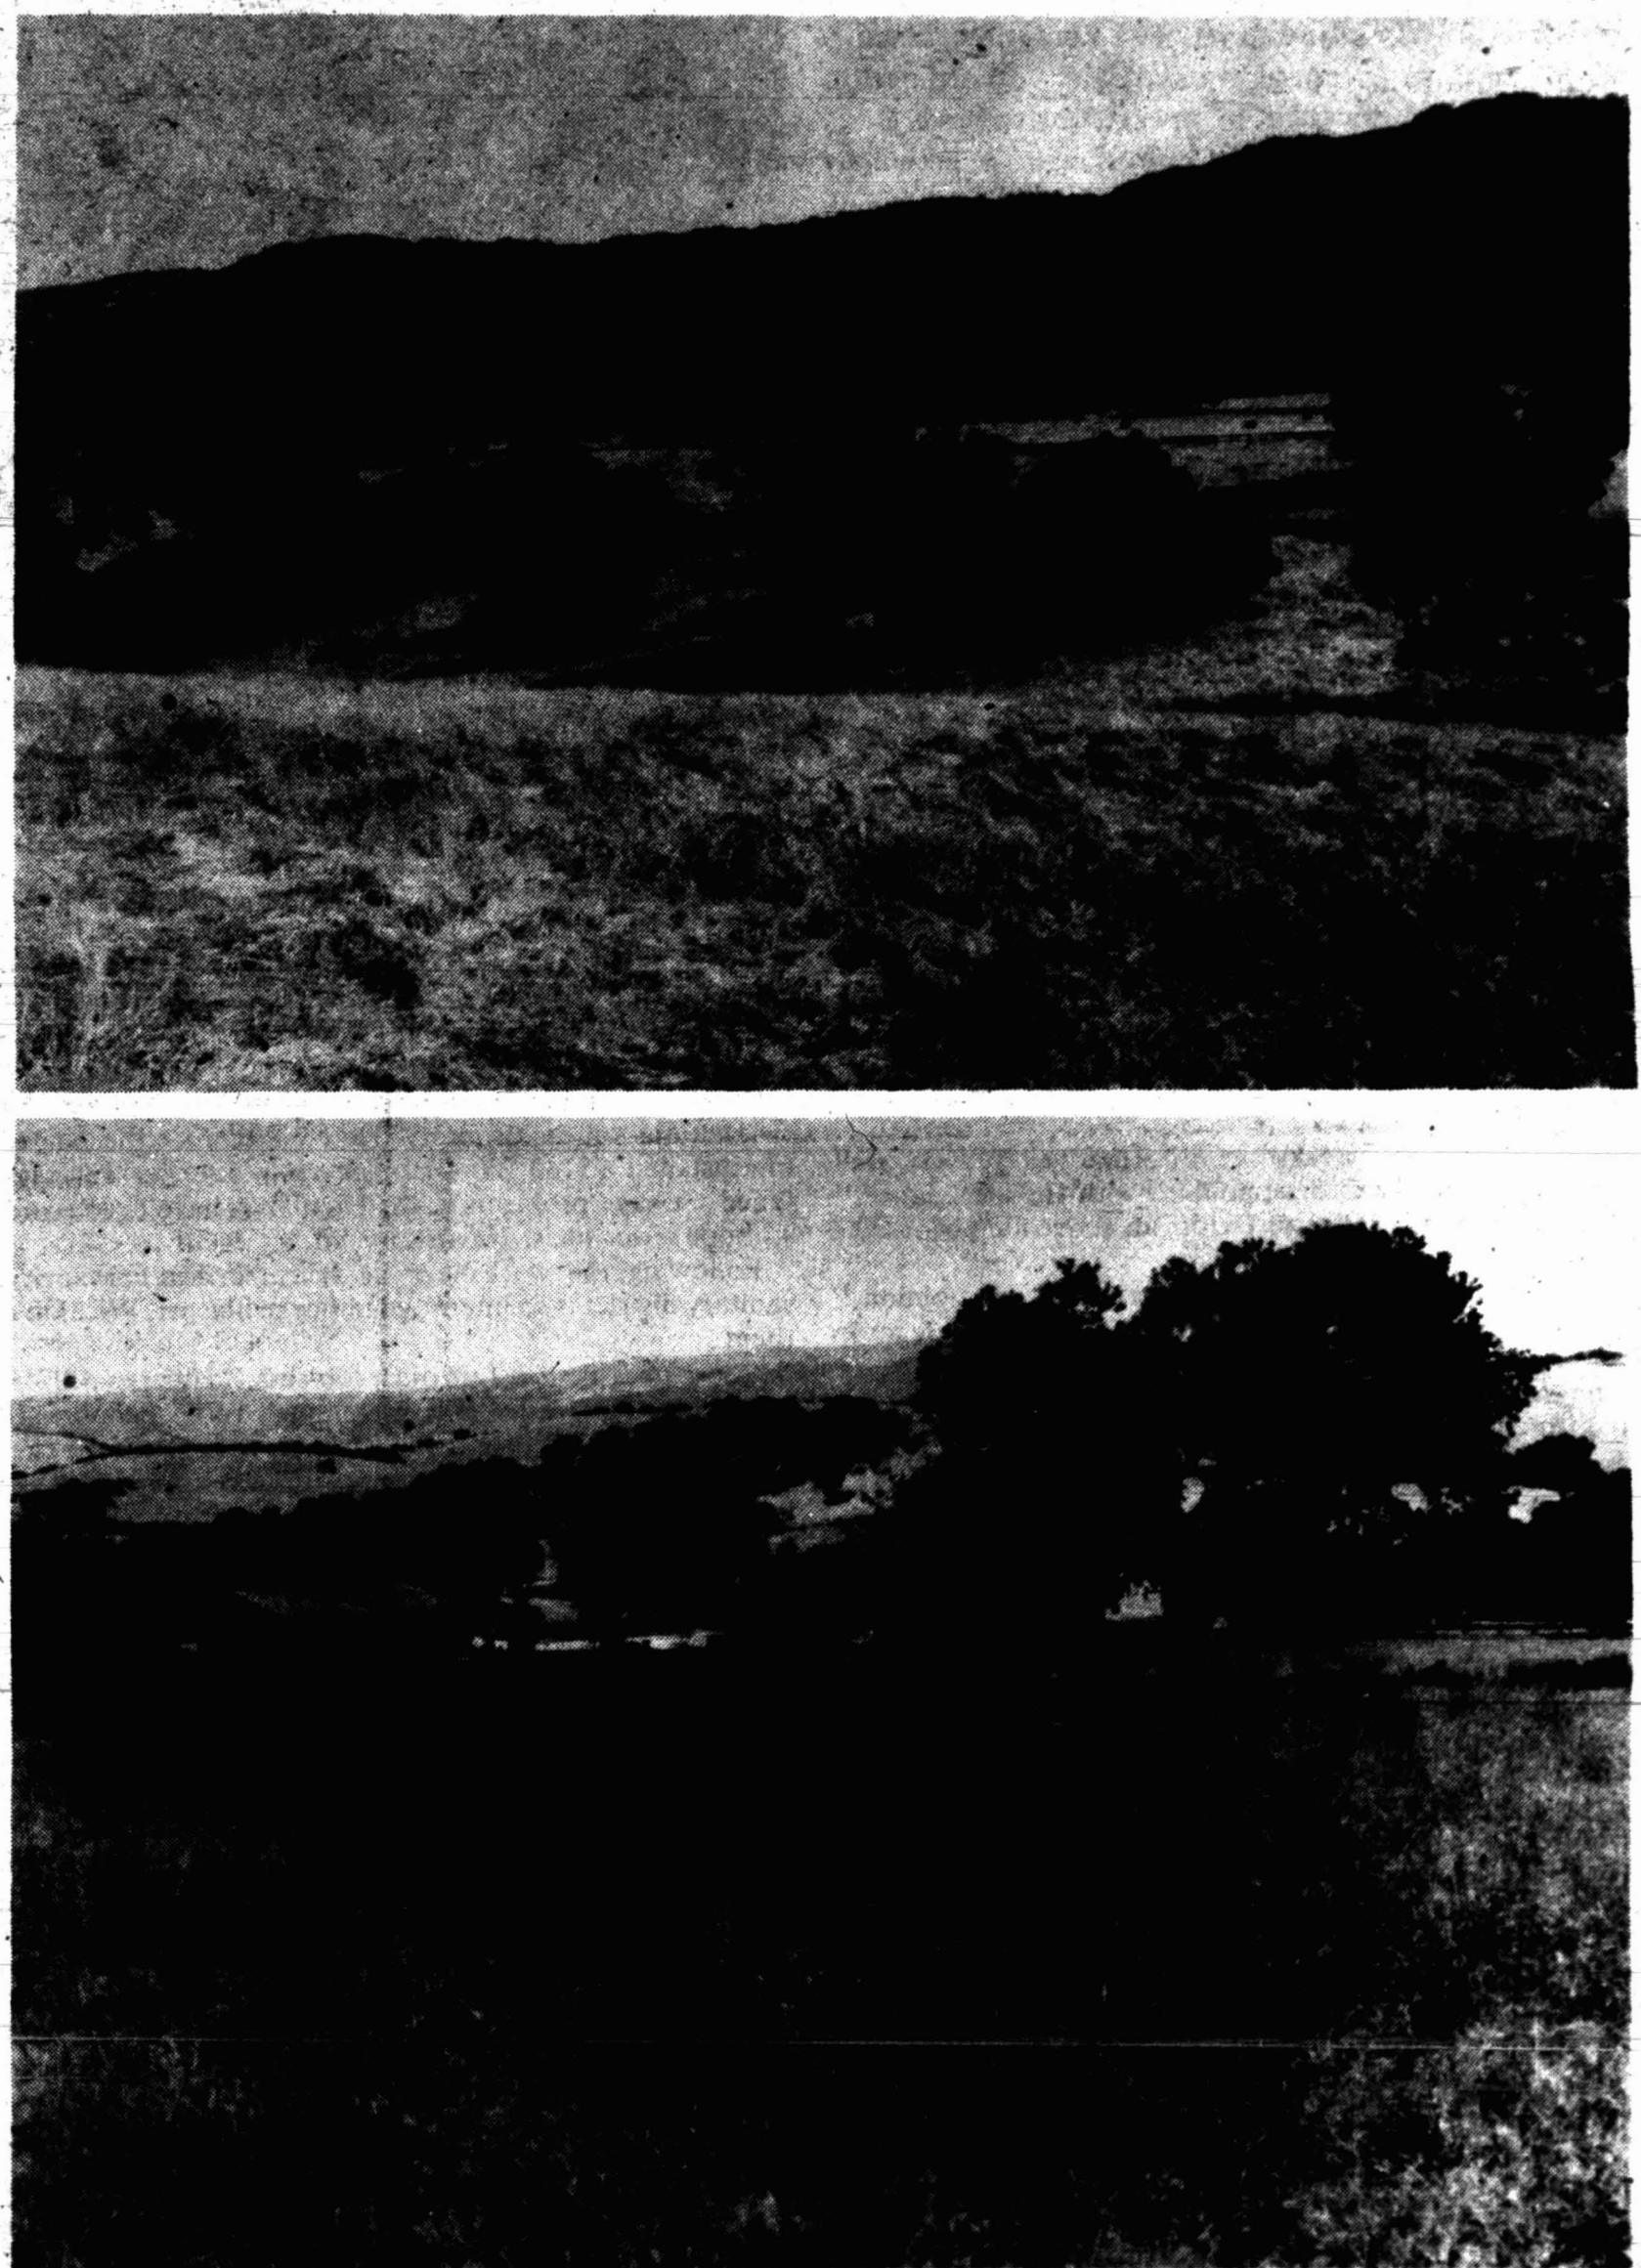

The Padres then traveled to RLS and played in a mud bowl. They were unable to get untracked.

Their next game is at home against RLS on Feb. 1 at 3 p.m.

The junior-varsity lost 5-1 to Gonzales and to RLS 4-0. Kerry Winslow scored the junior-varsity goal against Gonzales.

CV, Highlands residents challenge need for sewer service in their areas

By STEVE HELLMAN

RESIDENTS OF CARMEL Valley and Carmel Highlands offered mixed reactions to a major public workshop on sewage problems.

The Jan. 24 workshop sponsored by the Carmel Sanitary District prompted lively exchanges over a $62 million plan to construct sewers in the Valley and Highlands.

Meeting in small groups at Sunset Center in Carmel, the residents debated questions of septic tank efficiency in the Highlands, potential groundwater contamination in the Valley and the costs of sewer construction.

A slide show outlined the district's plan to eventually construct sewer lines in the Valley and Highlands at a cost that could reach $62 million in the next 20 years. Connection fees would range from $2,400 to $7,000 per home, according to a draft environmental impact report for the plan.

Unless the sewers are built the district expects that development would be delayed and the groundwater supply could be contaminated.

OFFICIALS OF THE district came away from the workshop with a consensus that:

- Carmel Highlands residents do not want sewers, even though some of them admit raw sewage is leaking from septic tanks.
- There were no data presented to confirm whether septic tank effluent in Carmel Valley is threatening to contaminate the Carmel River aquifer.
- Before residents in Carmel Valley will pay for sewer lines, they want the sanitary district to prove that the Carmel River aquifer is in danger of contamination.
- Residents would not mind sharing construction costs of sewers with new users, but they would be reluctant to connect to a sewer if they already have a septic tank.
- Sewers will lead to increased growth.
- The designation of Carmel Bay as an Area of Special Biological Significance (ASBS) should be retained, despite its cost and its limiting effect on development.

"I FOUND THE workshop informative. It was well planned, although I was disappointed with the attendance," said Rod Holmgren of Hatton Fields, an active member of the Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club.

"Obviously there were some differences of opinion," Holmgren said of the debate over the suitability of septic tanks in the Highlands.

Holmgren declared that all the homeowners he had spoken with during the workshop said their septic tanks were not leaking and that they operated properly if serviced.

PHILLIP GRAY, A resident of the Highlands, declared that "there's still sewage running under Spindrift Drive into the ocean. It's never been corrected."

Attorney Francis Heisler, another Highlands resident, said that he had seen "sewage overflowing across the highway. This was just six months ago."

Gray read a letter from Highlands resident Ansel Adams, who opposes the sewer line project.

"A sewer system in our area would be a disaster, financially and environmentally," Adams said in his letter. "The well-to-do residents could probably carry the assessments, but the average property owner would suffer real hardship."

"Septic tanks, when properly designed and maintained, are entirely adequate," Adams stated.

He proposed that legislation be enacted to make inspection

constitutional lawyer and resident of Carmel Highlands; and Alexander Henson, an attorney who worked for seven years in the environmental unit of the California attorney general's office. Henson is now a resident of Carmel Valley.

RICHARD HARRIS, A resident of the Highlands, challenged Holmgren, asking him to name the homeowners with no septic problems. Harris insisted that the Highlands has a history of leaking septic tanks, although he said he was not convinced there is a health hazard.

Harris said that he had invested $10,000 in septic tank installations on his property. He claimed that the Highlands Inn installed a $160,000 treatment plant after its septic system failed. Sewage problems in the Highlands have been remedied without sewer lines, Harris insisted.

Following the workshop, he said, "I don't see why the sanitary district is so interested in our problems. We didn't ask them."

"Sewage is the least of our problems," Harris said, "when you think that we haven't got enough room on our narrow roads to have a party and allow friends to park on the street."

Although he said that the workshop was informative and an important forum for residents to express their views, Harris added, "It seemed like it was all premature. The sanitary district hadn't done its homework."

Walter Wong, county director of environmental health, has determined that the Highlands area is unsuitable for any more septic tanks because of a thin soil mantle and solid granite base. Wong has denied septic tank permits to lot owners, explaining that they will have to wait until sewer lines are constructed.

RESIDENTS OF Carmel Valley were concerned mainly with the lack of data to support the district's plan for sewers. They repeatedly questioned why the district is proposing to replace septic tanks while it has not confirmed that a danger to the Carmel River aquifer exists.

"I was surprised at all the effort put into the workshop, while there was no foundation for this plan, at least for Carmel Valley," Alexander Henson said.

Henson, an attorney who recently resigned from the environmental unit of the state attorney general's office, said that he was not convinced during the workshop that the aquifer is in danger.

"The evidence just doesn't sustain the sewer line approach. We may be getting excited about a problem that doesn't exist," he said.

HENSON SAID THAT HE talked with James Lee, an environmental specialist for the state Water Resources Control Board who was present at the workshop.

Lee said that the state was concerned that the aquifer could become contaminated before it was detected, according to Henson. Sewer lines would prevent the potential for a permanent and disastrous impact on the local water supply, Lee said.

The Carmel River aquifer is the major source of water for most of the Monterey Peninsula.

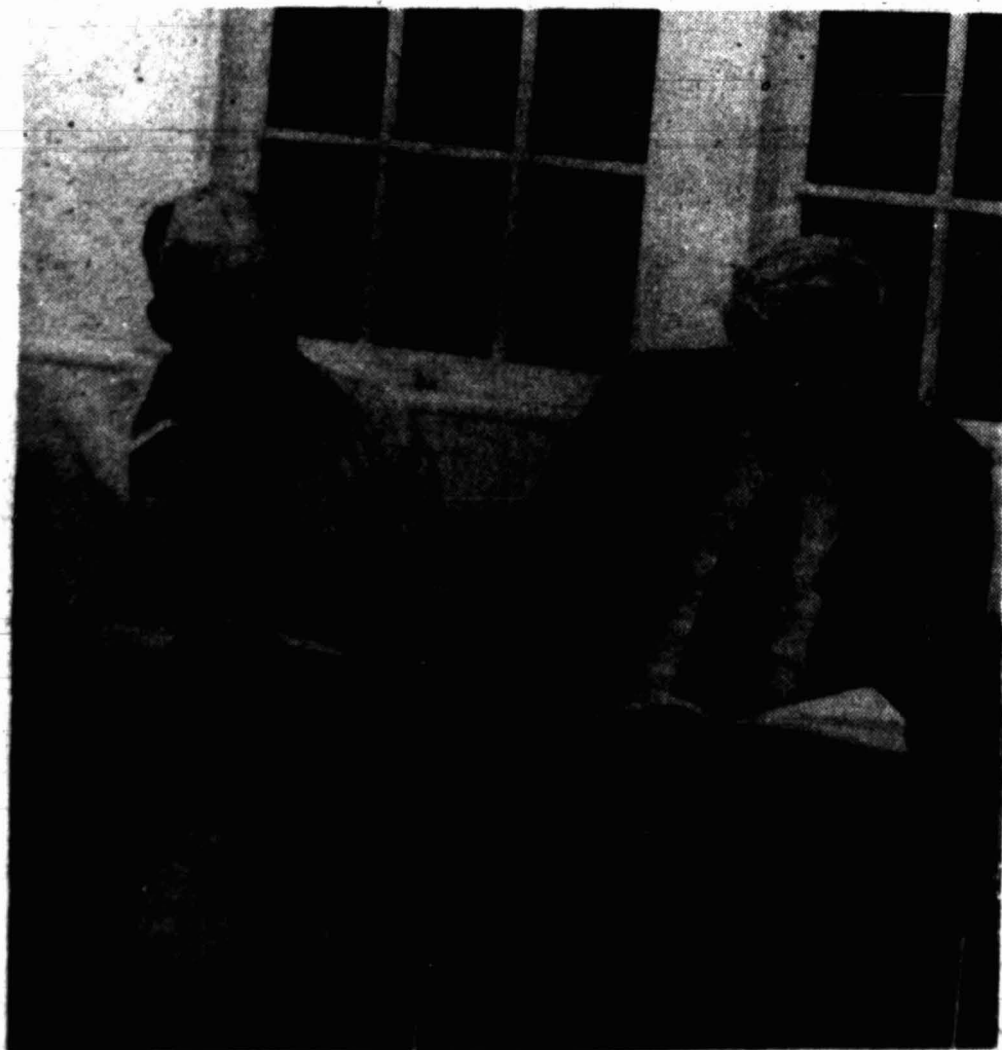

Henson said, "I am worried about the potential degradation of the aquifer. I'm wondering what effect 2,500 more units in the Valley will have in the next 20 years."

"There's plenty of time to drill monitoring wells. I think the residents of the Valley would be willing to help pay for the monitoring," he said.

Henson added that every resident should have to pay for the sewers if the district determines that they are necessary to avoid groundwater contamination.

"If septic tanks are failing they should be replaced with sewers," he said.

DAVID HUGHES, A resident of Tierra Grande, also questioned the lack of data on groundwater quality. He said

LACK OF DATA was particularly annoying (right photo) to Dr. Robert Greenwood (center). Greenwood, who recently returned to Carmel Valley after a two-year absence, said, "I expected several hundred analyses." Richard Harris (right) joined other Carmel Highlands residents who expressed opposition to sewers.

DAVID HUGHES (left), a resident of Tierra Grande, and Carl Hooper (right) of Bestor Engineers charged that there is a lack of data to support concerns that septic tanks may be contaminating groundwater supplies. Hooper said, "There's no actual data on anything but nitrates."

future plans for sewer lines. Hopkins supported the idea of storing treated wastewater in a reservoir that could also serve as a wildlife refuge. (George T.C. Smith photos) after the meeting that his first concern was that the EIR for the district's plan did not contain "definitive data."

"It must be determined what areas are clearly degrading the aquifer," Hughes said. "I don't think that my septic tank three miles up the hill will affect the aquifer."

The Monterey Peninsula Water Management District is in charge of monitoring water quality. District manager Bruce Buel said the agency is currently seeking financial assistance from the county and other agencies to begin the monitoring work.

VERNON HEAD, PRESIDENT of the board of directors of the Carmel Sanitary District, said that he was disappointed with the small turnout. Only 75 people attended.

"We wanted to hear from the people. We heard a number of concerns, and we'll continue to move ahead with our plans to preserve the aquifer, reclaim wastewater and protect the bay," Head said.

He said that the district has received a letter from Wong expressing the county's concern that "we get 'with it' and build sewers in the Highlands."

Head acknowledged that the laboratory hired to monitor the outfall line in the bay has yet to detect any harmful effects on the marine environment.

In response to requests that the district seek a rehearing on the ASBS, Head said, "We still don't know how long it will be before there is damage. We don't know and we can't play games."

"We've been told by the state to get out of the bay. Until we hit a blank wall on limiting the discharge, we're not ready to ask for a rehearing on the ASBS," he said.

WHAT ABOUT THE lack of information on groundwater contamination in the Valley?

Head said that this was more the concern of the county health department and water management district.

"As long as there's continued development, we know we'll have to construct sewers," he said.

"It makes common sense," Head said, "that residents should not ignore the potential danger from too many septic tanks."

"You don't run your car out of oil until it's knocking," he said. "We can't play with that aquifer. If it goes out ... once it's contaminated ... that's it."

THE LEIDIG HOUSE in 1936 on San Carlos near Sixth. In 1974, Monterey Savings and Loan moved in and opened its Carmel offices there.

Moving time again for Leidig house

By KEITH YATES

THE LEIDIG HOUSE has a new home, so to speak.

Last week the house was moved from its location on San Carlos between Fifth and Sixth, where it has served as the Carmel office of the Monterey Savings and Loan since 1974, to a location at Torres and Second.

The sight of the house being towed brought forth memories, sighs, giggles, tears and champagne toasts.

The home was built in 1912 by M.J. Murphy for Fred Leidig. It was located at San Carlos and Seventh until it was moved, by horse, 2 1/2 blocks down San Carlos to what is now a scarred, empty lot next to the new Monterey Savings building at San Carlos and Sixth.

It was recently sold to Nancy Roberts, a grandchild of a close friend of Fred and Clara Leidig.

"Gives the whole thing continuity," Glenn Leidig said as the big orange truck was tugging half of his family home off its lot.

THE HOUSE HAD to be sawed in two to squeeze through the narrow streets. The first half was moved Wednesday, Jan. 23 and the second half Friday, Jan. 25.

Glenn and Dale Leidig, Fred's sons, sighed and took photos of the old house's journey.

"These fellows (moving the house) are doing one heck of a fine job," Glenn said. "They've sometimes got only an inch or two on each side to clear a tree, and there's not been a scratch or bump yet. Quite a graceful move, I think."

Dio Roberts was on hand to serve champagne from the hood of his orange and cream Rolls Royce. "What the heck," he said with a nod to the classic auto, "an occasion like this deserves the best we've got."

THE HOUSE WENT UP Sixth Street to Carpenter, right on Third, and left on Torres to Second.

At Third and Torres it had to be jacked up in order to negotiate the turn.

About 24 two-to-five-year olds watched with disbelieving eyes as the house coasted to a stop in front of the Carmel Pre-School.

As the workers began to jack the house up, three-year-old James Richard Genone III observed: "my house didn't come with wheels." He also indicated that as far as he knew his house had never been cut in half, either. A bystander suggested that any house, old or new, could be cut in half. Little James said that his father might object to that, but that he'd ask.

A little blonde-haired girl, who declined to state her name, said that she'd seen "lots" of houses cut in half and moved down the street.

Coincidentally, the Carmel Pre-School is owned by Glenn Leidig. He leases it to Millicent Lawitzke.

THE FIRST HALF of the Leidig house moves from its location next to the new Monterey Savings and Loan building at San Carlos and Sixth. New owner Nancy Roberts reclines on the roof, satisfied that the Henningsen Construction Co. of Salinas is exercising the proper care.

Actress Olivia de Havilland to help Eskaton celebrate its anniversary

Eskaton Monterey Hospital, as part of its golden anniversary celebration, will present a series of celebrity lectures beginning in March which will include an appearance by two-time Academy Award winning actress Olivia de Havilland.

The three-part Eskaton Monterey Hospital Celebrity Series will begin March 20 when Miss de Havilland speaks on From the City of Stars to the City of Light. Star of Gone With the Wind and author of Every Frenchman Has One, the actress, mother, American and resident of Paris will relate amusing anecdotes as she tells of her many lives.

The series continues April 18 with La Condesa de Romanones, who will speak on Understanding the True Significance of Foreign Uprisings. An American-born woman, she became an O.S.S. agent assigned to Spain who then married into one of the country's most notable and prominent families. Twice decorated by the Spanish government; she is a member of the 10 Best Dressed Hall of Fame and is an international businesswoman and political activist who will share her understanding of world politics.

On May 9, The Oceans: Conservation or Exploitation will be the lecture topic of Jon Morrow Lindbergh, a man who has dedicated his life to the sea. Lindbergh has designed a system to recover parts of a sunken submarine from 10,000 feet below the surface, test piloted a mini-submarine and is presidential designate to the Peace Corps National Advisory Council.

The price of season tickets for the series is $20. Single tickets are not available for individual speakers. Following each celebrity's talk, the hospital will host a reception. All lectures begin at 2 p.m. in the Steinbeck Forum of the Monterey Conference Center, 1 Portola Plaza, Monterey.

All proceeds will benefit the Coronary Monitor Fund.

Make checks payable to Eskaton Monterey Hospital Celebrity Series and mail to 576 Hartnell St., Monterey, Calif. 93940.

H. CHANDLER STEELE and Jeanne Cooper were married recently in an informal ceremony in Spokane, Wash. The Carmel Valley residents will maintain two homes, in the Carmel area and Spokane, where Jeanne is employed at the Sacred Heart Hospital.

Jeanne Cooper, H. Chandler Steele united in marriage; to reside in CV

Professor and Mrs. Paul E. Cooper of Carmel Valley have announced the marriage of their daughter, Jeanne Cooper, to H. Chandler Steele of Carmel Valley.

The bride, a graduate of Washington State University where she earned a bachelor of science degree in nursing, is employed in the intensive care unit of Sacred Heart Hospital in Spokane. She is a 1969 graduate of Carmel High School.

The groom, the son of Mrs. Alice Steele of Carmel Valley and Ralph Steele of Port Angeles, Wash., is the former owner of the Beach Wood Gallery in Carmel and now maintains a sculpture studio in Carmel Valley. He is a 1968 graduate of Carmel High School.

The bride was attended by Gail Ward of Carmel Valley. Peter Azevedo of Carmel Valley was the best man.

The newlyweds plan to divide their time between the Monterey Peninsula and Spokane.

Attempt fails to restore 6-period day at Middle School

By STEVE HELLMAN

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION of the Carmel Unified School District voted 4-1 at its meeting Jan. 28 to continue a five-period day at Middle School. Additional electives and German language classes may be offered as compensation.

Students have been on a reduced schedule since the beginning of the school year as a result of budget cuts.

Despite a strong plea by parents at a special study session last week, the trustees declined to rehire teachers and re-program class schedules at mid-year.

The trustees, in a unanimous straw vote, declared their intention to finance a six-period day in the budget for the 1980-81 school year.

ALTHOUGH FOUR OF the trustees ran as a quasi-slate in last November's election, promising a return to six periods, a majority decided at the Jan. 28 meeting that it would be premature to restore programs this semester because:

- It would be unfair to teachers who were furloughed due to budget cuts.
- It would require a complete, time-consuming change in the master schedule. Classes would have to be combined and teaching assignments re-programmed.
- It would disrupt the students.
- It would require funds that were not included in this year's budget by the previous board. Administrators estimated it would cost from $45,000-$50,000 to restore the program.
- It might violate the current contract between teachers and the district.
- It would cause the district's ending balance for this year to be less than $200,000, which would eliminate 2 percent salary increases for teachers and administrators.

BARBARA SANFORD, ONE of the four new trustees, dissented in the 4-1 vote.

"There's no question that we have the money to do it, and this is the time to do it," Sanford said.

She chided the district staff for not investigating options. Sanford insisted that her own investigation had turned up excess teaching time at the high school.

In response to her colleagues' decision to wait until next year to finance six periods, Sanford said, "We're not talking about money. With an optional 'O' period at 8 a.m., students can be offered additional electives."

The equivalent of a six-period schedule could be offered students, Sanford said, if they have five "solids," a language class and arts and crafts electives. It would only require the reassignment of some teachers' time from the high school to Middle School, she said.

BRUCE LATHROP, THE student representative to the board, explained the importance of electives at Middle School. "I took industrial crafts at Middle School. I learned how to weld. I haven't taken any crafts at the high school," he said. "Everything at the high school is for going to college; Middle School is for learning," Lathrop said.

Assistant Superintendent William Rand advised that it would disrupt the high school schedule to re-program teachers. Classes would have to be combined, he said, although he acknowledged that it could be accomplished.

ALLURA FISHBURN, WHO teaches German at Middle School, said that she would volunteer her time to provide a "O"-period German class.

The foreign language program at Middle School was cut severely during last year's budget reductions.

Fishburn said, "I'm teaching my last German class at Middle School now. Unless something is done this spring, we will irrevocably hamper the German program."

She said that her husband, who teaches at Middle School, would be willing to be re-scheduled to provide a German class.

The trustees agreed to allow teachers to volunteer their time for additional classes at Middle School.

TRUSTEES RON PARRAVANO, Frances Gaver and Doyle Clayton voted against restoration of six periods this spring. Board president Ken White, who has two children at Middle School, also supported the decision to wait until fall.

"We have to live with the current tight budget," said Parravano, who served on the citizens advisory committee for budget reductions.

"We need every penny of the $200,000 reserves," he added. "A large expenditure now for the six-period day would be unfair to teachers" who were either laid off or promised a 2 percent raise contingent on the district's ending balance.

The six-period day was eliminated through budget planning and it should be restored through budget planning, Parravano said.

"We should go with it (six periods), but go with it at the beginning of the next school year," he said.

CLAYTON SUGGESTED THAT the trustees vote, to include the six-period day in next year's budget. While he admitted that it would be disruptive to implement it this spring, he said, "The community needs to know that this board is going to restore the six-period day."

Gaver, the board veteran, insisted that "it is inappropriate to automatically include it in the budget now. It's not wise to be making budget decisions this early when the budget's not adopted until August."

She added that the board would have to wait until its next meeting to take action on Clayton's motion. It had not been listed as an action item on the agenda for the Jan. 28 meeting, she noted.

REINSTATEMENT OF THE six-period day at Carmel Middle School was the subject of a special two-hour meeting of the school board Jan. 25.

A group of parents, calling itself "bargaining agents for the school children," requested the meeting.

The parents presented written statements and a survey of other school districts to support their charge that the five-period day is "cheating students."

OTHER PARENTS AT the crowded meeting, along with several Middle School teachers and district employees, cautioned the trustees to wait until next fall to make the change.

Representatives of the Association of Carmel Teachers and the California School Employees Association charged that it would be unfair to rehire teachers and re-program classes at this time, since staff cuts have already been made for this school year.

Administrators warned the board that it would be complicated for the district to restore six periods this semester. "We'd hate to restore six periods now and then have to return to five periods in the fall," Rand said.

Rand explained that there are several variations the board could adopt, including rotating schedules for teachers and a modified six-period day that would be optional.

"We can safely work out a reasonable solution," Rand said. "It takes time, however. Any changes for the six-period day should be done for the 1980-81 school year."

"It's unwise to do it now," he added, "because the previous board's decisions have locked us into a five-period day at Middle School."

Rand also assured parents that the district could offer a daily foreign language program this semester without returning to six periods. Parents, teachers and students have pleaded with the school board to restore language classes cut last semester.

SUPERINTENDENT DR. CARL Wilsey advised the board that if it restored six periods this semester it would disrupt the school's program and cause financial hardship.

The additional cost of providing a six-period day would be $45,000-$50,000, according to business manager Robert Zampatti.

Additional bus transportation would cost $11,000, of which 40 percent can be refunded by the state. Four full-time teaching positions would have to be created, at a total salary cost of $33,000-$37,000. Supplies would cost $1,000.

WILSEY SAID THAT the district could not restore six periods at Middle School and still hope to balance its budget this year.

He explained that the district has suffered budget deficits in each of the past four years, including a $371,000 deficit for the 1978-79 school year.

"We may be able to break even this year," he said. The district's ending balance could be $202,000, depending on the outcome of salary negotiations with the classified employees. The balance, however, could fall as low as $102,000, Wilsey said.

Teachers will receive a retroactive 2 percent salary hike if the ending balance is more than $200,000, according to the contract that was approved for the 1979-80 school year.

JAN SCOTT, REPRESENTING the Association of Carmel Teachers, told the trustees: "Major changes in the program during the term of the contract would affect the ending balance.

"We have been advised," she said, "that this would be in violation of our contract."

Scott declared that the district would not be "acting in good faith" if it reinstates the program at mid-year after staff reductions have been approved for the school year.

"This is not the way to work with your staff," she said.

Lynn Brooks of Carmel Valley and Lorie Lockwood of Big Sur were among the parents who supported the five-period day. They said that they were glad to have their children home an hour early.

MARY STEWART HOOPES, representing the California School Employees Association, said that the six-period day should be reinstated, but not until the next school year.

"Money has not been previously budgeted to do it now. We'd have to juggle transportation and program," she said. "It would be unfair to reinstate programs which were cut recently in order to lay off staff."

Betty Hinton, one of the parents calling for immediate reinstatement of teachers and the program, said: "If there was a need for six periods in the past, there's a greater need for it now."

"We are acting as the sole bargaining agents for the children of our district. We can no longer tolerate program cuts. It's cheating the students," she said.

THE DISTRICT WILL benefit from a six-period day at Middle School, Hinton insisted, because it will help ensure enrollment. She said that her group wanted six periods restored immediately.

Lou Langley read a letter by Jolene Fenton that declared, "Middle School is the pivotal point in our school system. Either we return to a six-period day or we face a significant loss in enrollment and state funding."

Jerian Crosby, president of the Middle School Site Council, said that the council had voted to have six periods restored.

Dorothy Crivello, vice president of the parent club, said her group had voted unanimously for a six-period day.

"The five-period day is having a devastating effect on students," Crivello charged. "The cuts are being made in the wrong places. They must be made as far away as possible from the classroom."

A SURVEY OF 14 California school districts with comparably sized junior high schools was submitted by Madelyn Van Zander. It showed that all of them either had six or seven periods. None had a five-period day.

"We have set our priority," Van Zander said, "on items and services, rather than program."

It is urgent that the district restore the six-period day this semester, Van Zander said, to remain competitive with private schools in the area.

"A lot of parents can arrange for private education. To remain competitive we have to have basic academics and quality electives," she said.

"This is our number one priority for the school district. We want Middle School to be the first choice," Van Zander said.

John Givens, a student at Middle School, said that six periods would simply mean an extra elective.

CARTOONIST HANK KETCHAM, creator of Dennis the Menace, illustrated his drawing of the mischievous character and some of his friends at the annual meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Visiting Nurse Association on Jan. 23. He told the crowd that he started the cartoon strip in Carmel in 1951. It is now included in some 800 daily newspapers. Ketcham entertained the VNA members with quick sketches of his famous cartoon characters and answered questions about his craft. He also revealed that Dennis the Menace will appear in his first television show, a special feature on Mother's Day.

Mark condos win final approval

MRS. BARBARA MARK has cleared the final hurdle to begin construction of 38 condominiums in Carmel Valley Village.

"With all the things that have taken place, we've done everything possible to cooperate," Mrs. Mark said. "I don't know what else could happen."

Mrs. Mark said she needs to develop her 8.1 acres to pay "horrendous" inheritance taxes.

THE PROPERTY, LOCATED in the heart of the Village off Carmel Valley Road between Esquiline and Paso Hondo, has been saddled with a reported $175,000 inheritance tax bill.

Mrs. Mark's family has owned the land since 1939.

The White Oak shops are located along Carmel Valley Road.

"I've had to seek a solution," Mrs. Mark said. "I should have something to say about my property."

"We are not going to do anything irresponsible," she added.

THE MONTEREY COUNTY Board of Supervisors granted final clearance last week for the tentative subdivision map and use permit, acting on an appeal filed by the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association.

The CVPOA, which had earlier won a lawsuit to force the preparation of an Environmental Impact Report for the project, asked that the density be trimmed.

The tentative subdivision map was granted last July for 40 condominiums on 9.1 acres, but it was discovered in October that there were actually only 8.1 acres.

The error, reported by architect Jerry Romis, was inadvertently made by a project designer, and later discovered during a final survey.

JOHN BROBERG, A member of the CVPOA, told the supervisors last week that a "reduction in the density is mandatory."

"The acreage is 10 percent less than represented. There should be a 10 percent reduction in the units," said Broberg, who lives on Village Drive near the project site.

The project should be limited to 36 instead of 40 units, he said.

CVPOA president Douglas Despard, stating that his organization would not file another lawsuit, said that he would leave it to the discretion of the supervisors to decide the reduction in density.

He reminded the supervisors, however, that last year the CVPOA had "reluctantly agreed to the 40 units."

ATTORNEY FRANCIS "Skip" Lloyd, representing Mrs. Mark, said they would accept a compromise reduction to 38 units "to solve this once and for all."

He noted that Mrs. Mark had proposed 55 units at one time and that density had been approved by the Upper Carmel Valley Advisory Committee. Mrs. Mark had returned with the 55-unit proposal after her proposal for a 100-unit tennis resort met stiff opposition from Valley residents.

Lloyd recalled that the scale of the project was then reduced to 46 units after the county Health Department imposed more stringent conditions on sewage disposal.

The project was finally approved at 40 units through a compromise worked out by the county Planning Commission. The concern then, Lloyd said, was for visual open space. The CVPOA had asked for a limit of 33 units.

"We'll settle for 38 units," Lloyd said last week.

SUPERVISOR SAM FARR'S motion to amend the use permit to allow for 38 units was approved by a 5-0 vote.

Supervisors failed to resolve, however, Farr's question about what the county should do with the two displaced units. The recently approved Carmel Valley Master Plan includes 40 units for Mrs. Mark in the 2,500-unit quota for the Valley, Farr observed.

Farr added that the developer should be required to contribute an undetermined amount of money to the county youth recreational fund. The funds will be earmarked for the Carmel Valley Youth Community Center.

'Supertankers in Monterey Bay'

subject of MPC lecture Friday

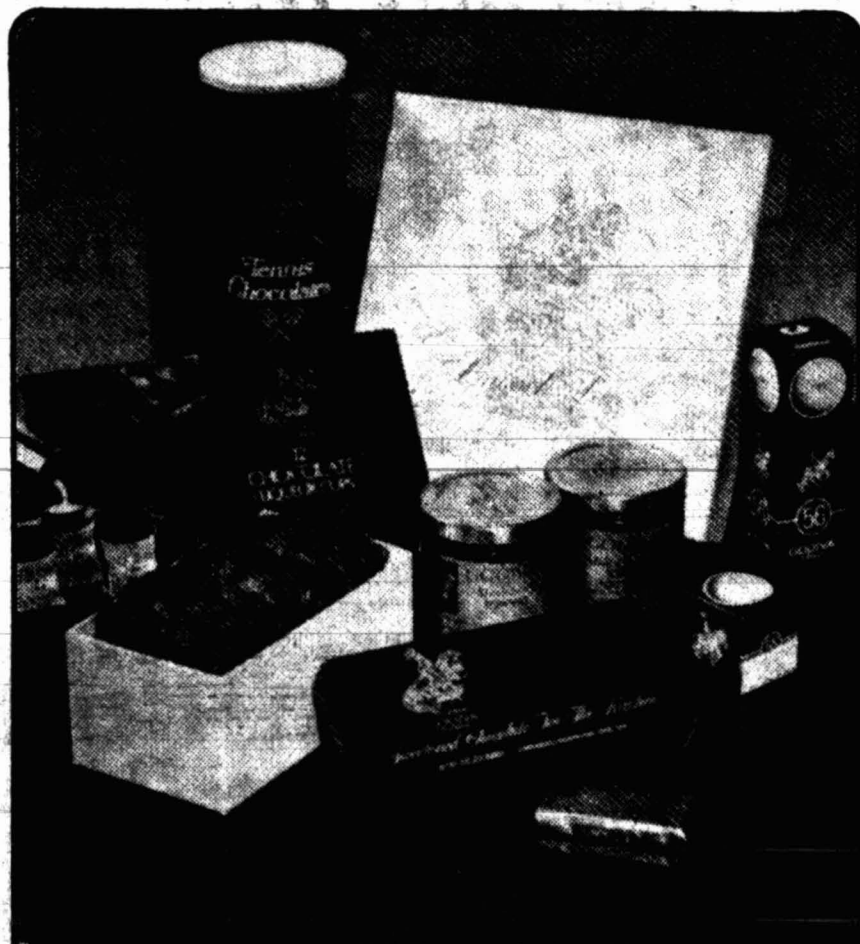

Supertankers in Monterey Bay will be the lecture topic of retired sea captain Charles D. Domac Friday, Feb. 1 in room A-9 of Monterey Peninsula College, Monterey. The free program, part of the MPC Knowledge Update series, will begin at 1:30 p.m.; everyone is welcome.

Domac, who earned a U.S. Coast Guard Unlimited Master's License, served as second mate on a North Atlantic convoy run for the British Ministry of War Transport and was Naval representative with the Royal Yugoslav government-in-exile in London.

Born in Yugoslavia, Domac is now retired and has resided on the Monterey Peninsula since 1974. He will present arguments for and against permitting large oil tankers to moor at the Moss Landing PG&E power plant.

For more information, phone the MPC Humanities Department, 649-1150.

Is A Problem Drinker Destroying Your Family?

• Read Every Word

If there is a problem drinker at your house, you already know that he or she will eventually destroy the whole family. It may be happening right now. You can help the problem drinker even if he or she doesn't want help. But you alone can do it — problem drinkers cannot help themselves.

• What Not to Do

Don't accuse — he or she will never admit to drinking too much. Don't try to reason with the problem drinker. Alcohol abusers are seriously ill, and the illness affects the mind as well as the body.

• What You Can Do

The best thing (and really the only thing) you can do for problem drinkers is to get them to professional help. Fast. The CareUnit Program in your local hospital offers a unique program that works. Given the right environment and an effective treatment program, alcoholism is a treatable disease. We prove it every day. In a few weeks, the problem drinker can look forward to resuming a useful and productive place in society. And you can look forward to a happy, normal life once again.

• How to Begin

Begin by calling your local CareUnit immediately, and talk to a staff counselor. You alone can help the alcoholic. Call now — and put an end to everybody's suffering once and for all.

Brunn challenges selection.

Woolworth appointed to planning commission

ANNE C. WOOLWORTH was appointed to the Carmel Planning Commission at Monday night's special City Council meeting.

Mayor Gunnar Norberg appointed Woolworth to succeed Dr. Manfred Prescott, who resigned last August to follow other pursuits.

The nomination was challenged by Councilman Howard Brunn.

He asked Norberg whether the chairman of the commission, Robert Stephenson, had been consulted.

"No, I did not consult him," Norberg answered, adding that it is his prerogative as mayor to nominate persons for appointment.

Brunn said that the appointment "is a stack job" as "all the mayor's appointments to the planning commission are from the Old Carmel group."

Norberg did not reply.

WOOLWORTH IS A member of Old Carmel and the Carmel Citizens Committee.

She moved to Carmel 25 years ago from San Francisco. Woolworth pursued an interior design career there, taking courses in both interior design and architectural planning at the San Francisco Art Institute. She has been active in interior designing on the Monterey Peninsula.

WOOLWORTH TOLD the Pine Cone that she feels that "the planning commission has done a good job" for the city.

She said that she is particularly interested in "controlling growth and improving parking for Carmel residents."

Brunn eventually withdrew his objection to Woolworth's appointment, and the council approved the appointment unanimously.

City Administrator Doug Peterson speculated that Woolworth could be sworn in at the Feb. 4 council meeting.

Scout Troop 3 members hike LP forest

Nine Scouts from Carmel's Boy Scout Troop 3 participated Jan. 19-20 in an overnight hike from Bottcher's Gap to Pat Springs in the Ventana Wilderness of the Los Padres National Forest.

Several of the Scouts used the activity toward completion of their hiking and camping merit badges.

Scouts who participated were Van Crego, Clifton Bonner, Siegfried Lackner, Winston Aucutt, Conard Lindgren, Addison Phillips, Jeff Fenton, Chris Tolles and Daniel McLean.

Troop 3 is sponsored by the Carmel Kiwanis Club and meets on Wednesday at 7 p.m. at the Carmel Scout House.

Facts about cancer given

Basic Facts About Cancer will be the first program in a series of public forums titled A Community Understanding of Cancer beginning Wednesday, Feb. 6. Sponsored by the Cancer Support Group of Salinas, the lecture begins at 7 p.m. in the Santa Lucia Room of the Salinas Community Center, 940 N. Main St., Salinas; there is no charge.

Dr. Patrick Flanagan and Dr. James Fish, Salinas oncologists, will be the guest speakers at the introductory program. Future programs include Research and Hope and Community Resources.

The Cancer Support Group is an organization of former and current cancer patients who meet weekly to share information and experiences. The group is a joint project of the American Cancer Society and the Visiting Nurses Association.

LARRY MORAGO FOR CITY COUNCIL

A Vote for Leadership in Communication

Carmel-by-the-Sea is more than a beautiful meeting of mountains and sea. It is more than charming shops and homes. Carmel is Carmelites. The history of our village relates the stories of individuals with talent and vitality. Individuals who loved life and retained a sense of humor.

I will be a councilman who will lead in that manner. We have more than enough experience and talent between us to resolve any problems. We have the exuberance of our youth, the practicality of the middle years, and the wisdom of age to accomplish any task. I will lead to bring us together as a community.

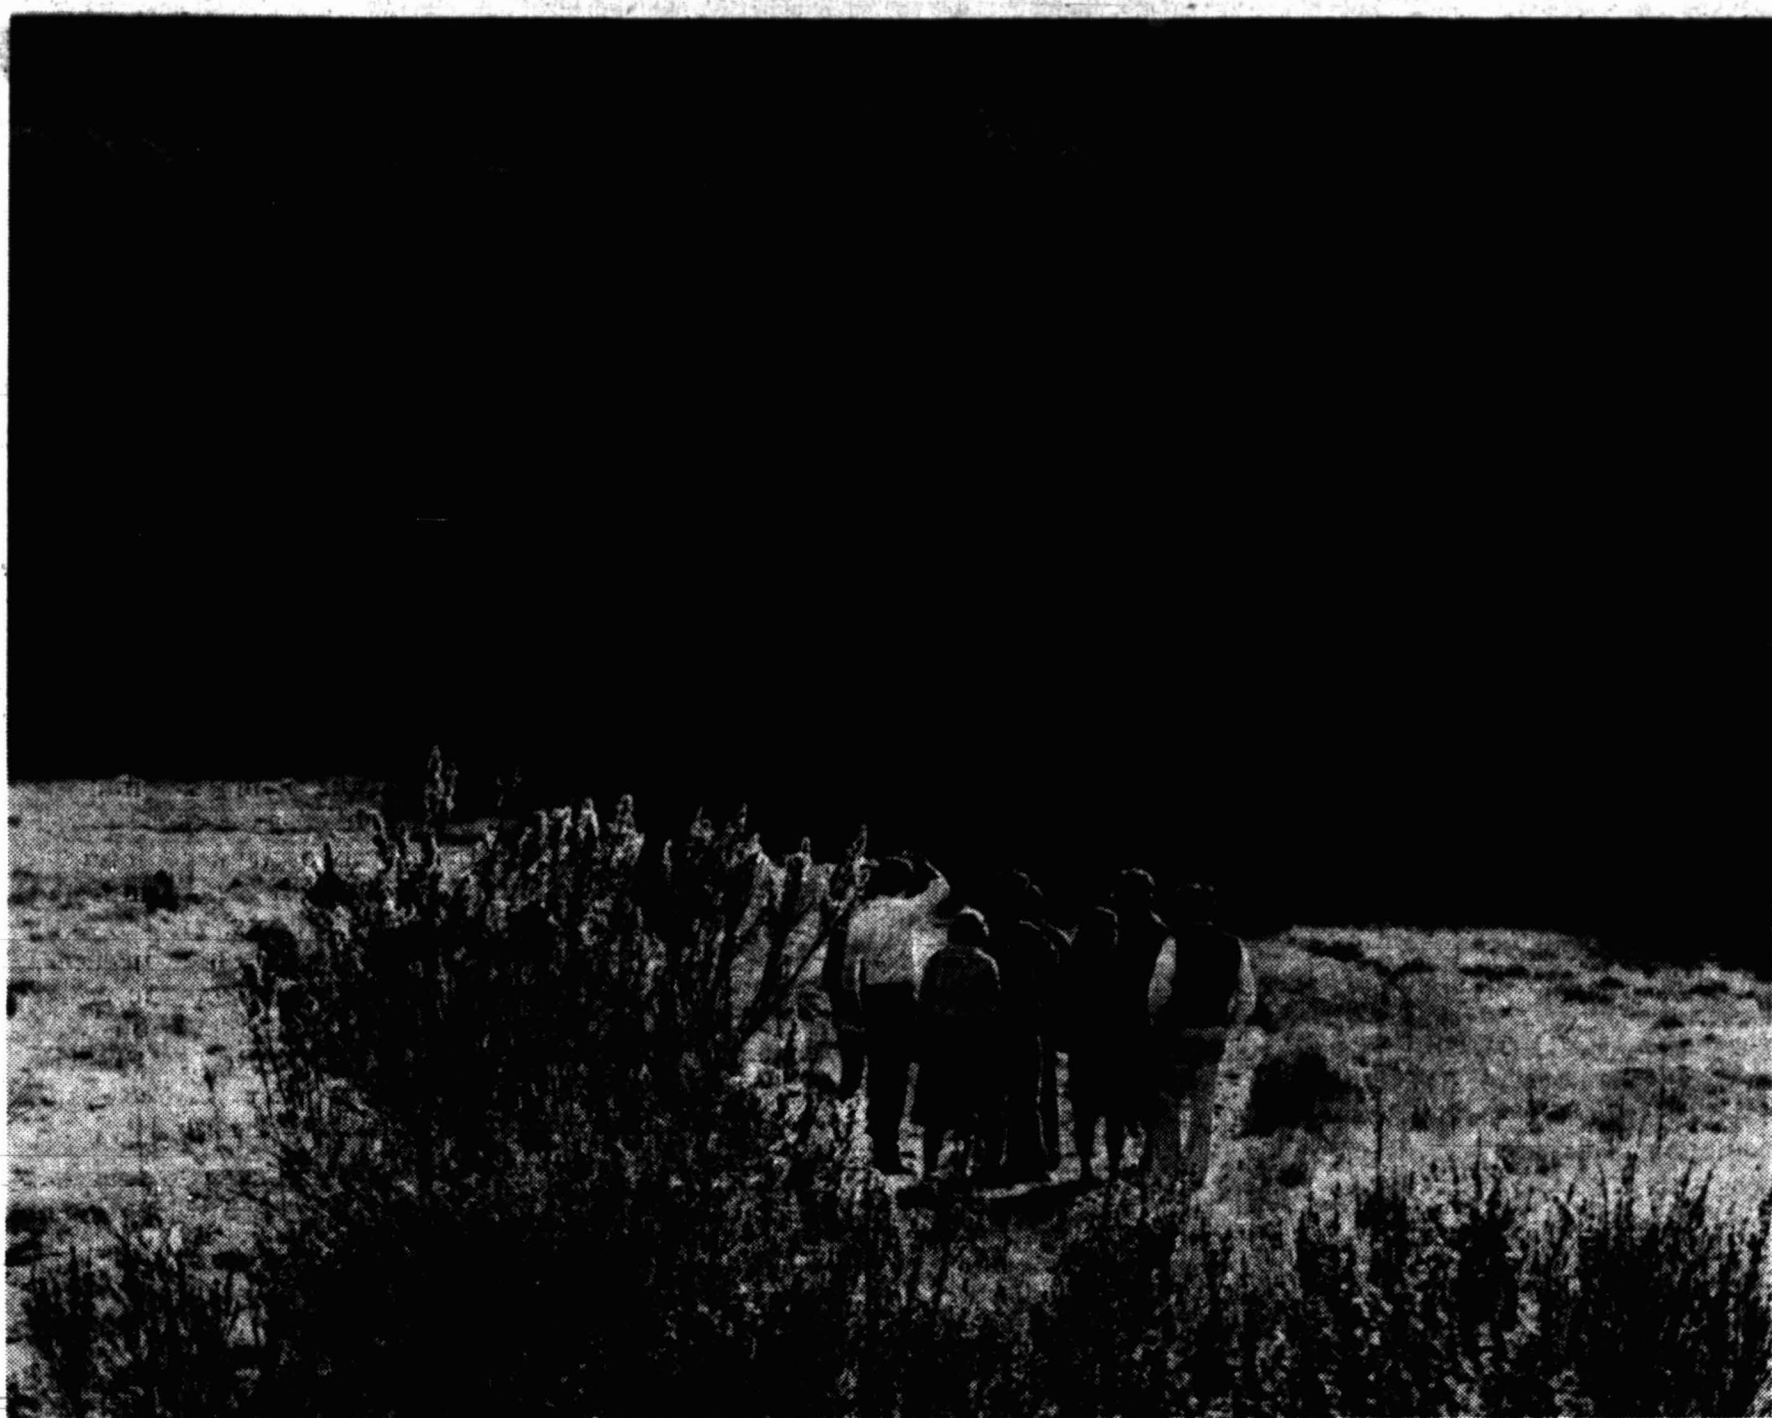

Let us put aside negativism. Carmelites consider no opinion more important than the human being who holds it. Divided we accomplish nothing; united we can accomplish everything.

Sale of school sites approved

the sites will help finance $903,500 in improvements at Carmel High School. According to state law, the sites must first be offered to government agencies for a 60-day period. Within the next two months, Wilsey said, the district will have the land appraised and the title searches completed. The trustees also voted to lease other district property, including the undeveloped 20-acre site (shown below) located at Scarlett and Carmel Valley roads. (George T.C. Smith photo)

Putting the emphasis on spelling

TEACHERS FROM TULARCITOS, Carmelo, Woods and River schools in the Carmel Unified School District receive some tips on teaching spelling from an expert, Dr. Margaret Lynch (sitting on the table at far right), during a workshop Jan. 16 at Holiday Inn in Carmel. Dr. Lynch, professor of education at San Francisco State University, was asked to speak on spelling "because this is an area that it was felt needed emphasis," said Theresa Brodsley, workshop coordinator. The workshop was presented by Tularcitos

Elementary School as part of the School Improvement Program. Dr. Lynch is a past president of the California Reading Association and three years ago received the Marcus Foster Award for having done the most to improve the teaching of reading in California. The workshop also presented programs on expository writing by Evelyn Damgaard and classroom music by Mary Puckett and Brodsley of the Tularcitos faculty.

FREE WANT ADS

For subscribers to the Carmel Pine Cone

A SPECIAL OFFER TO OUR VALUED SUBSCRIBERS

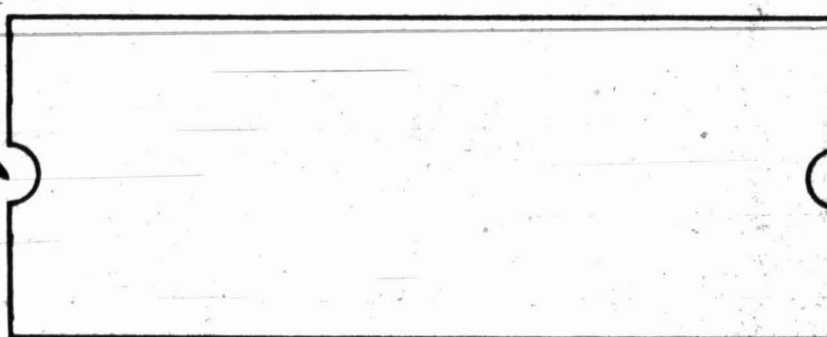

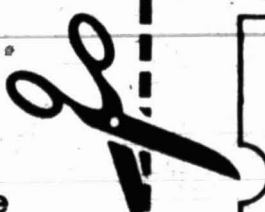

The Pine Cone is happy to be here and we always look forward to meeting our subscribers. As a gesture of our thanks for your continued support, we invite you to have a FREE WANT AD every week, in your paper.

HOW TO WRITE A WANT AD

List the classification you want your ad to appear under in the form at right. Then start your ad with the item you have for sale, etc. Be sure to include your phone number at the end. To make your ad effective, describe your item fully including such things as weight, size, color, age, condition, etc. It is best to list your asking price; this will eliminate calls from people who are not prospective buyers.

RULES:

Free want ads are for person-to-person sales only. Ads for businesses or real estate will not be accepted. Free ads must be written on this form only and delivered to our office by 3 p.m. Monday (no phone ads, please). Free ads are limited to 16 words. The Pine Cone is not responsible for errors in free ads. Limit is one ad per subscriber per week. To run the same ad the following week, a new ad on a new form must be submitted. Publisher reserves the right to refuse any free ad for any reason. Free ads must be placed in the following classifications: Antiques, Autos for Sale, Boats for Sale, Lost & Found, Misc. for Sale, Pets & Livestock, Special Notices, Wanted, Yard Sales.

This label is your ticket for a free ad and must appear here on any ad you turn in. Clip this label from the front page of your weekly Pine Cone.

Expansion OK'd for proposed sanitation district in CV

EXPANSION OF THE proposed sanitation district in Carmel Valley was approved last week by the Monterey County Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO).

Last November LAFCO approved formation of a new Carmel Valley Sanitation District to operate the $1 million private sewage treatment plant for the Carmel Valley Ranch development.

LAFCO expanded the sanitation district boundaries last week to include the planned Barbara Mark and Village Greens condominium developments.

Mrs. Barbara Mark has gained county approval for 38 condominiums on 8.1 acres at Esquiline and Carmel Valley roads. Developers of the Village Greens propose 22 townhouses at Ford and Carmel Valley roads.

A public hearing will be scheduled in March by the county Board of Supervisors before it grants final approval of the proposed district.

IN A LAST MINUTE decision, the Carmel Sanitary District withdrew its appeal to LAFCO for a rehearing of the decision to establish the new sanitation district.

LAFCO approved the separate district on Nov. 27 for the sole purpose of operating the sewage treatment plant for the Carmel Valley Ranch development.

The board of directors of the Carmel Sanitary District submitted an application to LAFCO in November to annex and service a large portion of Carmel Valley, including the Carmel Valley Ranch development.

The directors voted 4-1 last month to appeal LAFCO's decision, charging that it "ignored" their application.

DIRECTORS DECIDED TO file the appeal despite their staff's argument that it was not LAFCO's intention to subvert the annexation.

Bud Bigelow, finance manager of the sanitary district, said last week that the staff had understood from the beginning that LAFCO would dissolve the new district when the annexation is approved.

"The new district was established to accommodate that construction project (Carmel Valley Ranch)," he said. "It was not intended to prejudice our annexation."

Bigelow said that he and Michael Zambory, general manager of the sanitation district, met the day before LAFCO's meeting last week to discuss the appeal. They decided that it was fruitless to make a presentation, he said.

"We obtained the minutes of LAFCO's meeting, and presented them to the directors. It's clear that the new district will be dissolved if our annexation is approved," Bigelow said.

Without a real basis for an appeal, Bigelow said that it was determined at the last minute to withdraw the appeal.

Bigelow called the whole matter "a misunderstanding." He said, "Nobody had bothered to find out just what LAFCO had done in November."

MICHAEL JOHNSON, LAFCO executive director, confirmed that he was notified by the sanitary district staff before the meeting that "they would not pursue their request for a re-hearing."

Johnson explained, "We knew they (the sanitary district directors) were worried that the new district might prejudice their annexation. I think they're satisfied now that that is not our intent."

LAFCO approved the new district to allow construction to continue at Carmel Valley Ranch, Johnson said.

State law requires that a public agency operate private sewage disposal facilities for developments of four units or more.

The developer of Carmel Valley Ranch envisions 500 condominium units, a 100-unit hotel and golf course.

The developer, Landmark Land Co. of Oklahoma, wants to begin construction on the golf course, which will be irrigated with treated wastewater. Before the golf course pipe lines can be installed, however, Landmark must comply with the state law on private disposal facilities.

The county Public Works Department will operate the new district.

THE ANNEXATION, meanwhile, could be delayed until November 1980 if it is forced into an election.

Johnson said that he will not process the annexation application until the Environmental Impact Report for the sanitary district's Areawide Facilities Plan is released in March.

After LAFCO approves the annexation proposal, the sanitary district must conduct a public hearing.

If more than 25 percent of the registered voters who reside in the proposed annexation area protest the annexation, then an election must be conducted. If more than 50 percent of the registered voters protest, then the proposal dies.

LAFCO can also deny the proposal.

THE SANITARY DISTRICT proposed the annexation to expand its services into the Valley. It would provide operation and maintenance services for septic tanks and large sewage disposal facilities.

The district plans ultimately to construct sewer trunk lines and connect developments in the Valley to its main treatment plant.

The annexation would include all of the property on the floor of the Valley south of Carmel Valley road up to Mid-Valley and the Carmel Valley Ranch development. It would not include the Barbara Mark or Village Greens projects, which are located in the Upper Valley.

Cannery Row Prices

Sure we wanted to start our antique shop in Carmel. But we did NOT want to inflate our prices to pay for an expensive location.

At Lili's you'll find the same quality antiques that Carmel shops have, but the prices are so much lower.

Some examples of what you'll find:

- ★ Solid walnut English Chest
- ★ 14-karat gold bracelets and chains
- ★ English oak smoker's cabinet
- ★ 10-karat gold pocket knife
- ★ Many gold and silver rings, lockets, pendants

NOTICE OF DEATH OF HELEN M. SPRINGER
HELEN MARR SPRINGER AND OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE
CASE NO. MP 6887

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors and persons who may be otherwise interested in the will or estate of: HELEN M. SPRINGER, also known as HELEN MARR SPRINGER.

A petition has been filed by HENRY C. SPRINGER and CROCKER NATIONAL BANK in the Superior Court of Monterey County requesting that HENRY C. SPRINGER and CROCKER NATIONAL BANK be appointed as personal representatives to administer the estate of the decedent.

The petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act.

A hearing on the petition will be held on Feb. 15, 1980 at 9:30 a.m. at 1200 Aguajito Road, Monterey, CA.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should either appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court or present it to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in section 700 of the California Probate Code. The time for filing claims will not expire prior to four months from the date of the hearing noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file a request with the court to receive special notice of the filing of the inventory of estate assets and of the petitions, accounts and reports described in section 1200 of the California Probate Code.

PLANS FOR A PROPOSED ADDITION to the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art were presented to its membership at the association's annual dinner Monday, Jan. 21, at the Naval Postgraduate School. The additional space will add approximately 3,000 square feet to its location at 559 Pacific St., Monterey. More exhibition, storage and operational areas as well as an elevator for the handicapped will be constructed. The addition will occupy the space over the current driveway between the building which was recently deeded by the city of Monterey to the museum association and the adjoining Frances Elkins park. Olof Dahlstrand, chairman of the building committee, announced that the preliminary plans have been approved by the Monterey Architectural Review Commission. The estimated cost of the addition is $375,000. Last year the association launched a fund drive for the building and raised more than one-third of the estimated cost. Marvin Guillermo, the architect, is now preparing working drawings for the project.

INTENTION TO LEASE REAL PROPERTY

WHEREAS, the Carmel Unified School District is the owner of certain real property, hereinafter described, which property is not needed for school purposes by said district, and

WHEREAS, it appears to be in the best interest of said school district that said property be leased to the highest bidder, pursuant to Section 39360, et. seq., of the Education Code of the State of California.

NOW, THEREFORE, IT IS HEREBY FOUND, DETERMINED AND ORDERED:

1. The property hereinafter described is owned by the Carmel Unified School District and is not and will not be needed by said school district for school classroom buildings at the time of delivery of title or possession. The parcel of nearly 20 acres is located near the intersection of Carmel Valley Road and Scarlett Road and is commonly known as, the Scarlett Site.

2. It is the intention of the Board to lease said property to the highest, responsible bidder according to the terms and conditions hereinafter set forth.

3. The land is situated 7 miles east of Highway #1, near the intersection of Carmel Valley Road and Scarlett Road.

(a) All bids shall be subject to the terms and conditions stated herein and instructions to bidders, bid form and lease agreement available on request from the School District Central Office on Carmel Valley Road, Carmel, California.

(b) The terms of the lease shall be from Feb. 15, 1980 to Feb. 14, 1981.

(c) The minimum acceptable bid for said property is $800 per year for the above-stated terms, payable in advance semi-annually on Feb. 15, 1980 and Aug. 15, 1980.

(d) The lessee shall agree to indemnify the school district, its officers and employees against any liability for injury to person or damage to property occurring as a result of lessee's use of the leased property.

(e) Liability (payment) for possessory interest taxes are the responsibility of the lessee (tenant).

(f) Use of the land is restricted to agricultural use. No structures will be built without prior written consent of the Carmel Unified School District.

4. NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT at 8 o'clock p.m., FEBRUARY 13, 1980 at a regular meeting of this Board in Room 2 of the Carmel High School, Carmel Unified School District, this Board shall hold a public meeting, at which sealed proposals to lease the property hereinabove described shall be received and considered. This Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to withdraw said property from consideration. Before accepting any written proposal, the Board shall call for oral bids. If, upon the call for oral bids, any responsible person offers an amount upon the terms and conditions specified herein, exceeding by at least five percent (5%) the highest, written proposal, such highest, oral bid shall be firmly accepted.

All bids should be verified before submission and cannot be withdrawn after being opened. Any bidder may withdraw his bid at any time prior to the time of opening of bids.

5. The District Superintendent is hereby directed to cause to be published a copy of this resolution once a week for three (3) successive weeks before the date of said meeting in a newspaper of general circulation, published in Monterey County.

UPON MOTION OF Mr. Clayton, SECONDED BY Mrs. Sanford, the above action is passed and adopted at a regular meeting of the Board of Education of the Carmel Unified School District this 8th day of January, 1980.

Round up

The Monterey Peninsula Branch of the Embroiderers Guild of America will meet Monday, Feb. 4, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the First Presbyterian Church of Monterey, 501 Eldorado St. Mrs. Hisashi Kajikuri will give a lecture and conduct a workshop on Kogin Embroidery which is a form of folk embroidery of Northern Japan. Materials will be supplied. Visitors are welcome, but there will be a $3 charge for materials. For more information phone Ruth Blanchard at 624-3144.

The Alliance on Aging and the Internal Revenue Service will co-sponsor a training session for volunteers to assist senior citizens in preparing their income tax forms. The training session will be at the Monterey Youth Center, 777 Pearl St., Monterey, on Tuesday, Feb. 5, from 10 a.m.-5 p.m.; Feb. 6 from 9-5 and Feb. 7 from 8:30-2:30. Volunteers must attend all three days to receive the complete training. For more information, phone 649-1222.

The spring series of health forums sponsored by Eskaton Monterey Hospital will begin Thursday, Feb. 7 at 7:30 p.m. in the Education Center at the hospital. Doctors Marc Lieberman and Richard Dauphine will discuss the topic, Oh My Aching Joints, the medical and surgical treatment of arthritis. This is the fifth year Eskaton has offered health forums open to all residents of the Monterey Peninsula. The forums present current health topics in layman's terms and offer the audience a chance to ask the speakers questions. The spring series includes Coping with Stress and Depression on March 6; Running for Your Life (jogging) on April 3; and Keeping Fit (preventive health maintenance) on May 1. The health forums are open to the public at no charge.

The Pi Beta Phi Alumnae Club of the Monterey Peninsula will have its annual Valentine's Day luncheon at the Beach Club, Pebble Beach, on Thursday, Feb. 14, at noon. All Pi Phis in the area are invited. Contact Mrs. Paul Manning at 375-5594 or Mrs. R.A. Tracy at 659-3046 for reservations.

The Rape Crisis Center of the Monterey Peninsula has moved its office to 1232B Del Monte Ave. in Monterey. Rape is the fastest growing violent crime in America, according to the center. The rate of reported rape on the Monterey Peninsula is nearly double the national average for an area of this size. In 1979 the center reported that it worked with 67 sexual assault victims. The number and location of these sexual assaults on the Peninsula were as follows: Marina, 9; Fort Ord, 7; Seaside, 7; Carmel, 7; Monterey, 5; Pacific Grove, 4; Carmel Valley, 1 and Big Sur, 1. The Rape Crisis Center provides 24-hour crisis intervention and advocacy for rape victims. Rape Crisis Center advocates give information and support to rape victims, accompany them through hospital, police and court procedures. Beginning Monday, Feb. 11, the Rape Crisis Center will be providing an advocacy training program which will include 18 hours of training for volunteers who wish to work in this crisis response area. Day and evening session will be conducted. Women and men who wish to serve in any of these areas may phone for more information and applications at the Rape Crisis Center, 373-3955 or 375-HELP.

The French Alliance of the Monterey Peninsula will present a lecture by Lucie Heyman titled My Encounters with Jean Giraudoux. The lecture will be at La Playa Hotel in Carmel on Thursday, Jan. 31 at 8:30 p.m. The lecture will be in French and admission is free. A dinner at 7:30 p.m. at the hotel will precede the lecture. Heyman is a professor emeritus of French, a writer and translator of literary works. She knew Jean Giraudoux quite well in the '20s, '30s and early '40s and in recent years conducted an in-depth research piece on the famous playwright. The lecture and dinner are open to the public.

Cal-Am to levy fire protection surcharge

Carmel and Carmel Valley residents served by the California-American Water Co. will have a fire protection surcharge added to their water bills for service on and after Jan. 20.

The charge will range from 24 cents per month to $4.20, depending on the size of metered water service provided. Most residential users will be charged 24 cents per month, according to a Cal-Am spokesman.

The state Public Utilities Commission authorized the company to pass on to customers the cost of public fire hydrant installation, and maintenance and backup fire protection service.

Wild boar poachers convicted

Two Seaside brothers, convicted by a Monterey jury, have received heavy fines and suspended jail sentences for the illegal killing of a wild boar on the San Carlos Ranch in Carmel Valley, according to the state Department of Fish and Game.

William Ray Bunch, 28, of 1309 Circle St., and Louis Ray Bunch, 31, of 1736 Highland St., were arrested by California Fish and Game officers Ed Magnusen and Dan Laughlin last October.

They charged the brothers with three fish and game code violations: hunter trespass, possession of an illegally taken game animal, and no hunting licenses in possession.

After a two-day trial on Jan. 15 and 16 prosecuted by Deputy District Attorney Cynthia Jewett, the jury found both brothers guilty of all three charges.

Judge William B. Burleigh fined each brother $1,205 and sentenced them to 18 months in jail. The jail term was suspended provided they obey all laws for a probation period of two years.

Middle School parents club to meet Monday

The Carmel Middle School Parents-Faculty Club will meet on Monday, Feb. 4, at 10 a.m. in the school library.

The agenda will be devoted to the allocation of remaining funds from the Middle School magazine drive.

Parents who wish to discuss how the funds might be used are encouraged to attend the meeting. For more information phone 625-1354.

The PUC acted under the provision of Assembly Bill 1653, passed last September, which in effect made fire districts and municipalities no longer responsible for the cost of these installations and services.

Fire protection facilities and services formerly paid for by municipalities and fire protection agencies, which amounted to $102,700 annually, will now be paid for by all customers receiving water service.

The surcharge will be noted at the bottom of the water bill, with the amount determined by the size of metered service provided, Richard T. Sullivan, district manager, said.

He said that an insert will be included with all water bills explaining the surcharge.

The PUC resolution provided that the surcharge may be levied by companies "suffering lost revenues exceeding 1 percent of their total operating revenues as a result of actions taken pursuant to AB 1653 ..."

It also provided that the collection of surcharge is subject to refund to ratepayers, with interest, pending a review by the PUC of Cal-Am's current application for a rate increase.

The PUC resolution also specified that "the surcharge be clearly and separately stated on the applicant's billing as a 'Fire Protection Surcharge,' or, in the alternative, that the utility shall provide during calendar year 1980 a recurring billing insert explaining the extent to which the increase in the customer's billing is the result of the enactment of AS 1653..."

REMEMBER WHEN?

50 years ago

From the "Carmel Pine Cone," Jan. 31, 1930

PINE TREES PLANTED ON STREETS

News that is the best sort of news for Carmel comes in the announcement that 200 pine trees are to be planted here and there along Carmel roads.

The trees, bought in Atascadero, were purchased for approximately $300 out of funds set aside for that purpose by the council. Some $200 still remains in the fund. In various places about town there are barren spots bordering the streets. It is in these places that the new trees are to go.

QUARANTINES RISE

Scarlet fever quarantines in Carmel now total nine, according to August Englund, village marshal, tax collector and health officer.

Three new cases were reported early this week. In each instance, however, the attack is reported as very slight. Furthermore, the total number of nine quarantines includes a number of houses in which the patients, who fell ill a number of weeks ago, are now practically recovered. Assurance is given by the authorities that there is no cause for alarm.

FINE HIGHLANDS TRACT SOLD

A major real estate tract at Carmel Highlands was recently purchased from the estate of the late Mrs. Grace Harvis by Mrs. Caroline McCready of Chicago, the sister of Emily Pitkin of the Highlands. One of the few remaining promontories on the seashore, the land sold for $30,000.

JORDAN STARTS MOVE FOR NEW TENNIS COURTS

A move to fill what has long been regarded as a need in Carmel was started Wednesday when the director of the Forest Theater met at the home of Henry Dickinson to discuss plans for municipal tennis courts on the theater property.

John Jordan agreed to give $500 toward construction of the courts. Donations may be turned into Daisy Bostick at the A.T. Shand office.

During the summer theater season the directors will cooperate with other groups in Carmel as to dates, in the hope of arranging something in the nature of a little theater fiesta.

GAS MAIN TRENCHES ARE A WONDER

Those who have watched the trench digger at work on gas mains and remember the troubles when the sewer was dug, marvel at the difference. The trenches, instead of being in straight lines, with the trees sacrificed to give them a passageway, zig-zag to dodge trees and shrubs. Where the trench passes the roots of a tree, the machine is stopped and hand-digging spares every root.

We recall how the sewer gang refused to hand-dig to spare trees, even when pleaded with to do so, and though offered extra pay from the pocket of the owner of the lot.

Why this difference in treatment of our trees by the gas corporation? There is a clause in the franchise granted the corporation by the City Council. That clause states that no tree or shrub may be injured in the laying of mains without the consent in writing of the City Council.

FRANK PUTNAM SCHEDULED FOR PLANNING BOARD

Mayor Horace Lyon has told the Pine Cone that he will ask the council members to approve the appointment of Frank Putnam, Carmel merchant, to the planning commission, to follow Donald Craig, whose term of office expires Feb. 1.

The nomination and appointment are expected to be unanimously carried at the meeting Wednesday night.

Putnam, who has been a Carmel resident and businessman since his release from the army in 1946 has been approached several times to serve on the planning commission and on one occasion to run for City Council but asked to be excused because much of his time was already devoted to church, Red Cross and other service activities.

RE-SEEDING OF 2,000 ACRES UNDERWAY

approximately 2,000 acres blackened by two serious forest fires last fall was expected to be completed by late today.

The slopes to be re-seeded represent only a part of the total which was razed by the fire, but were considered most critical in view of their draining directly into the San Clemente and Los Padres reservoirs.

The re-seeding project is financed by a $5,400 contribution from the federal government and $2,500 from the California Water and Telephone Co.

Seeds to be planted are rye and smooth brome, which will sprout in approximately 10 days, depending on weather conditions.

NOW WE'RE 55 AND STILL GROWING

This issue of the Pine Cone marks the beginning of the 56th year of publication.

The first issue of the Pine Cone was printed through the efforts of its founder, William Overstreet, who spent five years in its preparation. All the type on the first issue was set by hand. The little four-page paper had to be "kicked" off the press four times. Mr. Overstreet's good wife did the folding.

Three hundred copies of the Carmel Pine Cone were printed in the first run, and all were sold or subscribed for.

SUNSET'S FUTURE CONSIDERED AT JOINT MEETING

It's been nearly six years since Carmel voters by an overwhelming majority decided to buy Sunset Center property for use as a municipal community and cultural center.

Monday night members of the Cultural Commission, Planning Commission and City Council met at City Hall to begin a new master plan for Sunset.

Among the considerations discussed at the meeting was the use of the center as a U.S. Post Office and a city library.

Poet Robinson Jeffers is the subject of a portrait displayed in Ren Studios of Carmel 52 years ago.

Hidden Valley program Friday features classical guitarist

Guest conductor Manuel Prestamo will direct the Hidden Valley Chamber Orchestra in a colorful program of music from Spain Friday, Feb. 1 in the Steinbeck Forum of the Monterey Conference Center, 1 Portola Plaza, Monterey. In addition, the chamber ensemble will present classical guitarist Lawrence Ferrara. The concert begins at 8 p.m.

Currently music director of the U.S. Youth Symphony, a summer touring orchestra, and associate conductor of the Festival of a Thousand Oaks, Prestamo has directed orchestras in New York, Ohio and Florida as well as Austria, Uruguay and the Republic of China.

The Cuban-born conductor began his musical training at age 9 and continued his professional studies at Juilliard, the New England Conservatory and Cleveland Institute. In recognition of his contributions to education and conducting, Prestamo has been selected as a music consultant for the H.E.W. Office of the Gifted and Talented.

The chamber orchestra concert marks Ferrara's return to the Monterey Peninsula, where three years ago he placed second in the Carmel Guitar Competition. A graduate of the San Francisco Conservatory of Music, Ferrara is a music director at UC Berkeley and San Francisco City College.

Under the baton of Prestamo, the chamber orchestra will perform de Falla's Suite No. 1 from The Three Cornered Hat, Stravinsky's Dances concertantes and Rodrigo's

Concierto de Aranjuez for guitar.

The Hidden Valley Chamber Orchestra, the only full-time chamber orchestra in Central California, is composed of young professional musicians from throughout the United States who have come to the Hidden Valley Music Seminars in Carmel Valley for intensive musical studies.

Admission is $3.

Gathered at the Plaza are a number of shop owners dedicated to bringing you truly fine works by uniquely talented artists and craftsmen. Come see for yourself the collection we have in store for you!

Chief Pontiac was sculptured by Luis Antonio and was acquired for the private collection of Mr. Clint Eastwood. Plan to spend a few minutes to talk with Luis; he's an interesting and knowledgeable sculptor.

At Import House you'll find a most unusual choice of fine oriental rugs. Consider an area rug or a runner to add richness and pattern to your floors. Also, see fine craftsmanship in exquisite bowls and vases here.

See the many fine paintings of wildlife by Leonard Fisher at The Decoy which has become known for the exquisite original wood carvings by talented artisans like Charles Van Note who carved this pair of Shovelers.

The Indian Trails shop in the Mini Mall has fine pottery, rugs and silver jewelry made by the Navajo and Hopi Indians. And now Nambe bowls and serving pieces of an unusual oven and flame proof alloy that sparkles like silver and need no polishing.

Light Opera specializes in the plastic arts but primarily collector quality glass vases, paper weights and sculpture. This magnificent Swedish crystal shark is an example of furnace work by talented Faře Marcollin.

Here are three handsome pieces from a selection of 19th century porcelains at Song of Siam. From the Ching Dynasty, a blue and white ginger jar with original top and a pair of antique figures clad in cobalt. (All in beautiful condition.)

These wind blown coastal trees from Gemcraft Gallery are fashioned in brass. The smaller is mounted on serpentine; the larger is mounted on a manzanita root and its foliage is bejeweled with amethysts.

Toulouse Orchestra was suave, stylish

By SCOTT MacCLELLAND

SUAVE AND STYLISH playing were the order of the day in the Toulouse Chamber Orchestra program last week at Sunset Theater.

Though half the ensemble did not arrive until after the concert began, there was scarcely an errant ripple to reflect the stressful circumstances of travel that attended the group's arrival for its scheduled rendezvous with the Carmel Music Society.

The travel snafu did necessitate program changes. As explained by spokesman, the world-renowned flutist Michel Debost, the available six musicians would offer chamber music until their colleagues arrived.

The chamber music turned out to be two familiar flute concertos by Vivaldi, the ones known by the nicknames La Notte and Il Gardellino, with the limpid and tasty phrases of Debost leading the way.

THE REMAINING PLAYERS arrived during the second Vivaldi and soon were all seated for the first work on the printed program, the rococo style Suite from Scylla et Glaucus by Leclair.

Though the Toulouse ensemble's regular leader, Louis Auriacombe, had been replaced by violinist Georges Armand (since the former is apparently ailing), the tight ensemble in phrasing and dynamics and the sparkling clarity of genuinely in-tune instruments and musicians were an inescapable reminder that our enjoyable and often delightful local groups have a long way to go if their art is to become truly fine.

The Leclair suite was a refreshing treat of some seven movements. The now 12 players, without Debost, displayed refined elegance, tender rococo sentimentality, sweet singing, bracing dance rhythms (with clever syncopations in the final Air des demons) and almost too much polish and suaveness of execution.

DEBOST RETURNED FOR the Concerto in E by Devienne, a French contemporary of Mozart, whose piece straddles the rococo and classical styles.

The structure is mostly of the former while the utterances and orchestration reflect the coming romanticism of the latter. Rapid and brilliant runs marked the fiery first movement, cadence ritards displayed the high virtuosity of the ensemble in the adagio, a movement which featured a solo flute cadenza played not with full purity but with distinctive tone and consummate artistry by Debost, and the rondo summed up the piece with appropriate flair among the performers.

Cellist Rene Marchandot stepped forward as soloist in the next work, the Concerto in C Minor by Christian Bach.

Marchandot's playing was a bit timid in the first movement, but well-focused and confident in the last two. His approach was understated and sophisticated. He turned lovely phrases in the adagio second movement but avoided indulging the potential searching expressiveness implied by the music. The finale was bravura and vividly dancelike.

BECAUSE OF THE LATE start and revisions of the program there was no intermission, and the orchestra offered the Divertimento in B flat, K. 137 by the 16-year-old Mozart.

Pretty and suave treatment of the opening andante revealed a touch of the understandable fatigue the players endured in their travels.

The second movement allegro was taken at a leisurely pace and the final allgro to a brisk beat. Both of these allegros are set to sonata form and the last one revealed a remarkable maturity of ideas and construction of the adolescent composer, featuring a wide spectrum of rhythms, tunes and effects always presented in lucid and economic terms. The Toulouse achieved these allegros with ease, sparkle and grace.

The only encore was the Badinerie finale from the Suite in B Minor by Bach with Debost carrying forth with panache and personality over the spritely orchestra.

The Music Society's next event will be Stephanie Chase's violin recital on March 6.

Scott MacClelland is classical music director for KWAV-FM 96.9.

Classical works featured in Monterey concert Friday

Swiss pianist Hanni Schmid-Wyss will present a concert of classical works Friday, Feb. 1 in the Monterey Peninsula College Music Hall, Monterey. The program will begin at 9 p.m.

The performance will include music by Mozart, Chopin, Schumann, Honegger and the Swiss composer Frank Marin.

A medalist at the 1967 International Competition in Geneva, the young pianist has performed throughout the United States and abroad. She received honors from the Academy of Zurich and the Staatliche Musikhochschule in Cologne where she earned her master's degree. Schmid-Wyss has also studied with Geza Anda and Guido Agosti.

Tickets, at $3, are available at the door on the night of the performance. Gold Card holders will be admitted free.

Greatest show in golf

39th Crosby Pro-Am gets underway Thursday

Lon Hinkle will attempt to capture the Crosby crown for the second time and $54,000 in first prize money at the 39th Bing Crosby National Pro-Amateur Golf Championship, Thursday through Sunday, Jan. 31-Feb. 3. And Jack Nicklaus, who has won the golf event three times—1967, 1972 and 1973—will be in the field this year.

One of the largest gatherings of stage, screen, television and sports celebrities in tournament history plus the world's top professional golfers promise to make the 39th Clambake "the Greatest Show on Earth." Play, which begins today over the Spyglass Hill and Cypress Point golf courses and Pebble Beach Golf Links, concludes Sunday, Feb. 3 at "the Old Finisher," the 18th hole at Pebble Beach.

The tournament began with a qualifying round Monday and practice rounds Tuesday and Wednesday. A nine-hole exhibition with Bob Hope, Phil Harris, host Nathaniel Crosby and other special guests was to be played Wednesday morning.

Hope and Harris are sentimental gallery favorites who used to join tournament founder Bing Crosby in the exhibition match. When Bing died in 1977, Hope promised to return and he is back again this year.

Almost every big name in golf is on the list of 168 professionals scheduled to play. Last year's winner, Lon Hinkle, defeated Andy Bean and Mark Hayes on the third hole of a sudden-death playoff with a 12-foot putt for a birdie. After securing the Crosby crown, Hinkle went on to wrap up the World Series of Golf where he pocketed a $100,000 check and added to his total earnings of $247,693 for 1979.

Andy Bean, who wrapped up the pro-amateur championship in 1979, will return. He will be joined by Hale Irwin, Gene Littler, Johnny Miller, Jerry Pate, Lanny Wadkins, Hubert Green, Dave Hill and Nicklaus.

Nathaniel Crosby, 18-year-old son of the late Bing, is tournament host for the third year since his father's death in 1977. Nathaniel will also compete as an amateur. A scratch golfer, he is considered very poised and knowledgeable about the game.

Among the amateur celebrities Nathaniel has invited to play are his brother, Harry, Telly Savalas, Willie Mays, Jack Lemmon, Sean Connery, Mike Douglas, Hank Ketcham, creator of Dennis the Menace, Charles Schulz of Peanut's fame whose cartoons illustrate the Crosby program, John Brodie, George C. Scott and Flip Wilson.

Other crowd-pleasing return players include former President Gerald Ford, Efram Zimbalist Jr., world-famous fisherman Grits Gresham and Monterey Peninsula resident Clint Eastwood.

The Clambake purse of $330,000 puts $300,000 in the pros' pockets with first prize a whopping $54,000. The Pro-Am divides a purse of $30,000 with $3,000 going into the pockets of the first place teams.

The tournament is played on all three courses for four days, with 18 holes played each day. Foursomes tee off beginning at 7:15 a.m. and at eight-minute intervals thereafter. There are 168 professionals and 168 amateur partners, paired in foursomes.

The three-way field rotates Thursday, Friday and Saturday over Pebble Beach, Cypress Point and Spyglass Hill. Players start from the first and 10th tees on all three courses.

On Sunday, the 30 low teams and 60 low professionals play Pebble Beach. The Crosby is the only PGA-sponsored tournament in which amateurs play right through to the 18th hole finish on Sunday.

The tournament is medal play with each day's score added to the next for the 72-hole total.

The pro-am scores are compiled on a best ball basis, including handicap. Either partner can pick up at any point. Amateurs must pick up if they are out of the hole though pros cannot pick up and remain in the pro competition.

Carmel radio station KRML (1410 AM) will provide complete coverage of the Crosby. Live and direct from Pebble Beach, reports will be broadcast every 20 minutes beginning at 6:55 a.m. Thursday, Jan. 31 and continuing through Sunday, Feb. 3 at 5 p.m.

Sportscaster Johnny Lamb will interview golfers and celebrities and provide up-to-the-minute scores and special reports.

Tournament manager Dan Searle heads a committee of more than 400 unpaid volunteers, who contribute in excess of 20,000 hours of labor. All tournament proceeds go to charity through the Bing Crosby Youth Fund, which has raised nearly $4 million over the years.

Daily admission is $10. Tickets are available at Macy's, Del Monte Center, Monterey, Ticketron and Bass outlets and at each gate of Del Monte Forest.

For further information, phone 624-0100.

Piano concert planned Sat. in Salinas

Pianist Steve Warzycki will perform in concert on the recently restored Steinway concert grand piano owned by Salinas High School Saturday, Feb. 2 at Sherwood Hall of the Salinas Community Center, 940 N. Main St., Salinas. The concert begins at 8 p.m.

The value of the Steinway piano, owned by the school district since the '40s, was rediscovered recently by the district. Eugene Ritter, assistant principal of Salinas High School spearheaded a drive to raise funds for its restoration.

The concert in honor of its restoration appropriately marks the return of former Salinas resident Warzycki, a graduate of the San Francisco Conservatory. Tokyo-born and now studying in London, he has won many awards including first place in the Monterey County Symphony Young Artist Competition in 1969 and second in the 1974 Mozart Festival Competition in Colorado. His concert appearances have included performances with the Monterey Symphony and the San Francisco Symphony.

Heuvel Tircuit of the San Francisco Chronicle said: "Warzycki plays in the big American-Romantic style ... The sound is articulate with enough give to the line to lend it expressive potential. Warzycki tore the place down with the Tchaikovsky First Concerto."

The concert is co-sponsored by the Salinas Concert Association and the Parks and Recreation Department of Salinas.

Tickets, at $4 for adults and $2 for students through junior college age, are available at Abinante Music Store, Monterey and Gadsby's Music in Salinas.

Proceeds will pay for the costs and be presented to the artist for his honorary use.

For further information, phone 1-422-9472 or 1-424-1508.

The wine connoisseur

More praise for California wines

By ROBERT LAWRENCE BALZER

WHEN MICHAEL DEMAREST researched his excellent four-page report on California wines for Time (Jan. 14, 1980), it obviously included that magazine's cover story back in November, 1972.

A quotation from Baron Philippe de Rothschild was too neat to avoid, even though the alleged comment on California wine was later denied in print: "It all comes out industrially uniform, like Coca-Cola."

Having been privy to that earlier issue, which drew its color-photo montage of winemakers from our own Cabernet Sauvignon tasting, we suggested Baron Philippe would never have made such a comment, because it was not his thinking about California wines, either then or now. But like an Elizabethan conceit, it now seemed to have a double-edged thrust because Coca-Cola had, in the intervening seven years, moved into the California wine industry, and Baron Philippe is on the threshold of a Napa Valley winery project with Robert Mondavi.

SOMETIMES IT TAKES a national magazine, like Time, with its enormous international readership, to solidify new truths, like the pre-eminence of California wines, into the consciousness of the man-on-the street.

It's nice to read that our so-called jug wines are "light-years better than the vin ordinaire that gurgles by the gallon down French gulleys."

Demarest also handed out a well-deserved bouquet to Ernest and Julio Gallo for their new line of oak-aged varietals, of imminent debut on our market.

The article's concluding editorial box write-up of "Small Sellout Vineyards" pointed wine lovers to three premium wineries, Sterling Vineyards, Joseph Phelps Vineyard, and Ridge Vineyard with label reproduction; and Stag's Leap Wine Cellars, Chapallet, Santa Ynez, Burgess, Joseph Swan, Sanford & Benedict, J. Lohr, Keenan, Heitz and Chateau St. Jean whose releases are "instant sellouts."

There were almost 100 new small wineries bonded in the last decade in California, nearly all of which are producing superb wines, most of which, alas, seldom reach East Coast consumers. There are, however, a growing number of wine merchants and restaurateurs across the land recognizing the magnetism in these very California titles and prices.

REFERENCE WAS MADE in the Time piece to the small winery of Robert and Zelma Long in the Napa Valley, whose 1977 Napa Valley Chardonnay received from us the most enthusiastic coinage of praise we could muster in the whole decade.

What a wine! Its total perfection had to establish new heights of sensory pleasures from that grape, overreaching even those from the finest Montrachet or Meursault or memory. But even with careful allocation by Long Vineyards, in selected places across the country, it was an "instant sellout" which only a privileged few might enjoy.

One of those who did enjoy it was Doug Meador, of Ventana Vineyard in Monterey County.

David Breistein, the "Duke of Bourbon" wine merchant in the San Fernando Valley, poured it for him when the winemaker was down that way on a luncheon visit. "I told him," Meador told us, "that was how I'd like my own Chardonnay to turn out."

He had recited the story over the phone when we called him to wax equally enthusiastically about his own 1978 Monterey County Chardonnay ($9). How much more of it did he have? Or of his 1978 Monterey County Sauvignon Blanc ($6.50), an equally splendid, rich, long and silky winner? His whole vintage was sold out!

A SAN FRANCISCAN wine-writer had just lit verbal fires under the last of his 1978 Monterey County Gamay-Noir ($4.50), moving the last 300 cases out of the old converted dairy-barn frame winery.

There's little point in even mentioning the 1978 Late Harvest Monterey County Chardonnay (Residual Sugar 6.1 Brix). He only made 62-cases from the Botrytised clusters. At $19 it's a collector's curio, maybe available in a few of the country's better wine shops.

Ventana Vineyards is not one of California's more beautiful

Woodwind quintet will perform Wed.

The Boehm Quintette, a woodwind ensemble which has performed at the Carnegie Recital Hall, will present the fourth concert of the Chamber Music Society of the Monterey Peninsula 1979-80 season Wednesday, Feb. 6. The program will begin at 8 p.m. at Sunset Theater, Carmel.

Named for the 19th-century woodwind inventor, flutist and composer, Theobald Boehm, the quintette was formed in 1968 by performers and instructors to present wind chamber music of the highest quality. The members of the ensemble are Laura Conwesser, flute; Joseph Anderer, horn; Matthew Shubin, bassoon; clarinetist Don Stewart and oboist Phyllis Bohl, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lanini, were violinists with the Carmel Bach Festival Orchestra and whose mother, the former Grace Knowles, was a music teacher for the Carmel School district.

Among the classical and contemporary compositions the quintette will perform are Fantasia in F Minor, K. 594 by Mozart; American composer Wayne Peterson's Metamorphoses I: Deux Pieces by Guy-Roartz; and the Wind Quintet in B flat Major, Op. 28 by Heinrich Caspar Schmid.

In addition to the quintette's performances at Carnegie Hall, they have appeared in more than 70 engagements across the country in master classes and on television and radio.

Balcony seats will be available at the box office on the evening of the performance. Admission is $4.50, general, and $2.50 for students and enlisted military personnel.

For further information, phone 624-2993.

new wineries. Like Sanford & Benedict's restored wooden barn in Lompoc, it looks like a good windstorm could reduce those weathered boards to piles of kindling. Not so. Both have been reinforced, and somehow insulated, the shady interiors of each cool cover for the most impeccable, expensive installations of stainless steel technological equipment, fitted neatly alongside equally fine French oak cooperage.

When we were last there, at the end of the '79 vintage season, a mechanical harvester was standing in the rocky service yard being hosed down and cleaned to await vintage 1980.

DOUG MEADOR CALLS his vineyard area a "rock pile," and the vines do indeed grow out of soil that could support no other crop.

It's the Arroyo Seco wash just west of Soledad. It leads, via that rocky creek-bed, to the Ventana Wilderness Area, up into the mountains between the Salinas Valley and the Big Sur Country, prehistoric volcano territory, called the Ventana Cone.

There is now no doubt but that this is a place from which some of California's finest wines will come.

In 1978, Meador produced 7,000 cases of fine varietal wines. Happily, in 1978 his more-than-double production of 15,000 cases will begin to emerge on the market in the late spring.

He believes the 1979 wines will be even better than the '78s. Neighboring vineyardist Peter Mirassou believes equally that the region's '79 crops are going to make "more elegant" wines.

THE MISTY, ALMOST Corot-like sepia photograph which illustrates the black and gold Ventana Vineyard labels was made by Doug's wife Shirley Meador, who has another print currently nominated for the oncoming vintage selections.

Our words here are intended as advance trumpeting so you'll be among the lucky ones to share in the releases from this outstanding new young winery.

For any further information, write Ventana Vineyard, P.O. Box G, Soledad, Calif. 93960, or phone (408) 678-2306.

Violinist Ruggiero Ricci will appear with Monterey County Symphony Monday

Director, Sunset Center Community and Cultural Affairs

IT IS HARD to believe that over 50 years have passed since Ruggiero Ricci catapulted into legend, coming out onto the stage of San Francisco's Scottish Rite Hall in a Buster Brown bob and black velvet Lord Fauntleroy suit. Clutching a fabled $30, three-quarter size fiddle, he proceeded to toss off with the ease of a seasoned veteran a formidable program of Vieuxtemps, Saint-Saens, and Wieniawski topped off by the dazzling pyrotechnics of the Mendelssohn Violin Concerto.

That date was Nov. 15, 1928, and Ricci was then a mite of 10, standing shoulder high to the grand piano on which his teacher, the eminent Louis Persinger, provided accompaniments for the youngster's first public appearance.

In the next day's San Francisco Examiner, Alexander Fried wrote, "Ruggiero Ricci—post the name in a durable part of your memory! He gave his first public recital last night before a startled audience. Thunderously by the crowd and with knowing wonder by musicians, he was hailed as nothing short of genius. In four or five years he promises to be one of the world's chosen violinists."

This major artist of the musical world will make his first appearance at the Sunset Theater as soloist with the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra on Monday, Feb. 4 at 8 p.m.

Mr. Ricci's roots are in California for he was born in the Presidio and spent his early childhood in San Bruno. Ricci was the second of San Francisco's three great prodigies of the violin. The first was Yehudi Menuhin, born in New York in 1916, who came here as a small child. Then there was Ricci, four years younger, son of a U.S. Army bandmaster from the Abruzzi. And a few years after that came Isaac Stern who was born in Russia and moved to San Francisco at the age of 10.

ON HIS BIRTH certificate, the name Woodrow Wilson Rich appears. The Ricci family had anglicized their name when they took up residence on the West Coast during World War I; and in a burst of enthusiasm for his adopted country, Peter Rich had put the namer of its wartime president on the hospital record until he could find the right name for his newborn son, later baptized as Roger. (When the war was over and little Roger showed signs of becoming a musician, Papa Rich decided to switch back to the more mellifluous Italian!)

Ruggiero, who is said to have begun playing the violin in his crib before he could walk, had, by the age of 8, learned as much about music as his father could teach him and was taken across the Bay to the Berkeley studio of Louis Persinger, the world-renowned string pedagogue.

Two years later Persinger presented his tiny protege in his now-historic debut recital. A month later Ruggiero Ricci gave the first of what would be a brilliant succession of Carnegie Hall recitals through the years. No less a genius himself than Albert Einstein echoed the judgment of the critics when, after sitting like an image in rapt silence for a half hour while little Ricci played the entire Brahms Concerto through for him in his California winter home, the immortal scientist leaped to his feet, extended his hand to the lad and exclaimed, "It was perfect. You are truly a genius!"

Later it was Fritz Kreisler who proclaimed Ruggiero Ricci "the greatest musical genius since Mozart." Kreisler was, incidentally, Ricci's boyhood idol; but the two did not meet until 1961 when the adult Ricci was the star of an all-Kreisler program at Carnegie Hall saluting Kreisler's 86th birthday. Subsequently Ricci recorded 15 works by the revered violinist-composer for a Decca Tribute to Fritz Kreisler and was especially moved when Irving Kolodin, praising the record in Saturday Review wrote, "Ricci sounds more like the younger Kreisler than any violinist now active."

His second Carnegie Hall recital at which a capacity audience paid a then-record $6,000, a model airplane was handed to the boy star across the footlights and the green room backstage was heaped high with toys in place of the usual floral tributes... a Berlin debut with Einstein braving from one box, Germany's Chancellor Von Papen from another, and playwright Gerhard Hauptmann from a third... and an appearance with the London Symphony under Sir Hamilton Harty in which, according to the Associated Press, "Little Ruggiero, arrayed in his velvet suit with the American eagle on his left sleeve, fiddled himself into the ranks of the elect and London took the young artist to its heart"... launched Ricci on a world career that was to make him the darling of diplomats and the pet of princes.

He was also to become the front-page storm center of a legal battle that raged for more than a year, obliging New York's colorful Mayor Jimmy Walker to bar performer and audience from a sold-out hall on one occasion while charges of "juvenile exploitation" were being weighed by a justice of the Supreme Court.

AFTER 10 YEARS of international concertizing with an annual income higher than that of the President of the United States, Ricci at the age of 22 was forced to withdraw from musical life for a three-year tour of duty with the U.S. Army Air Force. It was during this period that he was repeatedly called upon to entertain in army camps and hospitals where no suitable piano or accompanist was available.

In the sixth decade of his spectacular career, Ruggiero Ricci now has five children of his own, three of whom are already performing arts professionals.

He has exerted a major influence on a new generation of fiddlers in his teaching at such prestigious institutions as the North Carolina School of the Arts, Indiana University, and more recently, New York's Juilliard School. Yet Ricci continues to be one of the artists most in demand on the world concert scene playing a concert on the average of every third day and traveling fast and furiously from continent to continent around the calendar.

"If I wake up two mornings in the same bed," he told a reporter not long ago, "I think it's yesterday!" With him on his far-flung tours goes his magnificent 1734 Guarnerius de Gesu fiddle, formerly played by the great Bronislaw Huberman and catalogued as the "ex-Gibson" for its previous owner, George Alfred Gibson, the 19th century collector and violinist who served as music director for the coronations of England's Edward VII and George V.

A half century ago, the California wonderchild dazzled audiences and dumbfounded critics with seemingly incredible feats of finger wizardry. Increasingly through the years to come, reviewers would point out how maturity, intelligence, taste, deep-probing musicianship, and keenly sensitive interpretive insight had joined with the fabulous Ricci virtuosity to produce the supreme artist and incomparable master. In the all-Beethoven program, he will join the symphony in performing the Violin Concerto in D.

It is interesting to note some figures regarding the cost of symphony programming. To produce six performances at the Sunset Theater, each seat costs $100. The average price of a ticket is $40, making it necessary to subsidize each patron $60. A season at Sunset Theater costs the orchestra approximately $75,000 but even with the sold-out houses that the concerts produce here, the income is more like $44,000, with a deficit of $31,000 to be made up by donations. This very strongly emphasizes the comments I made last week regarding ticket pricing and the non-profit organizations.

By the way, there often are tickets available for the symphony performances at Sunset Theater because of some generous subscriber who turns in his or her tickets to be resold the night of the performance.

THE CHAMBER MUSIC Society of the Monterey Peninsula will present the Boehm Quintette, a woodwind ensemble at Sunset Theater, San Carlos and Ninth, Carmel, on Wednesday, Feb. 6, at 8 p.m.

The program will consist of the Fantasia in F Minor, K.594, by Mozart, Metamorphoses I by the American composer Wayne Peterson, Deux Pieces by Guy-Ropartz, and the Wind Quintet in B Flat Major, Op. 28 by Heinrich Caspar Schmid.

The Boehm Quintette, named after the renowned 19th century woodwind inventor, flutist, and composer, Theobald Boehm, was formed in 1968. It has aimed at presenting wind chamber music of the highest level attainable. The members of the ensemble, all distinguished performers and teachers individually, are Laura Conwesser, flute; Phyllis Bohl, oboe; Joseph Anderer, horn; Matthew Shubin, bassoon; and Don Stewart, clarinet.

Committed to a broad repertoire of classical and contemporary compositions, the Quintette won acclaim in five performances at Carnegie Hall. This season it will appear in over 70 engagements across the country including, in addition to concerts, master classes, TV, and radio appearances.

Balcony seats will be available at the box office on the evening of the performance.

Carmel's 'Dean of Books'

Henry Meade Williams

By KEITH YATES

HENRY MEADE WILLIAMS has been called Carmel's "Dean of Books." A group of friends and relatives gathered Sunday night at the Thunderbird Bookshop to pay tribute to Williams, who is now 80.

WILLIAMS, A PROLIFIC short-story writer in the '30s and '40s, and a magazine editor, was owner of the Wells Book Store on Ocean Avenue in Carmel from 1958 to 1968.

Williams stood erect, with occasional assistance from his walking stick.

THE RECEPTION, hosted by May and John Waldroup, was not tied to a birthday, publishing or any of the other "milestone" events.

"It was just to honor a man who has done so much for Carmel," May Waldroup said. "Yes, it is a special occasion for a special man."

About 150 turned out to honor Williams. Cole Weston, Carmel Councilman Howard Brunn, Milton Mayer, Carmel Mayor Gunnar Norberg and Bruce Ariss grouped around the guest of honor near the banquet table.

MANY OF THE friendships go back nearly 50 years.

"We first met Henry in 1936 at John Cunningham's home," muralist Bruce Ariss said. "I recall being quite impressed with Henry's courtly manners. Also, he was the son of one of America's best known playwrights, Jesse Lynch Williams."

Many of the guests first met Williams when he owned the Wells Book Store. It was there that Williams made a lasting mark on the literary tastes of Carmelites. He had introduced many of the evening party-goers

BRUNN RECALLED THE Wells Book Store "and Henry's old green pick-up truck, polished like a mirror."

Brunn said that Williams was "a warm, thoughtful man, always available and eager to discuss literature." He had "a wonderful store that helped make Ocean Avenue one of the great shopping streets in America."

Brunn sipped his wine, looked around and said, "You've got the heart of old Carmel here tonight. It's some occasion."

FRANK LLOYD, WHOSE friendship with Williams' family stretches back to the 1920s, said, "I recall Henry's mother. A woman of great dignity and beauty."

He lapsed into silence and then said, "This is a warm, spontaneous affair. There's a little magic here tonight."

I OVERHEARD SEVERAL of Williams' friends say that they had met him at Marie Short's home years ago.

"Marie Short's was a salon in the proper sense of the word," Mrs. Faia said. "Poets, writers and artists all came together there to sit in big chairs by a fireplace and drink sherry and French wines. By the end of the evening everyone would be the greatest of friends, each thinking the other brilliant, each noting in his mind what all the others had said—to save it all for posterity."

"I was a little girl then, listening from the top of the stairs to daddy and the others talk and laugh. Dad met quite a few of his friends here at that salon."

NORBERG TOOK A piece of beef from the table and said, "You probably won't see a turnout like this for a good while. They've turned out for someone quite extraordinary."

He swept his hand about the room, pointing out a number of well-known writers, artists and others.

They were dressed in long, flowing gowns and smart suits. It was all "just so," Williams said.

IT WAS, OF COURSE, more than just coincidental that the reception was in a bookshop. That, too, was "just so."

150 friends of the "Dean of Books" came to honor him at the Thunderbird Book Shop last Sunday.

Multi-media exhibit opens Sat. in Carmel

An exhibit of multi-media works by the late Sir William Russell Flint, once president of the Royal Watercolor Society and senior Royal Academician, will open Saturday, Feb. 2 at the Gallery Who's Who in Art, Lincoln and Sixth, Carmel.

Sir Flint, who died in 1969 at the age of 89, was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, the eldest son of Francis Wighton Flint, watercolor painter and commercial designer. Educated at Daniel Stewart's College and Royal Institution School of Art, Edinburgh, he served as an apprentice lithographic artist and designer from 1894-1900. He worked for the Illustrated London News and began painting limited editions of classics for Philip Lee Warner and the Medici Society. Among his first published renderings were Chaucer's Canterbury Tales, Theocritus and Homer's Odyssey.

The Artist magazine said that his drawings, paintings and graphics, unlike the exponents of modernism, show the "greatest respect for the beauty of the human form" and that Sir Flint "remains true to the Hellenic principles in an age of aesthetic chaos."

Charles Wheeler, former president of the British Royal Academy of Art, said in 1962 of Sir Flint: "An artist's business is to communicate his thoughts, ideas and emotions to those of his fellow men who are willing and able to receive them. Judging by their wide acceptance it can be said with certainty that William Russell Flint has served his generation well. It is my belief that his name will be written fair and clear on the pages of history which will tell of those artists who kept a steady hand, keen eye and gay spirit in a shaky and troubled world."

The works of the artist may be viewed Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m.-5 p.m. and Sunday from 11 a.m.-4 p.m. through Feb. 29. For further information, phone 625-0724.

Archaeological sites of Korea is lecture topic

The national museums and archeological treasure sites of Korea will be the subject of a slide show and lecture series beginning Monday, Feb. 4 at the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art, 559 Pacific St., Monterey. Presented by Robert Skiles, who recently returned from a tour of the Southeast Asian country, the program will continue from 10 a.m.-noon.

Skiles, who has taught art for 22 years in the Carmel school district and lives in Big Sur, has traveled extensively in the Far East studying Chinese, Southeast Asian, Japanese and Korean art. As a member of the Asian Society of San Francisco he participated in a seminar preceding the opening of the exhibit 5,000 Years of Korean Art at the de Young Museum this summer.

Admission is $3.50, general, and $3 for museum members.

The series will continue each Monday through March 24.

For further information, phone 625-2470.

Group show of graphics opens at Carmel's San Carlos Gallery

A group show of graphics by American artists Bertha Jaques, James Swann, Cyrus Baldrige and Helen Hyde may be viewed through Feb. 29 at the San Carlos Gallery on San Carlos between Seventh and Eighth, Carmel.

Recognized internationally for their works, the artists knew one another either personally or through professional communications. Each eventually influenced the others' techniques.

Mrs. Jaques, who died in 1941, has been dubbed the mother of American etching and is founder of the Chicago Society of Etchers; she is best known for her etchings of plant life. An exhibit of her works displayed at the Smithsonian Institution was the first one-artist show to appear there in the graphic arts division.

Born on a farm in Alton, N.Y. in 1889, the late Cyrus Baldrige roamed the globe, attending 10 different primary schools before he studied at the University of Chicago. His only art education was gained when he attended afternoon sessions at the Frank Holme's School of Illustration in Chicago. World War I presented him with the opportunity to use his pen and pencil when he became an artist and correspondent for N.E.A. in Belgium and accompanied the German troops in the drive to France.

Following the war he began his travels to China, Japan, Italy, India, Palestine, East Africa and Ethiopia where he captured the countryside with his creative eye. He began etching in 1912, bought some copper plates and a 35-cent book on How to Etch. Like all work unspoiled by traditional training, the technique he developed, using the drypoint line, was of great beauty.

An artist since his boyhood in Texas, James Swann is primarily self-taught, learning the technique of engraving as artist and manager of the Southwest Engraving Co. of Amarillo, Texas. Using pure lines and form, he creates etchings that capture poetry of majestic lions or rain-swept streets. His work has appeared in the Metropolitan Museum, Smithsonian Institution and Library of Congress. He was also awarded a bronze medal by the French government for a pencil drawing which appeared at the Paris Exposition in 1937.

Like Bertha Jaques, the late Helen Hyde was a pioneer woman in the field of etchings and graphics. Also a member of the Chicago Society of Etchers, Helen Hyde traveled around the world creating woodcuts of plants, interesting people, boats and landscapes. She was influenced by Oriental techniques as evident in an oval woodcut of young girls peering over a bridge or the lively portrait, Mexican Coquette.

The works of the graphics artists may be viewed 10:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday.

For more information, phone 624-6281.

Sierra Club plans bike ride, hike, trail blazing activities

A trail-blazing day, a strenuous bike ride and an afternoon hike are planned this weekend by the local Ventana chapter of the Sierra Club. Everyone is welcome to join the excursions; there is no charge.

A recent agreement between County Parks Director Pete Dangermond and Del Mesa Carmel Homeowners Association will allow organized groups to have access to Jacks Peak Regional Park from Carmel Valley Road via Roach Canyon. A chapter Trail Day to relocate and brush out the old trail will get underway Saturday, Feb. 2. Bring lunch, gloves and clippers or a pruning saw if possible. Sierra Clubbers suggest that long-sleeved shirts and long pants be worn due to the abundance of poison oak.

Meet at the Cinema 70 parking lot, Del Monte Center, Monterey at 8:45 a.m. to form carpools or at 9 a.m. at the Jacks Peak maintenance yard, located near the east picnic ground off Highway 68, near the Monterey Peninsula Airport.

For further information, phone 624-3052, evenings, or 659-2528.

It will be uphill all the way for bicycle riders pedaling seven miles along Corral de Tierra Valley Saturday, Feb. 2. Riders will stop for lunch at noon then return to the starting point. Meet at the intersection of Highway 68 and Corral de Tierra Road, located approximately eight miles east of Monterey at 10 a.m. Bring lunch and water.

For additional information, phone 375-8995.

A four-mile stroll along the sylvan trails of Garland Ranch Regional park, located nine miles east of Highway 1 and Carmel Valley Road, is planned Sunday, Feb. 3. Hikers will meet at the parking area at 1 p.m. Bring sturdy shoes, water and raingear if necessary.

For more information, phone 625-0216 or 659-2915.

Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art

Dual show of sculptures, paintings opens Saturday

A dual show of relief sculptures by Gloria Alford and acrylic paintings by Luis Filcer will open Saturday, Feb. 2 at the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art, 559 Pacific St., Monterey.

A Santa Cruz resident, Alford is a multiple media artist who creates contemporary versions of ancient images, using modern technology devices. Many of her sculptures are designed on silk screened fabrics combined with vacuum formed acrylics.

The Jaded Princess is Alford's version of the Chinese burial suit made of jade that archaeologists uncovered in 1968. Instead of jade, the work is constructed entirely of jade-colored circuit boards tied together with copper wire. Another work is a solar-powered sound sculpture of a dancer.

Largely self-taught though she has studied at the Chicago Art Institute, Alford says of herself, "I'm probably not an artist. I'm probably an adventure."

Her works have been displayed at the Humboldt Gallery, Indiana University Art Museum, New York Cultural Center and she is listed in the Who's Who in American Art.

Mushroom show planned at Pacific Grove Museum

Agaricus fusco-fibrillosus and Xeromphalina caudicinalis are not exotic diseases. They are just two of the mushroom species which will be displayed at the Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History's annual Mushroom Show Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 2-3.

The museum's traditional fungi show, which began in 1972, has been repeated annually with the exception of two drought years, 1976 and 1977. The number of species exhibited has ranged from 88 the first year to 170 in wet 1978.

In conjunction with the show, Dr. Harry Thiers of California State University at San Francisco will discuss California mushroom species Saturday, Feb. 2 at the Canterbury Woods Auditorium, 651 Sinex Ave., Pacific Grove. Everyone is welcome to attend the free program at 2:30 p.m.

Dr. Thiers, the author of California Mushrooms: a

Field Guide to the Boletes, will also be available at the museum to identify mushrooms brought in by interested people on the day of the lecture.

The Museum of Natural History is located at the intersection of Forest and Central streets, near downtown Pacific Grove. Admission is free; museum hours are 10 a.m.-5 p.m. each day.

For additional information, phone 372-4212.

Backgammon

By OMAR SHARIF

Red rolls 3-1. How should he play?

ANSWER TO BACKGAMMON PROBLEM

No, it's not automatic to bear off two men—one from the 3-point and one from the 1-point. There is another move that should be considered. Red can diversify his board while bearing off a man if he uses the 3 to play a man from his 6-point to his 3-point, and bears off a 1.

The state of the game could have an important bearing on which move to choose, so first count the position. Red's pip count is 59 to 67 for White, so Red is a full roll ahead. However this roll is under average, so Red's advantage has all but slipped away.

If Red bears off two men, he creates an immediate weakness in his board. He will have to use his next three to play a man inside his home board, because he has cleared his 3-point. Also, if he bears off two men, Red leaves himself with an uneven number of men—13.

Consider the advantage of the alternative. By playing a man to his 3-point now, Red eases the pressure on his 6-point. And while he bears off only one man, he leaves himself with an even number of men.

Why this stress on odd and even numbers of men? Let's assume that both players roll perfectly. That means that White will need eight rolls to clear his board. Whether Red has 13 or 14 men left, he will need seven rolls to clear his board. Thus, Red gains no practical advantage by bearing off two men rather than one. Actually, by playing a man off his 6-point, Red makes it easier for him to roll perfectly, since he will need one fewer 6 to bear off.

However, there is not much to choose between the alternatives. If you choose to bear off two men, I would not fault you. It's just that most experts would prefer the other move.

Episcopal Church on Sunday, Feb. 3, to confirm a class of adults and children at a special 3 p.m. service.

A reception will follow in the parish hall.

The Eucharist will be celebrated this Sunday as usual at 8 and 10 a.m. and again at 5:30 p.m. Morning prayers will be read at 11:30 a.m.

CARMEL MISSION

A special Candle Mass will be celebrated at Carmel Mission on Saturday, Feb. 2, a special devotion day.

The Feast of the Presentation of Our Lord includes the blessing of the candles which will be used in church services during the year. Candles for homes will be available. Services will be at 7 a.m., 12:15 and 5:30 p.m.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Love is the title of the lesson-sermon to be read at the 11 a.m. and 5 p.m. services on Sunday.

Sunday school for young people under the age of 20 begins at 11 a.m. Sunday.

Testimonies of healing through Christian Science are given at 8 p.m. on Wednesday.

COMMUNITY

The Religious Education Board will meet on Wednesday, Feb. 6, at 7:30 p.m. in the church library.

FIRST BAPTIST

The Rev. Roy McBeth will deliver a sermon titled Persuasive Powers of a Good Mind and a Pretty Face at the 11 a.m. Sunday service at Carmel's First Baptist Church.

The Rev. McBeth will also present a sermon titled Israel (And We) Have a Great Future at the 6 p.m. service.

PRESBYTERIAN

William Welch, associate pastor of the Carmel Presbyterian Church, will deliver a sermon titled Those Who Know God are Faithful, Not Frantic at the 8:15, 9:30 and 11 a.m. Sunday services on Feb. 3.

The Brass Choir of Westmont College in Santa Barbara will provide music at the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services.

ST. PHILIP'S

The Rev. Luther H. Berven will deliver a sermon titled Agape—A Great Word at the 9:30 a.m. Sunday service at St. Philip's Lutheran Church.

Barbara Chapman of the Hidden Valley Music Seminar will provide musical selections for this Sunday's service.

THE WAYFARER

The Rev. Paul Woudenberg will continue his series of sermons on the subject of Christianity and Health at this Sunday's services. The sermon title for this week is Pain. It will be delivered at the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services.

MILTON CLAUSER

Milton Ure Clauser, the retired provost of the Naval Postgraduate School in Monterey, died Saturday, Jan. 26, at his Carmel home after a lengthy illness. He was 66.

Mr. Clauser moved to Carmel nine and a half years ago when he took a position with the NPS.

His professional and academic career included top administrative positions at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Purdue University.

Mr. Clauser was born on May 25, 1913, in Kansas City, Mo.

He received his bachelor of science, master's and doctoral degrees at California Institute of Technology in Pasadena. He worked in the engineering division of Douglas Aircraft Corp. from 1937 to 1950.

Before taking the post of academic dean at the Navy school, he also served as vice president for the Ramo-Woolridge Corp., headed the Lincoln Laboratory and taught aeronautics and astronautics at MIT.

Mr. Clauser retired from the Naval academy in 1974.

In 1972, he was awarded the Distinguished Public Service Medal from the Department of Defense for his work at MIT.

Mr. Clauser is survived by his wife, Virginia Clauser of Carmel; a son, Milton J. Clauser of Albuquerque, N.M.; a daughter, Marilyn A. Wales of Goleta; twin brother, Francis H. Clauser of Pasadena; a sister, Betty Valois of Anaheim and four grandchildren.

Memorial services were Tuesday, Jan. 29, at the Naval Postgraduate School chapel. The Rev. Roy McBeth officiated. Cremation was conducted under the direction of Paul Mortuary at the Little Chapel by the Sea, Pacific Grove.

The family suggests that any memorial contributions be made to the Monterey County Symphony Guild.

MARY G. MANDL

Mary G. Mandl of Hacienda Carmel, the wife of a former judge of the King City Justice Court, died Friday, Jan. 25, at Silas B. Hays Army Hospital, Fort Ord, following a short illness. She was 79.

Born July 29, 1900, in Rockford, Ohio, Mrs. Mandl lived in the Carmel area for 12 years. Before that she resided in San Benancio Canyon for 30 years.

Her husband, Joseph P. Mandl of Carmel, besides having been a judge, also practiced law in Salinas.

She is survived by her husband and a son, Charles B. Mandl of Bakersfield; two grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

Paul Mortuary conducted a private cremation at the Little Chapel by the Sea in Pacific Grove.

The family requests that any memorial contributions be made to the Monterey County Cancer Society or to the Central Mission Trails Heart Association.

JAMES A. MOODY

James A. Moody, a retired real estate broker, died Friday, Jan. 25, at Beverly Manor in Monterey. He was 79.

Mr. Moody was born on July 29, 1900, in Cambridge, Mass., and had moved to Carmel from Encino in 1955.

He was a member of the Sierra Club, the Audubon Society and the Nature Conservancy.

Mr. Moody is survived by his wife Margaret.

No services were conducted.

The family suggests that any memorial contribution be made to the Carmel Foundation, P.O. Box 3424, Carmel.

The California Cremation Society handled all arrangements.

YNEZ MILLS

Ynez Mills, a resident of Carmel, died Sunday, Jan. 27 at her home following a lengthy illness. She was 87.

Born April 25, 1892, in Los Angeles, Mrs. Mills moved from Arizona to Carmel with her late husband, retired mining engineer Carl E. Mills, in 1958.

She is survived by a son, Mark, and a daughter, Marcie, both of Carmel and two grandchildren.

Cremation was conducted under the direction of Paul Mortuary at the Little Chapel by the Sea. In keeping with Mrs. Mills' request, no services were conducted.

JANE L. AMBERG

Jane L. Amberg of Carmel died Tuesday, Jan. 22, at Carmel Convalescent Hospital after a brief illness. She was 70.

Mrs. Amberg was born Aug. 11, 1909, in Chicago, Ill., and had been a Carmel resident since 1966.

Mrs. Amberg is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Michael Loewenstein of Evanston, Ill.; two sons, Peter of Omaha, Neb., and Anthony of Chicago, Ill., and four grandchildren. Her husband, Gilbert, died in 1970.

Private cremation took place at the Little Chapel by the Sea, Pacific Grove. The arrangements were handled by Paul Mortuary. Ashes were scattered at sea. Memorial services were conducted in Chicago.

The family suggested that contributions be made to the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF).

PIN MONEY

No realtor can advertise property for little or no money. California property and especially Carmel land costs a lot. But some costs lots less than others. Especially for lots.

We have a third of an acre of level land with distant ocean views for the properly designed house at a price that is unmatched for value anywhere in the Carmel-Pebble Beach area. This lot can be yours for only $97,500.

That's a heck of a lot for not a lot.

CARMEL HIGHLANDS

If you like what you see, there's lots more. For example, the kitchen is just delightful—used brick floors, spacious and bright, and a breakfast nook looking out to the coastal grandeur. And the master bedroom is luxurious, with fireplace that interconnects with the study. This Francis Palm designed home is 4,000 square feet in all, yet really quite suitable for a small or large family. You must see it, however, to really appreciate the quiet elegance and beauty. The finest of Carmel Highlands properties. $550,000.

If this is your first Crosby...

...then you may have decided, like others, that you want to stay here forever. Come hail, rain or snow, this happens, and it's nothing to be ashamed of. This incredible combination of sea and sky and mountains and fairways, bunkers and greens brings on what is called the "Pebble Beach-Carmel Syndrome," a seductive viral infection that will get you if you don't watch out.

For instance, you may find yourself looking at houses instead of drives, chips and putts. Not to tempt you, but there are houses for sale along the fairways of all three Crosby courses. One we think of is just where drives land, and a long hook could wind up right in your rear (front?) garden. Nicklaus and Watson probably won't drop in on you there, but you might expect Stadler or Bean or Fuzzy Zoeller.

• Then there's another which faces what you might call the largest water hazard in the world, bordered by a sand trap of heroic dimensions. It's a spectacular two-bedroom beach house just a few hundred yards south of the 10th green on Pebble Beach. It fronts the sand, looks out to Stillwater Cove, Pescadero Point, Point Lobos and the endless ocean. A house this size could have had four bedrooms, but the designer chose instead to make two very special chambers. The master bedroom spans the house: mirrored walls, distinctive fireplace, corner windows opening to beach, surf and links; master bath with enormous shower and positively vulgar tub surrounded by sea-view windows. A second bedroom (with its own ocean view) would be Numero Uno in most houses. And add to this a large and versatile den.

The upper level has an elevated, window-ringed dining room, sunken living room, corner deck, intimate kitchen and breakfast nook, and powder room with a view of its own. The Crosby glamor carries over here, and it's $725,000.

Too much? Okay, there's another about a mile south on Carmel Point. Two blocks from the sea, views toward the mountains, two bedrooms and two baths, and the slickest guest house you ever saw! A solid beach-head in Crosby Country for $255,000.

There are others in this fantastic area, and we can show you desirable places from $150,000 up. If this is your first Crosby, don't let it be your last. Next year, be a host!

WELCOME GOLFERS!

OFFERING TWO GOLFER'S DREAM HOMES, each on a fairway and each offering superb golf course views.

OUR FIRST is on the 18th fairway of Spyglass Hill Golf Course, just an iron shot from the clubhouse. With four bedrooms and three baths, this handsomely redecorated home offers fairway views from living room, dining area, cozy den and master bedroom. There's a sunny walled courtyard, perfect for serving brunch on lazy Sunday mornings. Watch the Crosby from the terrace, and on a sunny day you may even find a glimpse of ocean through the trees! $350,000

OUR OTHER DREAM home is on the first fairway of the old Del Monte golf Course in Monterey's banana belt. It's a charming one-story home on 1 1/2 acres of gorgeous oaks and palms. With 4,000 square feet of living space, you'll find three bedrooms, a big garden room with its own fireplace, kitchen and dining area, and outdoor lanai. Golf course views from almost every window. Bids are subject to court approval. Call us for details—and for an appointment to see this fine property.

CARMEL CHARMER

YES, IT REALLY IS A CHARMER and furthermore it's located south of Ocean Avenue on an oversized lot so you could build a guest house if you wanted. This little jewel has two bedrooms (one with separate entrance), two tiled baths and a tiled kitchen. The cozy living room features open-beamed ceilings and a handsome stone fireplace. There is also a garage and loads of storage space. $205,000.

GET AWAY FROM IT ALL

HIGH ABOVE CARMEL VALLEY in Sky Ranch Estates is a brand new three-bedroom home with separate guest house and oversized garage on 10 acres of land, offering gorgeous panoramic views of sky, mountains and valleys. Besides three bedrooms, the main house has 2 1/2 baths, living room with attractive corner fireplace, big family room and spacious decks. Owner may help finance or will consider an exchange. Submit your offer! $345,000.

BARONET ESTATES

IDEAL for the executive who wants to be close to business in Salinas and to recreation opportunities in the Monterey Peninsula. This handsome cedar and redwood home just off Laureles Grade offers irreplaceable views of the rural countryside. Three levels with three comfortable bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths, living and family room with fireplaces, and many quality features. Owner will finance for qualified buyer or will consider lease option. See and submit! $265,000.

TOP OF THE WORLD

OCEAN AND CANYON views forever, sunshine and trees on these two separate but adjoining parcels in Palo Colorado Canyon on the south coast of Carmel. One parcel of nearly 21 acres is offered at $77,000, the other of 160 acres at $224,000. Submit your terms. A super investment!

Carmel

A flagstone path leads from the street past easy care, terraced ceanothus and cypress planting to reach this shake-roofed, frame cottage with the cherished charm and craftsmanship of an earlier Carmel era painstakingly preserved in all areas.

A now rare Carmel stone fireplace, pegged plank floor, beamed, wood cathedral ceiling, bookcases under paned, corner windows and painted paneling are delights in the living room off which is the dining area with two carefully crafted cabinets.

A windowed corner with built-in breakfast table, well-planned cabinet and counter space, electric range and refrigerator are found in the cheery kitchen with door to a patio for outdoor dining, off which is a service yard secluded by a fence.

Pretty planting, including camellias and a tree fern, borders this paved patio sheltered by high hedges providing perfect privacy. In addition to the kitchen, access to this sunny spot is found, also, in one of the two carpeted bedrooms off a hall with doors to the bathroom with shower and tub and to the garage with a genie door opener. Price of this spick and span, ready-to-move-into and captivating Carmel cottage is only $139,500.

A language course

Crosby jargon

If you're one of the lucky ticket holders at the 39th annual Bing Crosby National Pro-Amateur Golf Championship, perhaps the language of golf is as familiar to you as classical Mandarin. Here are some of the common terms of the game:

- Ace: a hole in one.
- Away: the ball farthest from the hole, which will be the next to be played.
- Best-ball: commonly used for a four-ball match, when two partners use only the better of their scores on each hole.
- Birdie: one stroke under par for a hole.
- Blast: to explode a shot out of a sand trap.
- Bunker: a sand trap, a depression forming a hazard for the player.
- Divot: clump of sod cut away by a golf club.
- Down: the number of holes a player or partners are behind their opponent. The opposite is "up," or holes ahead.

- Eagle: two strokes under par.
- Fore: a warning cry to any who might be in range of a ball being played.
- Gross score: score before handicap is deducted.
- Hole out: finish putting.
- Honor: the privilege of playing first which goes to the low scorer on the preceding hole.
- Lie: the position of the golf ball on the ground.
- Lip: the edge of the cup on the green into which the ball must be stroked.
- Medal play: also called stroke play, a competition in which the ball must be stroked.
- Net: score after deducting handicap.
- Scratch player: golfer with a zero handicap.

Pro-Am golfers compete for the Waterford trophy

Each year winners of the Crosby National Pro-Amateur Golf Championship go home with surely one of the world's most magnificent trophies, masterworks by Waterford Glass of Waterford, Ireland.

There is a perpetual trophy awarded to the pro and amateur winners, for one year, as well as a complete 58-piece suite of Waterford crystal, to retain permanently. Two hundred additional pieces will be awarded to other place winners this year.

Hand cut in one of Waterford's beautiful and intricate patterns, the trophies are engraved with the Crosby tournament emblem, and a profile of Bing Crosby.

At Waterford, each item of crystal is blown, fired, shaped and cut wholly by hand. Engraving is a highly specialized art—one motif may take weeks to complete and the engraver works entirely free hand from photographs and drawings. The finished design stands out in three dimensions.

Nowhere in the world are glassblowers more hailed for their talents than in the ancient city of Waterford. This small town on the south coast of Ireland existed long before the Vikings sailed around these coasts in their long boats.

The history of Waterford crystal began in 1783 when George and William Penrose petitioned Parliament for aid to establish the manufacture of flint glass.

Since then Waterford has become world-renowned as it embellishes elegant tables and finally, as it is presented to the finest golfer at the Crosby pro-am each year.

Fondly remembering the great Bing Crosby

"Der Bingle," "Old Dad," and "the Groaner," are the affectionate nicknames by which millions of people fondly remember the great Bing Crosby.

Winner of the Academy Award for his performance in the 1940 film Going My Way, Bing Crosby crooned hundreds of musical hits and perhaps sold more records than Elvis. Yet the game of golf meant more to him than the success the entertainment industry brought.

Born Harry Lillis Crosby in Tacoma, Wash., in 1903, Crosby began to caddy at a club in Spokane, Wash. when he was only 12 years old. His interest in the game never wavered through his years in law school at Gonzaga University in Spokane and while a singer in the big bands of the '20s and '30s.

A popular performer during the Depression years, Crosby nevertheless did not gain fame until a medical disaster turned into a career blessing. Nodules developed on his vocal chords causing him to lose his voice. When it came back, Crosby said the effect was like "a lad with his voice changing singing into a rain barrel."

Starring roles in the musicals Pennies from Heaven and Waikiki Wedding endeared him to millions during the late years of the Depression as his jazzy, romantic style of singing touched movie-goers everywhere.

While fortune followed him, he joined the Lakeside Golf Club near Los Angeles where he managed to play nine to 18 holes several times a week despite a rigorous studio schedule. His golfing talents earned him a position in the qualifying round for the U.S. Amateur Championship in 1940 though he failed in the match play rounds later.

Bing established the pro-am in 1937 ostensibly for fun and charity. The tournament was played at Rancho Santa-Fe near San Diego and was greeted by rains that washed out the first day of play. However, it did not dampen the spirits of the 68 pros and 68 amateurs who had gathered to play for the two-day, 36 hole affair. In a field that included Paul Runyan and Henry Picard, young Sam Snead won with a round of 68 on the second day and took home top prize money of $762.30.

The tournament grew in popularity and Crosby became the celebrity most closely identified with the game. However, the war years interrupted the tournament's continuity in 1942.

World War II did not cloud Crosby's meteoric rise to stardom. "Road" pictures co-starring Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour helped Americans momentarily forget the pain of Nazism as they flocked to the theaters for light-hearted comedy and music.

When Bing resurrected the pro-am in 1947, the Monterey Peninsula was chosen as its new home.

In that first tournament here, Bing increased the number of holes to 54 which were played over Cypress Point, Monterey Peninsula Country Club and Pebble Beach golf courses. Galleries grew each year as thousands of people came from throughout the United States to watch top pros and a star-studded assembly of amateurs compete.

During those years his career never wavered. In 1954, he gave a superlative performance in the drama Country Girl about a performer wallowing in self-pity who has a chance to make a comeback; and that same year Crosby starred in White Christmas, performing the Irving Berlin title song that was to become a classic and the tune most closely associated with him.

In 1958, Crosby again improved the tournament when he expanded the format to 72 holes and, in addition to the pros who qualified, allowed 30 low pro-am teams to play through to the final round on Sunday. Very little changed for the next 10 years until 1968, when play was changed to Spyglass Hill Golf Course from the Monterey Peninsula Country Club.

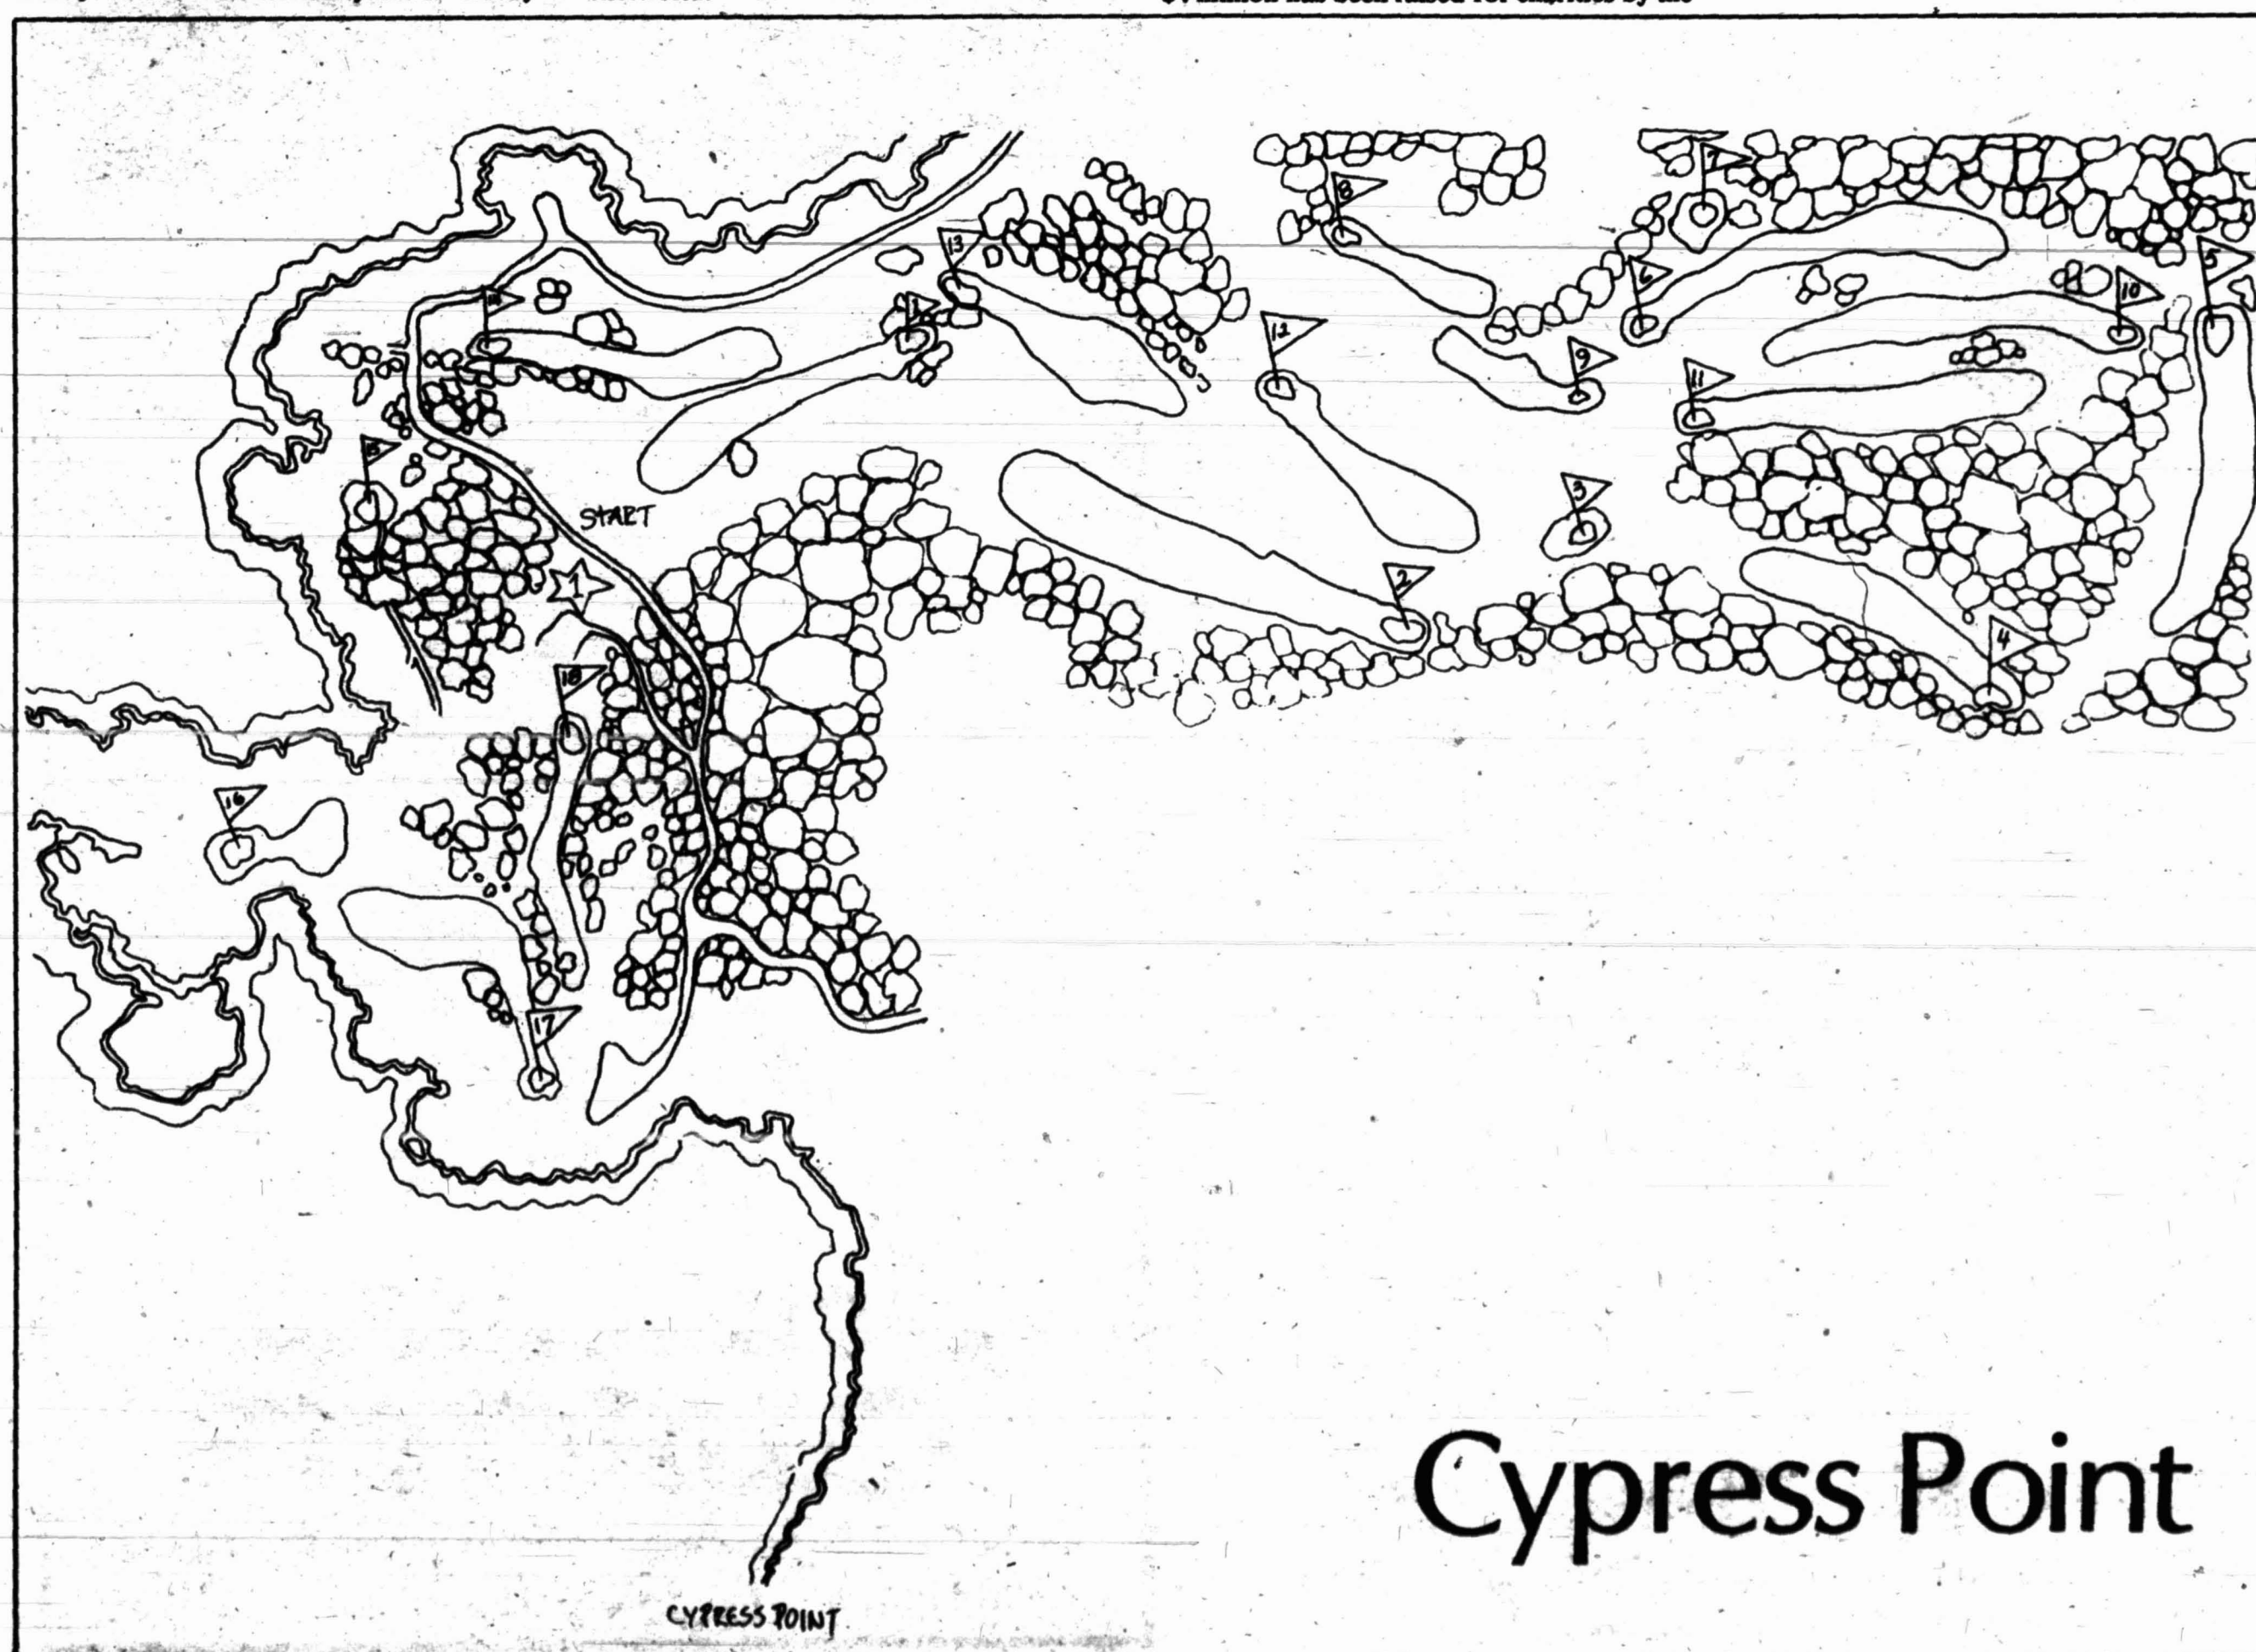

Though Crosby stopped playing in his tournament in 1956, the quality of golf competition never ceased. Golfing greats Sam Snead, Ben Hogan, Jimmy Demaret, Cary Middlecoff, Billy Casper, Jack Nicklaus, George Archer, and Johnny Miller have all taken top honors home after competing in his tournaments. Through howling winds, rain and even snow the tournaments continued to draw top players and earn millions of dollars for charity.

When Crosby died in 1977, it was on a golf course in Spain. It was a fitting end for a sportsman who shared his love of golf with the world.

THOUSANDS OF CROSBY fans flock to the tournament each year to see and perhaps meet their favorite stars and golfers. Nearly $4 million has been raised for charities by the efforts of the late Bing Crosby and the thousands of volunteers who have donated their time.

79 Crosby winner will defend his crown

Lon Hinkle, winner of the 38th annual Crosby Pro-Amateur Championship, had sailed through wind and some tough golf real estate into a five-shot lead after three rounds. But he quickly turned it into a three-man race by suffering through a rash of bogeys while Mark Hayes and Andy Bean rallied from behind.

When Hinkle bogeyed the 14th in the final round, Hayes was two shots ahead. But then

Hinkle's 12-foot birdie at the third playoff hole decided the championship

Lon Hinkle

Hayes four-putted the 15th hole for a double-bogey and when the 72nd hole was over, all three players were deadlocked at 284 and directed to the tee for overtime play. Hinkle's 12-foot birdie at the third playoff hole decided the championship.

After five seasons at considerably more than arm's length from the Top 60 exempt list, Lon Hinkle has now registered three solid seasons, each superior to the previous. He made the Top 60, in 60th position, in 1977 with $51,494 in earnings; advanced to 16th with a victory at New Orleans and $138,388 in 1978; and last season soared all the way to third place with $247,693 on the strength of victories at the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am and the World Series of Golf.

At the World Series, the weather was better and the results pleased Hinkle even more. Larry Nelson seemed to have the $100,000 first-place check wrapped up while Hinkle was finishing off his third 67, with a one-over 71 thrown in for variety. Nelson, however, buried his approach shot at the par four 17th and made double-bogey. Hinkle's eight-under 272 stood up.

Hinkle started playing the game at age 13, shortly after his family moved from Granville, Ohio, to the San Diego area. "I was a good baseball player," he says, "but I started to have trouble with my eyes, so I switched to golf. I'd play all day, whenever I could. I loved it."

The oldest of seven children, his entire family played in those days, and in junior tournaments around Southern California it wasn't unusual to find half a dozen Hinkles in the field.

The 31-year-old Hinkle is now married and has one child, Monique. His family resides in Dallas, Texas.

Bean has an 'off' season

When a player has an "off" season yet still wins one title and more than $200,000, the tag superstar may be applied without fear of contradiction. Although his 1979 season was a slight disappointment, coming after a 1978 campaign which produced three titles, Andy

Andy Bean

Bean added to some already impressive credentials last year.

In all, Bean cashed checks in 21 of the 29 events he started. He showed early leg by gaining a share of fourth place at the Phoenix Open, then nearly won the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am, tying with Lon Hinkle and Mark Hayes after 72 holes, only to lose the playoff to Hinkle's birdie on the third extra hole.

Just into his fifth PGA Tour season, the 6'4" athlete from Lafayette, Ga. and the University of Florida lists five career victories and more than $600,000 in career earnings.

His big win last year was at the Atlanta Classic, where he was two shots out of the lead after 36 holes, then uncorked a 61 to almost lap the field. His closing 67 left him with a gaping eight-shot margin of victory over runnerup Joe Inman. The margin of victory was the biggest of the year; his 61-67 finish tied for low back-to-back rounds of the year; and his total of 265 (23 under par) was also the year's low.

In his rookie year in 1976, the play of the then-23-year-old Bean was disappointing, especially to himself. "It was mainly temperament," he says. "I knew I had the game to play out here, but when I'd make a mistake I'd get hot at myself, and then would make everything worse. I wasn't able to manage my game."

Bean had the background to become a professional golfer. As a youngster, he lived on Jekyll Island, Ga., where his father was associated with a golf course. When he was 15, the family moved to Lakeland, Fla., where his father bought a course.

The young pro and his wife, Debbie, reside in Lakeland, Fla.

Hayes is bright young star

Mark Hayes is one of the bright young stars in the game, and his star never burned brighter than in 1977 when he mastered the elements at Sawgrass to win the Tournament Players Championship.

It established him as one of the fine shotmakers on the tour and although he has not won since then, his record of consistently strong finishes supports his position.

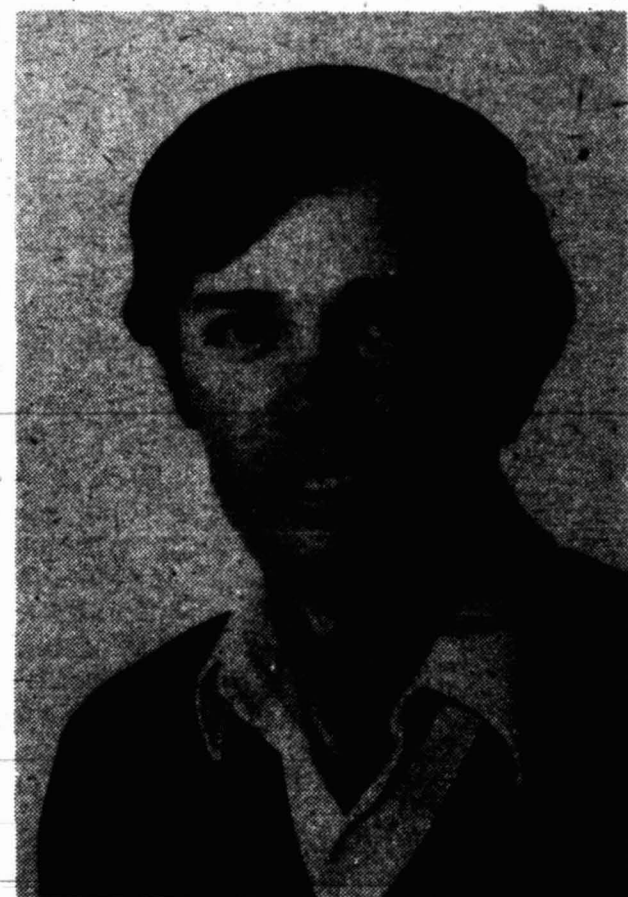

In last year's Bing Crosby National Pro-Amateur, he trailed winner Lon Hinkle by five at the start of the final round, and caught him. However, Hinkle won the three-way playoff on the third extra hole with a 12-foot birdie putt, edging out Hayes and Andy Bean.

In addition to a strong finish in the Crosby, he had seven top 10 finishes in 28 starts, and sent $130,878 to his banker. He had a brilliant start to the year, winning nearly $60,000 before he left the West Coast. He also had a pair of thirds, in the Phoenix Open and the IVB-Philadelphia Classic.

FORMER PRESIDENT Gerald Ford and Arnold Palmer proved to be a popular match at the Crosby Pro-Am last year though they failed to join the ranks of the low pro-am teams who played in the final round that Sunday.

PLAYED IN THE DEPTHS OF winter, weather has always been a trademark of the Crosby Pro-Amateur. "We have lots of it,"

Bing once quipped. Yet in 38 tournaments only seven days have been lost to the elements.

'Weather': a trademark of the Crosby Clambake

"Crosby Weather" is as much a part of the Clambake as bogies and birdies. The Monterey Peninsula, noted for its moderate climate, has played host to the Crosby amidst balmy temperatures one year and, yes, snow the next.

Played in the depths of winter, weather has always been a trademark of the classic. "We have lots of it," Bing once quipped. Yet in 38 tournaments only seven days have been lost to the elements. No one recalls the tournaments when the sun shone brightly on all four days of play.

At one time, the U.S. Weather Bureau in San Francisco predicted Crosby weather under a severe handicap. The forecasts were made according to statistics provided by the closest weather reporting station—the U.S. Navy weather office at Monterey airport. However, the hills that separate Pebble Beach from Monterey often vastly influenced the weather.

In 1968, winds gusted to more than 30 mph at Cypress Point on Friday afternoon though back at the airport the wind was recorded at only six mph.

That same year a golfing weatherman from Litton/Mellonics armed with an anemometer and psychrometer took weather observations at the 17th tee at Cypress Point which were then sent on to San Francisco. Forecasts have, since then, improved.

There is no set pattern to Crosby weather. In 1952, a year dubbed the "Year of the Big Blow," it poured on all four of the scheduled playing days while winds of up to 65 mph howled though 1953 is remembered as one of the best weather years.

Something unheard of on the Monterey Peninsula happened one cold January day in 1962. Crosby fans and players woke up to discover snow blanketing the ground on Sunday—too late for Bing Crosby's White Christmas. The next year a fashion show at the Crosby featured ski ensembles modeled under sunny skies.

Last year dismal skies cast a grey pallor over the Clambake during the pre-tournament exhibition though the clouds dispersed and temperatures later improved allowing the tournament to end in brilliant sunshine.

Rains have drenched the Peninsula during the past 27 years for five days on Jan. 28; seven days on Jan. 29; 12 days on Jan. 30; nine days on Jan. 31; 11 days on Feb. 1; seven days on Feb. 2 and for six days on Feb. 3, according to Renard.

Temperatures have reflected the moderate climate of Monterey with an average low of 44 degrees and an average high of 61. The lowest temperature, 27 degrees, was recorded on that chilly morning in 1962 (during the same month and year a high of 84 degrees was recorded).

Renard said that winds on a clear warm day during this period are a gentle five mph though gusts from 30 to 40 mph are often recorded as a result of storm activity.

This year he said that the weather outlook calls for above normal temperatures with normal rainfall.

Fair weather or foul, Crosby fans are treated to the best golf exhibition in the country with the rocky shores of the Monterey Peninsula and the blue Pacific providing a backdrop of unparalleled beauty.

Champion golfer Nicklaus competes in Clambake

For the first time since he turned professional and joined the PGA tour for the start of 1962, Jack Nicklaus did not win a golf tournament.

He made 12 starts in 1979, made the cut in all 12 and his best finish was a tie for third in the IVB-Philadelphia Classic, thanks to a last-day 65. He had two other top 10 finishes,

Miller pulls out of slump

Though Johnny Miller finished well away from the leaders in the 38th Clambake, top finishes later in the season indicated that the 1973 U.S. Open Champion is pulling out of his slump.

During the Colgate Hall of Fame Classic in 1979, he had just produced a vintage Miller round—a 63 over the rugged Pinehurst No. 2 course during the second round. "It was one of those old ball-striking rounds like I used to have. I almost got a tingling feeling," he said.

Miller bogied the final hole of the fourth round to drop into a tie with Tom Watson, then lost the playoff on the second extra hole. But that failed to dim the growing evidence that Miller is again climbing the ladder out of his playing slump. The slump first appeared in 1977 and deepened to a dismal $17,440 in earnings and 111th position on the money list during 1978.

Miller pulled his earnings up to $49,265 last season, posting solid finishes at the Canadian Open (ninth), the Greater Milwaukee Open (12th), and the Byron Nelson Classic (19th).

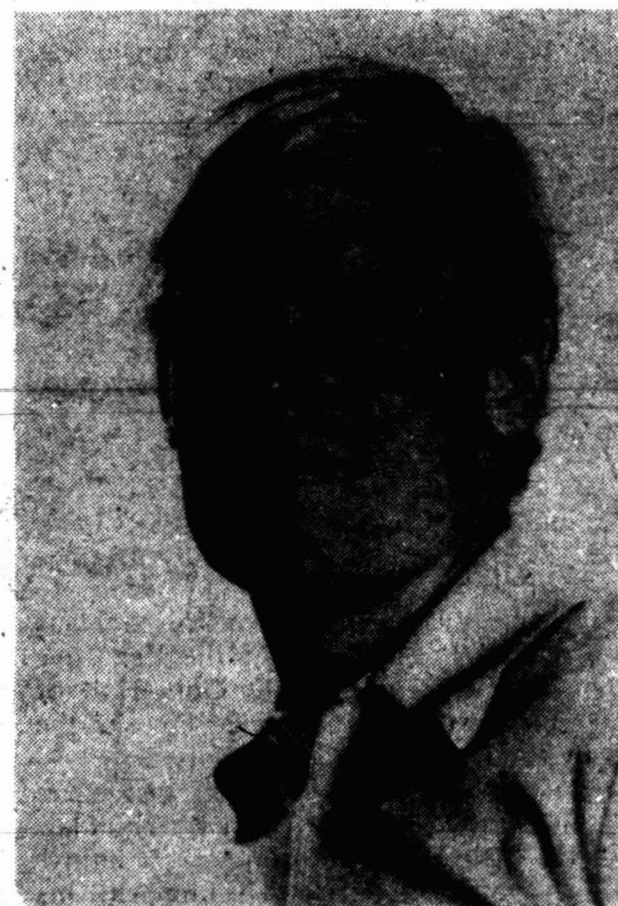

Miller's arrival as a star has always been tied to his '73 Oakmont triumph. However, he enjoyed his finest season the following year, winning eight tournaments and $353,021, a record sum until 1978. Miller opened that amazing campaign with 23 consecutive rounds of par or better, winning the first three events of the year, the Bing Crosby Pro-Am, the Phoenix Open and the Tucson Open.

In 1975, Miller devastated the desert once again. In the season open at Phoenix Country Club he had rounds of 67, 61, 68 and 64 en route to a 24-under 260 and finished 14 strokes ahead of runnerup Jerry Heard. The next week at Tucson, Miller was 25 under par recording scores of 66, 69, 67 and 61 for a nine-shot victory over John Mahaffey.

Miller's last PGA tour win came at the 1976 Bob Hope Desert Classic, and with that victory he became the ninth player to pass $1 million in career earnings on the tour.

Miller now resides in Napa with his wife, Linda Strouse, and their five children.

a fourth alone in the Master, just one stroke out of the Zoeller-Snead-Watson playoff, and a tie for ninth in the U.S. Open.

In all his years, he had never finished worse than fourth on the money list, and he was that low only twice in 17 years. In 1979 he plunged to 71st place with $99,434.

In his only other tournament for the year, he tied for second in the British Open at Royal Lytham.

The spiralling dive of the champion golfer may be an intentional ploy. Nicklaus, whose career earnings total $3,408,827, once incidentally captured tournament after tournament while experimenting with new strokes to prepare for the big ones. His titles include the U.S. Open 1962, 1967, 1972; Bing Crosby National Pro-Amateur, 1967, 1972, 1973; and the Masters, 1963, 1965, 1966, 1972, 1975. In all, the 40-year-old golfer has won 66 tournaments.

His achievements have led to Nicklaus being named PGA Player of the Year five times, named to the World Golf Hall of Fame and most recently named Player of the '70s by the California Golf Critics.

Nicklaus now maintains two residences with his family in North Palm Beach, Fla., and Muirfield Village, Ohio and enjoys fishing, hunting, tennis and skiing with his wife, Barbara, and five children.

Lee Trevino is still a gallery favorite

Gallery favorite Lee Trevino has a very impressive record as it is, but if he could find a way to change a few of his runner-up finishes into victories, it truly would be spectacular.

For example, he won once in 1978 and was second five times. Last year he again had one victory, and was the runner-up on four occasions. That shows how well he has played, and last year he did earn a personal high of $238,732 and became only the second player to earn at least $2 million on the tour.

The victory came in the Canadian Open (he also won the Canadian PGA, a non-tour event last year), while he tied for second in New Orleans, Milwaukee and in the World Series of Golf. He was second alone in the Bob Hope Desert Classic.

All of this is even more remarkable when you know he underwent back surgery in November of 1976 to repair a herniated disc. Trevino tied for 54th in the 1966 U.S.

JACK NICKLAUS, three-time Crosby champion, winner of 66 tournaments and named to the World Golf Hall of Fame, will compete again this year.

Open at Olympic Club in San Francisco and he didn't try the tour again until a year later at Baltusrol. He placed sixth in that U.S. Open and was on the tour to stay. He was chosen "Rookie of the Year" for 1967. Twelve months after Baltusrol, the quick-quipping Merry Mex from Dallas was entertaining everyone at the margarita party in the clubhouse at Oak Hill Country Club, Rochester, where he had just won the 1968 U.S. Open.

Lee won the U.S. Open again in 1971, defeating Jack Nicklaus in a playoff at Merion, and in a span of five weeks that summer he added the Canadian and British Open titles to his fast-growing collection. He was named Player-of-the-Year practically by acclamation.

Respected for his playing abilities and loved for his wit, Trevino is always a gallery favorite at the Crosby Pro-Amateur. Last year a marshal dressed in bright patchwork pants was the object of a Trevino quip. "My, your wife doesn't throw anything away, does she?" he remarked.

Thirteen top-ten finishes for golfer Hale Irwin

Though Hale Irwin slipped out of the top 10 on the money list last year for the first time in seven years, he won the 1979 U.S. Open for the second time in his professional

Like his first Open victory at Winged Foot, the second came "at a much-revered and respected course, Inverness in Toledo, Ohio. And again Irwin withstood the pressures of the tournament and a respected group of challengers.

The year didn't start too well for the 11-time winner from Missouri. He missed the cut in his first start, the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am, ending his string of 86 consecutive events in which he had made the cut. But he rebounded with a tie for ninth at the Hawaiian Open, tied for 11th at Los Angeles and then posted consecutive third-place efforts at the Bay Hill Citrus Classic and the Jackie Gleason Inverrary Classic.

During 1978, Irwin earned $191,666—most ever by a player without benefit of a victory at that time. He had an amazing 13 top-ten finishes in 22 tournaments.

Hale's most satisfying year after 10 on the tour came in 1977. He won three tournaments—a personal high—and his most notable performance came in the Colgate Hall of Fame Classic. In that event, Irwin devastated Pinehurst's revered No. 2 course in a record smashing 264—20 under par—to win by five strokes. He also passed the $200,000 mark for the third consecutive time, a feat equalled in the same year by just one other player, Jack Nicklaus.

Irwin left the University of Colorado in 1968 with a degree in marketing, an NCAA golf title and the honor of having been selected twice as an All-Big-Eight Conference defensive back. He joined the PGA Tour that fall and climbed steadily on the money list each year through 1976.

Although he twice won the Heritage Classic on the demanding Harbour Town Links on Hilton Head Island, S.C., Hale was among the less familiar U.S. Open champions when he captured that major crown in 1974 at Winged Foot. His second place in the 1976 World Series lifted him over $1 million in career earnings.

Irwin resides with his wife, Sally, and their two children in Frontenac, Mo.

Courtesy a must on the course

The click of a camera or an audible whisper is enough to distract a golfer as he concentrates on a shot that may capture the Crosby crown. A courteous gallery is as important to the tournament as the players; consequently, the marshals, who are there to assist you, ask that spectators follow certain rules to help the tournament run smoothly.

- An admission ticket or official badge must be worn at all times.

- Spectators are asked to stay behind the ropes, obey the command of the marshals to remain where they are and keep off the greens, tees and out of the sand traps.

- As tempting as it may be, spectators are requested to refrain from asking for autographs while on the course.

- Do not help a golfer out if his ball drops out of bounds at your feet. He will take a penalty stroke and hit the ball from where it lands but it should not be touched or tossed on to the fairway by a spectator.

- Always keep your eye on the ball. A well-hit drive can travel at more than 100 mph.

A true sports success story

Larry Nelson's success in 1979 was one of the outstanding sports stories of the year.

Nelson emerged as one of the top and toughest contenders, winning two tournaments, finishing second twice and third twice. He also was the outstanding player in the Ryder Cup matches, going undefeated in five outings.

He finished with $281,022 for the year and the No. 2 position behind Tom Watson. Although it will be hard to duplicate the year he has had, the quiet golfer from Georgia figures to be a solid performer in the years to come.

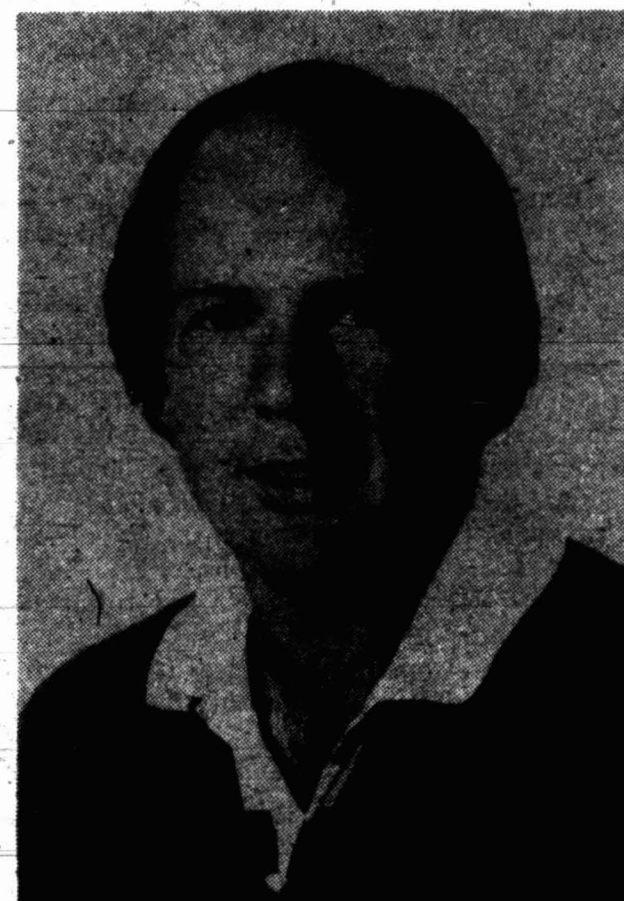

His first career Tour victory came in the Jackie Gleason-Inverrary Classic in March, and he won again at the Western Open in July, defeating Ben Crenshaw in sudden death.

Nelson's golf success story is one of the most unusual on the PGA tour. Only four years after he started to play golf, and after playing only one 72-hole tournament, he had his Approved Tournament Players card. "I really wasn't ready," he said later, but he got ready in a hurry, as witness his steady climb up the money rankings since then.

His golf career began in 1969. He went to a driving range and liked hitting balls so much that he went to work in pro Bert Seagraves' shop at the Pine Tree Club in Kennesaw, Ga., and turned pro six months after that. He tried the mini-tours briefly and, in 1973, finished bogey-bogey in the Florida State Open to lose by a shot. That was his lone 72-hole event before earning his Tour card that fall.

Nelson resides with his wife Gayle and their two children in Acworth, Ga.

Jerry Pate

Pate earned $193,000 in 1979

Jerry Pate's earnings in 1979, $193,707, represented a high mark in his four-year tour career, and he had 11 top 10 finishes in 27 starts. Yet the year was a disappointment for him. None of his finishes led to a victory.

He was second three times, to Tom Watson in the Tournament of Champions, to Jerry McGee in the Kemper Open and to Hale Irwin in the United States Open.

He made a strong bid for his third straight Southern Open. He was only one stroke off the pace after three rounds, but the bogeyman on the back nine the last day grabbed him.

Pate burst into world-wide attention as a PGA Tour Rookie in 1976. His last swing in the U.S. Open, a five-iron from the rough at Atlanta Athletic Club, left him a two-foot birdie putt for a two-shot victory, and his closing 63 in the Canadian Open was good for a four-stroke victory over Jack Nicklaus. His total of $153,102 in official earnings was the most ever won by a rookie.

Pate lives in Pensacola, Fla. with his wife, Soozie, and their daughter, Jennifer, while relaxing away from the rigors of the PGA Tour.

Graham improves with age

Like the famous sippin' whiskies produced in his native Nashville, Lou Graham improves with age. Though he had not won a tour title in three years, Lou Graham turned into a three-time victor and winner of more than $190,000 in 1979.

He doubled his career victory total in less than three months, bringing the number to six, and raced into the million dollar career earnings circle in one fabulous season.

Graham's wins can be traced to major changes in his approach—an entirely new set of irons for openers, along with a new putter, surrendering one which had given him 12 years of service. The irons had been with him for 17 years—since 1962, when Graham first turned professional.

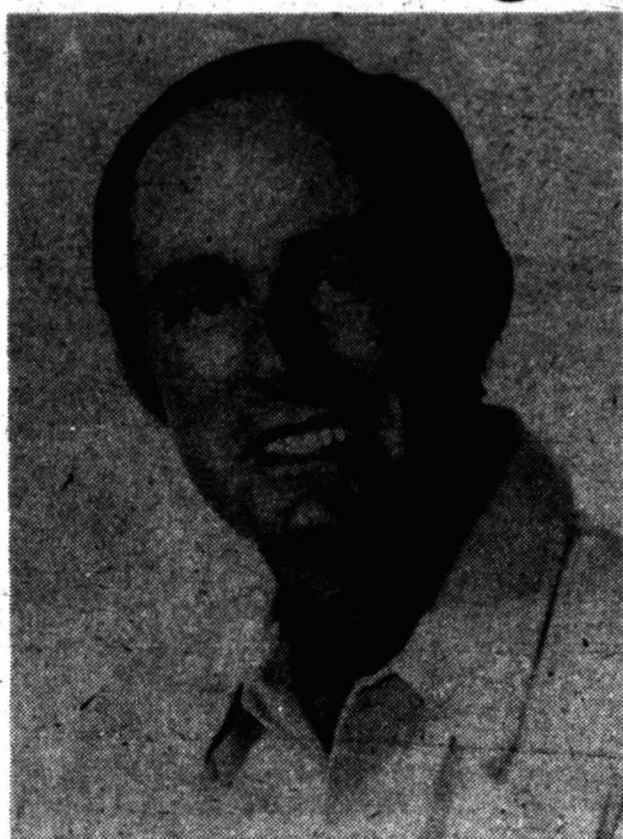

Graham had begun the 1979 season in a slump, the deepest of his career. He was beyond telescope range of the Top 60 when after eight months of agony, the touch returned at the IVB-Philadelphia Classic. Starting the final round six shots back Graham scorched Whitmarsh Valley with eight birdies and one bogey for a 64 which pulled him into a tie with Bobby Wadkins after 72 holes. He promptly knocked in a 2½-foot birdie on the first playoff hole to settle the issue.

Five weeks later, his 71-69 in the 36-hole final day of the Pleasant Valley Classic edged Ben Crenshaw by a single shot. And then at the San Antonio-Texas Open, he returned cards of 69-64-69-66 for a 12-under 268 which provided another one-shot margin of victory over pursuing Doug Tewell, Bill Rogers and Eddie Pearce.

The last year Graham earned less than $100,000 was 1975—the year he won the U.S. Open at Chicago's Medinah Country Club. His initial tour title came in 1967 at the Minnesota Classic, and he also won the 1972 Liggett & Myers.

Graham turned pro after his discharge from the Army in 1962 and worked at two clubs near Baltimore before striking out on the tour in 1964. He won his first tour event, the Minnesota Classic, three years later. Only once since then, when he needed surgery to repair tendinitis in his left hand in 1969, has he failed to finish among the Top 60 money winners.

The 15-year professional lives in Nashville with his wife Patsy. They have two children.

Lou Graham

Wadkins back in the groove

Golfers still shake their heads when the conversation gets around to the 1979 Tournament Players Championship at Sawgrass. They still find it hard to believe what Lanny Wadkins did that week.

With the winds howling off the sea, gusting up to 45 miles per hour the last afternoon, Lanny finished with a five-under par 283 and won by five strokes over Tom Watson. More than half of the final field didn't even break 300.

Lanny assumed the lead after the second round and never was deterred.

He went through his first 18 starts before missing the cut in the Canadian Open, the only time he failed to survive the axe all year.

Lanny's amateur career was brilliant, highlighted by a victory in the 1970 U.S. Amateur. It wasn't any surprise when he became an immediate success on the PGA Tour. After earning his player's card in the fall of 1971, he went on to win the 1972 Sahara Invitational.

CLINT EASTWOOD is always available to sign an autograph for a fan.

His superb play continued through 1973, winning $200,455, with victories in the Byron Nelson Classic in Dallas and the USI Classic in Sutton, Mass.

His game started to sag in 1974. As the year progressed, he found it difficult to maintain his energy. In the fall his ailment was diagnosed as a diseased gall bladder and in early December he underwent an operation for its removal.

Going against doctor's orders, he returned to the PGA Tour in less than three months. Still weak, he developed bad habits and he admits it wasn't until mid-1976 that he was able to get his game back in its original groove.

And back in the groove it is as is evident with his wins at the 1978 Canadian PGA and 1978 Garden State PGA, in Australia and the 1979 Japan Open.

Born in Richmond, Va., in 1949, the southerner now resides in Carrollton, Texas with his wife, Penelope, and their daughter Dawn.
